ADVERTISEMENT.

THE favourable reception with which the preceding Editions of this Peerage have been honoured, demands the editor's most grateful acknowledgments; it has encouraged him to lay before the Public a Ninth Edition, in which very considerable additions have been made, not only to the principal, but also to the collateral branches, which have been rendered more clear and distinct than in any former Edition. In the mean time, the original matter has been most carefully revised, and the strictest attention applied to the correction of inaccuracies in every department of the work.

In the humble hope that he may have performed the duties incumbent on him, he entreats the Public to accept his most sincere gratitude for its former favours. At the same time, he begs leave to observe, that in works of this nature, omissions and inaccuracies will unavoidably occur, which the most sedulous attention cannot prevent; he trusts, however, that a general correctness may be justly pleaded in atonement for occasional deficiencies.

* * Communications for this work are respectfully requested to be addressed to the Editor, at Messrs. F. C. and J. RIVINGTON's, St. Paul's Church Yard; T. Egerton, Whitehall; and J. Harding, St. James's Street.

March 28, 1814.

AN

HERALDIC ENGRAVED TERMS

In Plates A, B, C, D, E, F, G, and H.

PLATES A and B.

DISTINCTIONS used by the Blood Royal upon their arms and supporters. See the Plate.

PLATE C.

The POINTS of the ESCUTCHEON.

These points, by armors, are used to determine exactly the position of the bearings they are charged with; and the knowledge of these points ought to be well observed; for the same figure, in the same tincture, borne in different points of the escutcheon, renders those bearings as many different arms. Note. The use of these points is to difference coats exactly; for example, an arms having a lion in chief differs from one having a lion in base. See Plate.

DISTINCTIONS OF HOUSES.
PLATE C.

These distinctions inform us how the bearer of each is descended from the same family; they also denote the subordinate degrees in each house from the original ancestors, viz.

First House—For the heir or first son, the label; second son, the crescent; third son, the mullet; fourth son, the martlet; fifth son, the annulet; sixth son, the fleur-de-lis. PLATE D.

By the tinctures or colours, is meant that variety of hue of arms common both to shields and their charges: the colours generally used are red, blue, sable, vert, purple. Note. Yellow and white, termed or and argent, are metals; these colours are represented in engravings by dots and lines, as in the Plate.

Or is expressed by dots.

Argent is plain.

Gules, by perpendicular lines.

Azure, by horizontal lines.

Sable, by perpendicular and horizontal lines crossing each other.

Vert, by diagonal lines from the dexter chief to the sinister base point.

Purple, by diagonal lines from the sinister chief to the dexter base.

FURS. Plate D.

There are different kinds, and represent the hairy skins of certain animals, prepared for the linings of robes of state; and anciently shields were covered with furred skins; they are used in coats of arms, viz.

ERMINE is black spots on a white field.

ERMINES, is a field black with white spots.

ERMINOIS, is a field gold with black spots.

VAIR, is white and blue, represented by figures of small escutcheons arranged in a line, so that the base argent is opposite to the base azure.

POTENT-COUNTER-POTENT, is a field covered with figures like crutch heads. See Plate.

CHARGES. PLATE D.

Charges are whatsoever bearings or figures are borne in the field of a coat of arms.

RAMPANT, signifies the lion standing erect on one of his hind legs.

RAMPANT GARDANT, is a lion standing on his hind leg, looking full-faced.

RAMPANT REGARDANT, standing upon his hinder leg, looking back towards his tail.

PASSANT: this term is to express the lion in a walking position.

SEJANT, for the lion sitting, see the example.

SALIENT, is when the lion is leaping or springing forward, see the example.

COUCHANT, is a lion lying at rest, with the head erect.

PASSANT

PASSANT GARDANT, for a beast, when walking, with its head looking full-faced.

COUPED, cut off smooth and even, as the example.

ERASED, signifying torn or plucked off, as the example.

DEMY, is the half of any charge, as the example, a demy-lion.

DORMANT, for sleeping with its head resting on its fore paws.

PLATE E.

PARTITION LINES, by which is understood a shield divided or cut through by a line or lines either horizontal, perpendicular, diagonal, or transverse: the engraved examples are the crooked lines of partitions, viz. engrailed, innecked, wavy, nebulé, embattled, raguly, indented, dancetté, dove-tail.

ROUNDELS. PLATE E.

ROUNDELS are round figures much used in arms; the English Heralds vary their names according to their colour, thus:

OR,	is termed a	Bezant.
ARGENT,		Plate.
GULES,		Torteaux.
AZURE,		Hurt.
SABLE,		Pellett.
VERT,		Pomey.
PURPURE,		Golpe.

CRESCENT, or half-moon,

having its horns turned upwards.

Increscent, differs from the crescent, by having its horns turned to the dexter side.

Decrescent, is the reverse of the increscent, having its horns turned to the sinister side.

ROSE, is represented in heraldry, full blown, with five green barbs, and seeded in the middle.

ANNULET, or ring, and by some authors supposed to be rings of mail.

CHESS-ROOK. This piece is used in the game of chess.

STAR, in heraldry, is termed an Estoile, having six waved points.

TREFOIL, or three-leaved grass.

QUATREFOIL, or four-leaved grass.

CINQUEFOIL, or five-leaved grass.

MASCLE is in shape like the lozenge, but is always perforated, as the example.

FOUNTAIN, an heraldic term for a roundel barry wavy of six, argent and azure.

BILLET, a small parallelogram, supposed to be letters made up in the form of the example.

RUSTRE is a lozenge pierced round in the middle.

GUTTY, in heraldry, signifies drops of any thing liquid quid, and, according to their colour, are termed as follows : if

OR, Gutte d'or.
 ARGENT, Gutte d'eau.
 VERT, Gutte d'olive.
 GULES, Gutte de sang.
 AZURE, Gutte de larmes.
 SABLE, Gutte poix.

PLATE F.

FESS, an ordinary composed of two horizontal lines drawn across the centre of the shield.

CHEVRON, an ordinary in form like two rafters of a house, or a pair of compasses extended.

BEND, an ordinary, drawn diagonally from the dexter chief to the sinister base, and takes up one third of the field.

PALE, an ordinary, which is placed perpendicular in the centre of the shield.

CHIEF, an ordinary, which always occupies the upper part of the shield, and contains in depth the third of the field.

CROSS, an ordinary, composed of four lines, four perpendicular, and two transverse.

SALTIRE, an ordinary, in form like the cross of St. Andrew.

BEND-SINISTER, which is placed diagonally from the sinister chief to the dexter base of the shield.

QUARTER, an ordinary formed of two lines, one perpendicular, the other horizontal, taking up one fourth of the field, as the example.

CANTON, an ordinary, in form like the quarter, but the size is only the third part of the chief.

PILE, an ordinary, like the foot of the pile that is driven into the ground to make the foundation of a building in swampy ground.

FLANCHES, are composed of two circular lines, and are always borne double, as the example.

FLORY, a cross, the ends terminating in fleurs-de-lis.

MOLINE, a cross, which turns round both ways at the extremities like a hook.

PATTEE, a cross, small in the centre, and widening to the ends, which are very broad.

CROSSLET, a cross, crossed again at the extremities at a small distance from each of the ends.

LOZENGE, a four-cornered figure, like a pane of glass in old casements, supposed to be a physical composition given for colds, and was invented to distinguish eminent physicians.

MULLET

MULLET consists of five points, and pierced in the centre, and is supposed to represent a spur rowel.

MILL-RIND, a cross, in form like the mill-ink which carries the mill-stone, and is perforated in the centre.

WATER-BOUGET, anciently used as a vessel by soldiers for carrying water in long marches.

PLATE G.

HELMETS were formerly worn as a defensive weapon to cover the bearer's head: a helmet is now placed over a coat of arms as its chief ornament, and a mark of gentility.

First is a side-faced helmet of steel, with the vizor shut, for an esquire.

Second is a full-faced helmet of steel, with the vizor open, for knights or baronets.

Third is a side-faced helmet of steel, the bars and ornaments of gold, for the nobility.

Fourth is a full-faced helmet, with bars all of gold, for the sovereign and princes of the blood royal.

CLOSE, signifies the wings of a bird are down and close to the body.

RISING. This term is for a bird when in a position as if preparing to fly.

DISPLAYED, signifies the wings of an eagle to be expanded, as the example.

VOLANT, a term for any bird represented flying.

TRIPPING, a term for a stag, antelope, or hind, when walking.

COURANT, for a stag, or horse, or greyhound, running.

At GAZE, is a term for a stag or hind; when looking full-faced, is termed at gaze.

LODGED, signifies the stag to be at rest on the ground.

INVERTED, is for two wings conjoined, and the points of the wings downwards.

ERECT, is for two wings conjoined, and the points erect, or upwards.

HAURIANT. This term is for a fish when erect, paleways, as putting its head above water.

NAIANT, for a fish, when borne horizontally across the shield, as swimming.

COCKATRICE, a chimerical figure used in heraldry; its beak, wings, legs, comb, wattles, and spurs, partake of the fowl; and its body and tail, of the snake.

WYVERN. This, like the former, is chimerical, and differs differs from the cockatrice, its head having no comb, wattles, or spurs.

DRAGON. This is an heraldic figure, as drawn by heralds. See the example.

TIGER. This, like the former, is of heraldic creation; being so different from the tiger of nature, it is termed the heraldic tiger.

CHECKY, is a shield or bearing, covered with small squares of different colours alternately.

GYRONNY, is a shield divided into six or eight triangular parts of different colours, and the points all meeting in the centre of the shield.

PALY, is a shield divided into four, six, or more equal parts, by perpendicular lines, consisting of two colours.

BARRY, is a shield divided into four, six, or more equal parts, by horizontal lines of two colours.

PLATE H.

BACHELOR.

The arms of a bachelor; whilst he remains such, he may quarter his paternal coat with other coats, if they belong to him, but he may not impale it till he is married.

MARRIED MAN.

A married man is to conjoin the coat armours of himself and wife, in one escutcheon paleways; the man's on the dexter side of the shield, and the woman's on the sinister side.

AN HEIRESS.

When an heiress is married, her arms are not to be impaled with her husband's, but are to be borne on an escutcheon of pretence, placed in the centre of the shield. Note. The escutcheon of pretence displays his pretension to her estate; and if the husband has issue by her, the heir of those two inheritors shall bear the hereditary coats of father and mother quarterly.

QUARTERLY.

Is an arms divided into four parts by a perpendicular and horizontal line crossing each other, in the centre of the shield, into four equal parts, termed quarters.

MAID.

The arms of a maid are to be placed in a lozenge; and if her father bore any difference in his coat, the same is to be continued; for,

for, by the mark of cadency of her father's, will be denoted what branch she is from.

WIDOW.

The arms of a widow are to be impaled with the arms of her late husband; her husband's on the dexter side, and her's on the sinister side, upon a lozenge, as the example.

KNIGHT OF THE GARTER AND HIS LADY.

When a knight of the garter is married, his wife's arms must be placed in a distinct shield, because his arms are surrounded with the ensign of that order; for though the husband may give his equal share of the shield and hereditary honour, yet he cannot share his temporary order of knighthood with her.

COMMONER AND HIS LADY.

The arms of a commoner married to a lady of quality: he is not to impale her arms with his own; they are to be set aside of one another in separate shields, as the lady still retains her title and rank. See the example.

NOBILITY IN ENGLAND.

THE degrees of nobility in the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland are five, viz. Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, and Barons; to which may perhaps be properly added a sixth, viz. the Archbishops and Bishops, as they are from their rank entitled to a seat in the house of peers, and possess for their lives all the faculties and privileges of the peerage.

DUKE, in Latin Dux, à ducendo, signifying the leader of an army, noblemen being anciently either generals and commanders of armies in time of war, or wardens of marches, and governors of provinces in peace. This is now the first rank of the nobility; but it was the 11th of Edward III. 1336, before this dignity was introduced into England, when his eldest son, Edward, commonly called the Black Prince, was created duke of Cornwall. The only ceremony at his investiture was girding him with the sword. When John of Gaunt, son of king Edward III. was created duke of Lancaster by the same monarch, he had investiture, not only by the king's girding him with the sword, but by putting on him a cap of fur, under a coronet of gold, set with precious stones. In the 21st of king Richard II. 1397, the duke of Hereford and several others were created by putting a cap of honour on their heads, and by delivering a rod into their hands; then the surcoat, mantle, hood and patent, were introduced with much ceremony; all of which is at this day omitted. The mantle and surcoat which a duke wears at the coronation nation of a king or queen is of common velvet, lined with white taffeta, and the mantle is doubled from the neck to the elbow with ermine, having four rows of spots on each shoulder; his parliamentary robes are of fine scarlet cloth, lined with taffeta, and is doubled with four guards of ermine at equal distances, with gold lace above each guard, and is tied up to the left shoulder by a white ribbon; his cap is of crimson velvet, lined with ermine, having a gold tassel on the top; and his coronet, which is also of gold, is set round with golden strawberry leaves. He is styled His Grace; and by the king or queen, in public instruments, Our right Trusty and right entirely Beloved Cousin; and if of the privy council, then with the addition of Counsellor. His general style is, The most High and Mighty Prince; all his sons are by courtesy styled Lords, and his daughters Ladies.

MARQUESS (Marchio) was first styled so from the government of marches or frontier provinces, by the Saxons Markin Reeve, and by the Germans Markgrave. This title, which hath the next place of honour to that of a duke, was introduced several years subsequent to the establishment of that dignity in England; and the first on whom that honour was conferred was the great favourite of king Richard II. Robert de Vere, earl of Oxford, who was created marquess of Dublin, and by him placed in parliament between the dukes and earls. The creation to this dignity was with nearly the same ceremony as that of a duke; but they are now created by patent under the great seal without any additional ceremony. His coronation robes are of crimson velvet, lined with taffeta, and has four guards of ermine on the right side, and three on the left, set at equal distances, with gold lace above each guard, and tied up to the left shoulder by a white ribbon; his cap is of crimson velvet, lined with ermine, having a gold tassel at top; his coronet is of gold, and has pearls and golden strawberry leaves mixed alternately round, of nearly equal height. His general style is, Most High and Mighty Prince; and he is styled by the king or queen, Our right Trusty and entirely Beloved Cousin. His sons, by the courtesy of England, are styled Lords, and his daughters Ladies.

EARL, anciently called Comes, being in the habit of comitari regem, to wait on the king for counsel and advice. The Germans call them Graves, as Landgrave, Margrave, Palsgrave, and Rheingrave. This honour, which was derived from the Saxons, was of great dignity and power, and for many ages continued the highest rank in England, till king Edward III. created dukes and marquesses, both of whom had precedence assigned above earls. They had anciently, for the support of their state, the third penny out of the sheriffs' court, issuing out of the pleas of the shire, from whence they assumed their title; as in ancient times there were no counts or earls but had a county or shire for his earldom: subsequently the number of earls increasing, they have frequently taken their titles from some eminent town or village, or even from their own seat or park, and some from illustrious families, as Poulett, Cholmondeley, Ferrers, Waldegrave, Stanhope, Ashburnham, &c.; nor were titles confined to England alone, as some were taken from the kingdom of France, as Albemarle and Tankerville. Upon the increase of earls, their revenue ceased, and their powers were much abridged, and it became the custom of the monarchs of England to assign some stated pension to the person whom he ennobled, for the better support of his dignity, and it was commonly done in the following proportion: viscounts, a fee of 20 marks; earls, of 20*l.*; marquesses, 40 marks; and dukes, of 40*l.* out of some particular part of the royal revenue. A creation fee to barons has not as yet been settled; but Charles I. when he created Mountjoy Blount, lord Mountjoy, of Thurodstan, co. Derby, assigned to him and his issue male a creation fee of 20 marks per annum. Anciently an earl was created with nearly the same ceremony as a duke or marquess; but they now receive merely letters patent. His coronation robe is the same as a duke or a marquess, except that he has only three guards of ermine and gold lace; his cap is the same as theirs. It is uncertain when the coronets of dukes, marquesses, marquesses, and earls were settled ; sir Robert Cecil, earl of Salisbury, viscount Cranbourn, was the first of that degree that wore a coronet. An earl's coronet has pearls raised upon points, and strawberry leaves low between them. His style is right Honourable ; and he is addressed by the king or queen, Our right Trusty and right well Beloved Cousin.

VISCOUNT (Vicecomes) was anciently the name of him who held the chief office under an earl, who being oftentimes at court, was his deputy to look after the affairs of the county ; but in the reign of Henry VI. 1439, it became a degree of honour, and was made hereditary. The first viscount in England created by patent was John, lord Beaumont, who was by the above monarch created viscount Beaumont, and he gave him precedence above all barons. He is created by letters patent. This title was forfeited in 1461, restored in 1485, and became extinct in 1509. His coronation robes are the same as an earl's, with the exception that he has only two rows of plain white fur on his parliamentary robes ; his cap is the same, and the golden circle of his coronet is surmounted by fourteen pearls. His style is, right Honourable ; and he is addressed by the king or queen, Our right Trusty and well Beloved Cousin.

BISHOPS. The precedence of bishops was settled by statute 31 Henry VIII. 1539, chap. x. to be next to the viscounts. They have the style of Lords, and Right Reverend Fathers in God. Previous to the Saxons coming into England, there were in that kingdom three archbishoprics, viz. London, York, and Caerleon upon Usk, each of which had many suffragans ; but soon after St. Augustine's arrival in England, he, from the great kindness he received from the king of Kent, settled the metropolitan see at Canterbury, where it has continued to the present time. York continued archiepiscopal, but London and Caerleon lost that dignity. The latter was situated too near the Saxons to be much at ease ; so that one of its bishops removed the see to St. David's, in South Wales. The archbishop of Canterbury is the first peer in Great Britain next the blood royal ; the lord high chancellor is the next ; and the archbishop of York is the third : they take precedence of all dukes, and have the title of Your Grace given them. The archbishop of Canterbury styles himself, By Divine Providence ; but the archbishop of York, and the other bishops, By Divine Permission. The bishops of London, Durham, and Winchester, have precedence of all the other bishops ; the others ranking according to the seniority of their consecration.

BARON. This dignity, which is either by writ or patent, the former descendible to heirs general, the latter limited to heirs male, is extremely ancient, and its original name in England was Varassour, which by the Saxons was changed into Thane, and by the Normans into Baron. Many of this rank are named in the History of England, and undoubtedly had assisted, or been summoned to parliament ; but from the deficiency of public records, it has so happened that the first precept to be found bears no higher date than the 49 Henry III. 1264, which, although it was issued out in the king's name, yet was neither by his authority nor by his direction ; for not only the king himself, but his son, Prince Edward, and most of the nobility who continued loyal to the monarch, were then prisoners in the hands of the rebellious barons ; having been so made in the month of May preceding, at the battle of Lewes, and so continued until the memorable battle of Evesham, which took place in August, in the subsequent year ; when, by the fortunate escape of Prince Edward, he rescued the king and his adherents out of the hands of Simon Montfort, earl of Leicester. It cannot be doubted but that several parliaments were held by King Henry III. and by King Edward I. yet no record has been handed down to us, by which we are enabled to ascertain this circumstance (except the 5 Edward I. 1276), until the 22d year of this last mentioned sovereign, anno 1293. Some of the barons were summoned but once. When a baron is called up to the house of peers by writ of summons, the writ is in the king's name, and usually runs in these terms : " Whereas by reason of certain arduous and urgent affairs concerning us, the state and defence of our kingdom of Great Britain and the church, we strictly enjoin you, under the faith and allegiance by which you are bound to us, that, considering the difficulty of the said affairs and dangers impending, all excuses being laid aside, you be personally present at our parliament, Westminster, (or elsewhere), with us, and the prelates, nobles, and peers of our kingdom, to treat of the said affairs, and to give your advice; and this you may in no wise omit, as you tender us and our honour, and the safety and defence of the said kingdom and church, and the dispatch of the said affairs." The ceremony of the admission of a baron, as well as of all other orders of the temporal peerage, into the house of peers, is thus: He is brought into the house between two barons, who conduct him up to the lord chancellor, his patent or writ of summons being carried by Garter king of arms, who presents it to the lord chancellor, who reads it, and then congratulates him on his becoming a member of the house of peers. The patent is then delivered to the clerk of the parliament, and the oaths are administered to the new peer, who is then conducted to his seat on the barons' bench. The first who was advanced to the dignity of baron by patents was John de Beauchamp, of Holt Castle, created baron of Kidderminster, co. Worcester, to him and his heir male, by Richard II. 1387. He invested him with a mantle and cap. The robes of a baron have but two guards of white fur, with as many rows of gold lace: in other respects they are the same with those of other peers. King Charles II. granted a coronet to the barons, who till his reign wore only a plain circle of gold; it has now six pearls, set at equal distances on the circle. His style is, Right Honourable; and he is styled by the king or queen, Right Trusty and well Beloved.

SCOTS AND IRISH PEERS.

Scots peers take place of all those of the same rank created since the Union, and peers of Ireland, according to their dignity, take place immediately after the youngest of their rank of British peers.

THE PRIVILEGES OF THE PEERS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

The nobility of England enjoy many great privileges, the principal of which are as follows:

1. That they are free from all arrests for debts, as being the king's hereditary counsellors. Therefore a peer cannot be outlawed in any civil action, and no attachment lies against his person. This privilege extended also to their domestic servants, as well as to those of members of the lower house, till the year 1770, when their lordships most honourably joined the house of commons in a bill for abolishing it; an occasion on which the truly wise and liberal arguments, and the enchanting eloquence, of the celebrated William Murray, earl of Mansfield, stand recorded to his immortal honour. [Vide DEBRETT'S Debates in Parliament, 1743 to 1774, vol. V. p. 192.] For the same reason, they are free from attending courts leet, or sheriffs turns; or, in case of riot, from attending the posse comitatus.

2. In criminal causes they are only tried by their peers, who give their verdict, not upon oath, as other juries, but only upon their honour; and then a court is erected on purpose in the middle of Westminster Hall, at the king's charge, which is pulled down when their trials are over.

3. To secure the honour of, and prevent the spreading of any scandal upon peers, or any great officer of the realm, by reports, there is an express law, called scandalum magnatum, by which any man convicted of making a scandalous report against a peer of the realm (though true) is condemned to an arbitrary fine, and to remain in custody till the same be paid.

4. Upon any great trial in a court of justice, a peer may come into the court, and sit there uncovered.

No peer can be covered in the royal presence without permission for that purpose, except the lord baron of Kinsale, of his majesty's kingdom of Ireland. See DE COURCY, Baron Kinsale, in the Peerage of Ireland. In case of the poll tax, the peers bear the greatest share of the burden, they being taxed every one according to his degree.

Crom a boo. I will burn. The words Crom a boo were abolished by law in Ireland, as the name of Macgregor was legally annulled in Scotland, being the means of encouraging dissension among noble families. An act passed (10th Henry VII. c. 20.) for abolishing the words Crom a boo, Butler a boo, Shanet a boo, Galriah a boo, and they were all adjudged unlawful; by this celebrated statute it is enacted, "That no person or persons, of whatsoever estate, condition, or degree, do take any part with any lord or gentleman, or uphold variances or comparisons in word or deed, by using those words, CROM A BOO, BUTLER A BOO, or such-like words, or otherwise, contrary to the king's laws, his crown, dignity, and peace, but to call only on St. George, or the name of his Sovereign Lord the King for the time being; and if any person do contrary, or offend in the premises, he may be taken and committed to ward, there to remain, without bail or mainprize, till they have made fine, after the discretion of the king's deputy of Ireland, and the King's council of the same for the time being." There was also also an association of the lords of the Pale, or district of only five counties, in which alone the English laws were predominant till the reign of Henry VIII. in order to prevent the Irish from marauding, and to suppress insurrections, &c. called the fraternity of St. George; and this is the allusion in the above-named act of parliament. d Leinster, 43.

DEBRETTS'S PEERAGE

THE UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

DESCENT OF THE ROYAL FAMILY OF GREAT BRITAIN.

THE illustrious HOUSE of BRUNSWICK traces its origin to a very remote antiquity, in the several lines of Este, of the Guelphs, of Billing, and Witekind the Great; all of which became united in the person of Henry Leo.

The HOUSE of ESTE, which is the male line, derives its origin from the Actii, a noble Roman family in the time of Tarquinius Priscus: this family retired from Rome during its republican government, settled themselves

selves at Este, a city in that part of Italy which is now called Venetian Lombardy, and assumed the name of the place of their residence. There is, however, no satisfactory account of them till the year of our Lord 390, at which time Caius Actius is known to have resided in the castle of Este. This line continued through various successions to Hugo III. who was margrave of Este, Milan, Genoa, and Tuscany; he died in 1046, and was succeeded by his son Azo III. called the Great, who married Cunegunda, daughter and heiress of Guelpho III. duke of Lower Bavaria, and count of Weintgarden.

The LINE of the GUELPHS derives itself from the Scythians, who, being driven by the Goths from their settlement at the mouth of the Danube, first erected a kingdom upon the borders of Germany, near the German sea. On their arrival they were called Newmagæ, or new kindred: they afterwards passed under the denomination of Sicambri, and, lastly, of Franks, or Franconians.

Marcomir, the first king of the Sicambri, took possession of that country now called West-Friesland, Guedres, and Holland, at a very early period; and the succession continued through a long line, to Henry IV. duke of Bavaria, called Superbus, who was poisoned in 1139, in the city of Quedlinburgh, during a negotiation between him and the emperor Conrad. He left one son, Henry Leo, in whom, by the marriage of his grandfather with Wufhildis, of Saxony, and of his father with Gertrudis, daughter of the emperor Lotharius, the lines of Billing and Witekind became blended with those of the House of Este and the Guelphs.

The LINE of BILLING is traced from Hermannus Billing, the son of Billing of Stubeckeshom, a person of high distinction in Lunenburgh, who was created duke of Saxony on the Elbe, in the year 960, by the emperor Otho I. as a reward for the eminent services which he had rendered him. His last male descendant dying in 1106, without any male issue, his daughter Wufhildis became sole heiress to the duchy of Saxony, and was married to Henry III. duke of Bavaria.

The LINE of WITEKIND. The history of the ancient Saxons is so involved in obscurity, that we must begin the line of Witekind with the last elected king of the Saxons, who was contemporary with Charlemagne, and proceed to Henry, surnamed Leo, who obtained from the emperor Barbarossa, about the year 1156, in addition to his own dominion, the city and county of Hanover, on the Lein, and also large possessions on the Hartz: he first married Clementia, daughter of Conrad, duke of Zaringen, by whom he had a daughter, Rixa, or Richenza: he afterwards espoused, as his second wife, Matilda, eldest daughter of Henry II. of England, from which marriage descended the families of Brunswick, Grubenhagen, Gottingen, Lunenberg, Calenburg, Wolfenbittel, Harburg, Zell, Giffhorn, and Danneburg.

The BRITISH LINE may be traced in the following course of succession:

John, the second son of Henry II. was crowned in 1199, and died in 1216: he was succeeded by his son, Henry III. who died 1272, and was followed by his son, Edward I. who died in 1307. At his death Edward II. ascended the throne, and was succeeded by Edward III.

whose eldest son, Edward the Black Prince, dying before his father in 1376, he was succeeded in 1377, by his grandson, Richard II. who was deposed in 1399, and succeeded by his cousin, Henry IV. who died in 1412, when his son Henry V. ascended the throne, and died in 1422. That monarch was succeeded by his son, Henry VI. who was deposed in 1461, when Edward IV. descended from the third son of Edward III. mounted the throne, and died in 1483. The short usurpation of Richard III. was followed by the accession of Henry VII. descended from John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster, fourth son of Edward III. ; on his marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of Edward IV. the family was again united : Henry VII. dying in 1509, left three children, a son and two daughters, the youngest of whom married James IV. king of Scotland, who was, in 1513, succeeded in that kingdom by his son James V. whose daughter, Mary, was mother of James VI. of Scotland, and the first of that name in England ; his daughter, Elizabeth, married Frederick, king of Bohemia, by whom she had a daughter, Sophia, married to Ernestus, elector of Hanover, the representative of the house of Brunswick, Hanover, Lunenburg, Wolfenbuttel, Zell, &c. by whom she had a son, George, who, according to the provisions made by parliament for the succession of the crown in the protestant line, on the death of queen Anne, in 1714, ascended the throne of Great Britain.

His majesty was married, Nov. 21, 1682, to Sophia-Dorothy, only child of his uncle, George-William, duke of Zell, by whom he had issue, George-Augustus, his successor, and Sophia-Dorothy, who was married, Nov. 28, 1706, to Frederick-William, afterwards king of Prussia ;

Prussia; he departed this life at Osnaburgh, June 11, 1727, on his journey to his German dominions, in the 68th year of his age, and the 13th of his British reign.

George II. was born Oct. 30, 1683; ascended the throne on the death of his father; was crowned Oct. 11, 1727, and departed this life at his palace at Kensington, Oct. 25, 1760, in the 77th year of his age, and the 34th of a glorious reign.

His majesty was married, Aug. 2, 1705, to Wilhelmina-Carolina, eldest daughter of John-Frederick, margrave of Brandenburg-Anspach, by his second wife, Eleanor-Erdmuth-Louisa, daughter of John-George, duke of Saxe-Eisenach. Was born March 1, 1683, and died at St. James's Palace, Nov. 20, 1737.

The issue of their majesties, king George II. and queen Caroline, were,

1. Frederick-Lewis, late Prince of Wales.

2. Anne, born Oct. 22, 1709, and died in 1759; married, March 14, 1734, William-Charles-Henry, prince of Nassau and Orange, by whom she had the present prince of Nassau and Orange, the late Stadtholder, married, 1767, Frederica-Sophia-Wilhelmina, by whom he had issue two sons, William-Frederick, born Aug. 1, 1772; and William-George-Frederick, born Feb. 15, 1774, who died in Jan. 1799. The eldest son married, Oct. 1, 1791, Frederica-Sophia-Wilhelmina, sister to the late king of Prussia, and has issue. The late stadtholder's daughter, Frederica-Louisa-Wilhelmina, born Nov. 18, 1770, married on Oct. 14, 1790, the hereditary prince of Brunswick-Wolfenbuttel. The late Stadtholder's sister, Wilhelmina-Carolina, married to the prince of Nassau-Weilburg, had issue, and died in May 1787.
the

DUKES OF THE BLOOD ROYAL.

GEORGE-AUGUSTUS-FREDERICK, Prince of Great Britain, PRINCE of WALES. Feb. 5, 1811, his R. H. was appointed Prince Regent of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland; Electoral Prince of Brunswick-Lunenbourg, Duke of Cornwall and Rothesay, Earl of Chester and Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles, Hereditary Great Steward of Scotland, a Colonel in the Army, and Colonel of the 10th Regiment of Light Dragoons, Captain-General of the Artillery Company, High Steward of Plymouth, Knight of the Garter, and F.R.S. born Aug. 12, 1762; and, on the 17th of the same month, his Majesty ordered letters patent for creating him Prince of Wales and earl of Chester; and in Nov. 1783, his Royal Highness took his seat in the house of peers; in 1765 elected a Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, and installed at Windsor, July 25, 1771. Married, April 8, 1795, Caroline-Louisa-Elizabeth, 2d daughter of his late Serene Highness, Charles-William Ferdinand, Duke of Brunswick, born May 17, 1768, by whom he has

has a daughter, CHARLOTTE-CAROLINE-AUGUSTA, born Jan. 7, 1796.

The first creation of a Duke in England was by charter, March 13, 1336, Edward III. in favor of his son Edward, surnamed the Black Prince, in which he was declared Duke of Cornwall, to himself and his heirs, Kings of England and their first born sons; by virtue of which charter, the eldest son of the King of England is, by law, acknowledged Duke of Cornwall the instant he is born: at the same time, by patent, a provision was made for the better support of his dignity and honor; and notwithstanding some of the lands granted on this occasion lay in other counties, yet they were deemed a part of the duchy of Cornwall. A grant was also made to him, by patent the same day, of the Stannaries in Cornwall, together with the coinage of tin, and all the issues and profits that might arise from thence; as also of the profits and perquisites of the court of Stannaries, except only one thousand marks, payable to William Montague, then Earl of Salisbury, and his heirs, and of the revenue thereof, till a proper compensation was made to the said Earl. And again, of all the castles, honors, manors, &c. belonging to the dukedom, or of the earldom of Cornwall, which were held in Dover, as they fell in: these several grants were made to this prince, as Duke of Cornwall, and confirmed to him, and the eldest sons of him and his heirs being Kings of England.

The earldom of Chester was a creation of an earlier date, and annexed to the crown for ever by letters patent, 31 Henry III. 1246, when Prince Edward, his eldest son, was immediately created earl thereof. This honor was conferred upon Edward the Black Prince when he was but three years old, and previous to his accession to the duchy of Cornwall. The title of Prince of Wales, after the reduction of the British Prince, Llewelyn, and the incorporation of that country with England, was conferred upon Prince Edward, the son of Edward I. to conciliate the minds of the disaffected Britons, who were upon all occasions ready to revolt, and had even the boldness to declare to their conqueror, that they never should be easy and happy till they were again under the government of a prince of their own. Edward I. to comply with their wishes, without lessening the power of the King of England in that country, sent for his Queen Eleanor, when far advanced in her pregnancy, to Carnarvon-Castle in Wales, where she was delivered of a son April 25, 1284. The King then summoned all the Barons of Wales to join in a conference upon special affairs; and when they were assembled at Ruthin, told them, as they had often expressed a desire that he would appoint them a prince, and as he was going to depart out of the country, he was ready to comply, provided they would abide by his nomination. They unanimously promised obedience, with this restriction, that the appointment should be one of their own country. The king then declared that he would name one who was born in Wales, and could not speak one word of English, whose life and conversation no man was able to stain. A general consent ensued on the part of the barons, and the King named his own son Edward, then but a few days old, since which the principality has always been under the government of the English, though the title of Prince of Wales has been several times merged in the crown.

The Prince of Wales, though a subject, is so sacred in the eye of the law, that it is high treason to imagine his death, or to violate his wife.

The titles of Hereditary Great Steward of Scotland, Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, and Baron of Renfrew, were titles annexed by King Robert III. 1284, to the eldest Prince of Scotland on his birth, and have continued from that period to the present time.

The Prince of Wales may qualify as many chaplains as he may think proper.

PRINCE FREDERICK, DUKE of YORK and ALBANY in Great Britain, and Earl of Ulster in Ireland, Bishop of Osnaburg, Knight of the Garter and Bath, LL.D. F.R.S. and a Field-Marshal, Commander in Chief of all the King's Land Forces in the United Kingdom, Colonel of the first Regiment of Foot Guards, Colonel in Chief of the 60th (or Royal American) Regiment of Foot, and of the Royal Dublin Regiment of Infantry, officiating Grand Master of the order of the Bath, Lord Warden of Windsor Forest and Great Park, High Steward of New Windsor, and Warden and Keeper of the New Forest, Hampshire; 2d son of his Majesty. Born Aug. 16, 1763. Created as above, Nov. 27, 1784. Married, Sept. 29, 1791, to Frederica-Charlotte-Ulrica-Catharina, Princess Royal of Prussia, born May 7, 1767, eldest daughter to the late king of Prussia, Prussia, by his first consort, Elizabeth-Ulrica-Christiana, princess of Brunswick-Wolfenbuttel, sister to the late duke.

In 1809, his Royal Highness was accused of corruption in the administration of his office as commander-in-chief of the army; for which purpose a motion was made in the House of Commons by Mr. Wardle, Jan. 27, "That a committee be appointed to investigate the conduct of the Commander-in-Chief with respect to promotions, &c." The question that a committee of the whole house be appointed was agreed to nem. con. and the house began to hear (Feb. 1,) evidence, which was continued Feb. 3, 6, 10, 13, 14, and 17; and on March 8, the order of the day was moved for taking the evidence into consideration, which was continued on March 9, 10, 13, 14, and 17th, when the following motion of the Right Hon. Spencer Perceval, chancellor of the exchequer, was carried by a majority of eighty-two:

"That this house having appointed a committee to investigate the conduct of his Royal Highness the Duke of York as commander-in-chief; and having carefully considered the evidence which came before the said committee, and finding that personal corruption, and connivance at corruption, have been imputed to his Royal Highness, find it expedient to pronounce a distinct opinion upon the said imputation, and are accordingly of opinion that it is WHOLLY WITHOUT FOUNDATION!"

Thus ended this extraordinary affair, in which after so many days and nights of anxious inquiry, his Royal Highness received a clear, unqualified and unconditional acquittal by the House of Commons; then it was with the spirit

spirit becoming his illustrious character, he seized the first moment to tender his resignation as COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF ; an office which, by the acknowledgement of all parties, he had so ably, faithfully, and diligently administered for the benefit of the public during a period of fourteen years.

May 25, 1811, his Royal Highness was re-appointed COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF, to the great joy of the army, and of all those persons who were qualified to appreciate the anxious care, impartiality, kindness and ability with which his Royal Highness had executed the duties of that most important station.

PRINCE WILLIAM-HENRY, DUKE of CLARENCE and ST. ANDREWS in Great Britain, and Earl of Munster in Ireland, Knight of the Garter and Thistle, Admiral of the Fleet, and Ranger of Bushy Park ; 3d son of his Majesty. Born Aug. 21, 1765. Created as above, May 16, 1789.

Arms—See Plate 3.

PRINCE EDWARD, DUKE of KENT and STRATH-ERN in Great Britain, Earl of Dublin in Ireland, 4th son of his Majesty, Knight of the Garter, Thistle, and of St. Patrick, Field-Marshal of the Forces, Governor of Gibraltar, Colonel of the royal Scots Regiment of Foot, Keeper and Paler of Hampton-Court Park. Born Nov. 2, 1767. Created as above, April 23, 1799.

Arms—See Plate 4.

PRINCE

PRINCE ERNEST-AUGUSTUS, DUKE of CUMBERLAND and TIVIODALE in Great Britain, Earl of Armagh in Ireland, 5th son of his Majesty, LL.D. Born June 5, 1771; a Knight of the Garter, Chancellor of the University of Dublin, a Field Marshal in the Army, and Colonel of the 15th Regiment of Dragoons. Created as above, April 23, 1799.

May 31, 1810, a most atrocious attempt to assassinate his Royal Highness was made by Sellis, a valet de chambre of his Royal Highness, who, though he deeply wounded and maimed the Duke, did not succeed in taking away his life. The wretch returned back to his room and cut his own throat. A coroner's inquest was held on the body of Sellis, who returned a verdict of felo de se.

Arms—See Plate 4.

PRINCE AUGUSTUS-FREDERICK, DUKE of SUSSEX, Earl of Inverness in North Britain, Baron Arklow in Ireland, Knight of the Garter. Born Jan. 27, 1773; 6th son of his Majesty. Created as above, Nov. 7, 1801. His Royal Highness married, April 3, 1793, lady Augusta Murray, daughter of John, 5th earl of Dunmore, by whom he had a son, Augustus-Frederick, born Jan. 13, 1794; and a daughter; and were re-married, on the 5th Dec. 1793, at the parish-church of St. George, Hanover-square, London. This marriage was declared null and void, being in violation of stat. 12 Geo. III. c. 11, which enacts that no descendant of the body of King George II. (other than the issue of princesses married married into foreign countries,) is capable of contracting matrimony without the previous consent of the King, signified under the great seal; and any marriage contracted without such consent is void. All persons solemnizing, assisting, or being present at, any such prohibited marriage, incur the penalties of premunire: and the marriage was accordingly dissolved in August 1794.

Arms—See Plate 4.

PRINCE ADOLPHUS - FREDERICK, DUKE of CAMBRIDGE, Earl of Tipperary in Ireland, and Baron of Culloden in North Britain, 7th son of his Majesty. Born Feb. 24, 1774; Knight of the Garter, a Field Marshal in the Army, Colonel of the 2d or Coldstream Regiment of Foot Guards, and Colonel of the King's German Legion. Created as above, Nov. 27, 1801.

Arms—See Plate 5.

Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, a General in the Army, Colonel of the 3d Regiment of Foot Guards, Ranger of Bagshot Park and Walk. Born at Rome Jan. 15, 1776. Succeeded his father, Prince William-Henry, the late Duke, Aug. 25, 1805.

His

His Highness's father, Prince William-Henry, Duke of Gloucester, 3d son of his Royal Highness Frederick-Lewis, Prince of Wales, and brother to his Majesty, was born Nov. 25, 1743, and by patent, Nov. 14, 1764, created Duke of Gloucester and Edinburgh in Great Britain, Earl of Connaught in Ireland, Knight of the Garter, Senior Field-Marshal of his Majesty's Forces, Colonel of the first Regiment of Foot Guards, Chancellor of the University of Dublin, Ranger and Keeper of Cranborne Chace, Ranger of Hampton-Court Park, Lord Warden and Keeper of the New Forest, Hampshire. His Royal Highness married, Sept. 6, 1766, Maria, Countess Dowager Waldegrave, relict of James, 2d Earl of Waldegrave, daughter of the hon. Sir Edward Walpole, K.B. 2d son of Robert, 1st Earl of Orford, and by her (who died Aug. 23, 1807,) had issue: 1. Sophia-Matilda, born May 29, 1773; 2. Caroline-Augusta-Maria, born June 24, 1774, died March 14, 1775; 3. William-Frederick, born at Rome Jan. 15, 1776, the present duke. His Royal Highness died Aug. 25, 1805, and was succeeded by his only son, William-Frederick, the present duke.

Arms—See Plate 5.

CHARLES HOWARD, DUKE of NORFOLK, Earl Marshal and hereditary Earl Marshal of England; Earl of Arundel, Surry, and Norfolk; Baron Howard, Fitz-Allan, Clun, Oswaldestre, Maltravers, Furnival, Verdon, and Lovetot. Premier Duke, Earl, and Baron next the Blood Royal; chief of the illustrious family of the Howards, Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the county of Sussex, Recorder of Gloucester, High Steward of Hereford, F. R. and A. S.; born March 15, 1746; succeeded his father, Charles, the late duke, Aug. 31, 1786; married, 1st, Aug. 1767, Mary-Anne, daughter and heiress of John Coppinger, esq. of Ballyvolane, in the county of Cork, (who died in child-bed, without issue, May 28, 1768;) 2dly, April 2, 1771, Frances Scudamore, only daughter and heir of Charles-Fitzroy Scudamore, esq. of Home-Lacey, co. Hereford, by the duchess of Beaufort, (daughter and sole heir of James, viscount Scudamore, of Ireland, by Frances, only daughter of Simon, 4th lord Digby,) by whom he has no issue.

Sir John Howard was created lord Howard in 1459, and, in 1483, was advanced to the dignity of duke of Norfolk, in right of his wife, Margaret, daughter and co-heiress of John de Mowbray, duke of Norfolk, whose ancestor, Thomas de Mowbray, earl of Nottingham, was created duke of Norfolk in 1398, being grandson of Margaret Plantagenet, duchess of Norfolk, daughter and sole heir of Thomas Plantagenet, earl of Norfolk, 2d son of king Edward I.

From the abovementioned sir John Howard, 1st duke of Norfolk, are descended several of the most noble and distinguished families of Great Britain, and he is one of the very few mediums through which the illustrious blood of Plantagenet can be laid claim to. His grace was the common ancestor of the earls of Suffolk and Berkshire; of the barons and earls of Effingham, the first of whom was Lord High Admiral of England, K. G.; of the earls of Stafford; and of Sheffield barons and earls of Mulgrave, and dukes of Buckingham. (See sir John Sheffield in Debrett's New Baronetage.) His Grace's son became 2d duke of Norfolk, and m. to his 2d wife, Agnes, daughter of Hugh Tilney, esq. and had William, 1st lord Howard of Effingham, who m. to his 2d wife the daughter of sir Thomas Gamage, and had, among other issue, Douglas, who m. John, 2d lord Sheffield, (ancestor of the duke of Buckingham, privy seal to his sister-in-law, queen Anne) and by him had issue, Edmund, 1st earl of Mulgrave, whose line conjoined with that of Howard and Plantagenet, was carried on by the late Stephen Cassan, barrister at law, youngest son of Stephen Cassan, of Sheffield-house, Queens County, and father of Stephen Hyde Cassan, gentleman commoner of Magdalen Hall, Oxford. (See earl of Effingham.)

Philip Howard, eldest son of Thomas, the 4th duke of Norfolk, K. G. (who was beheaded on Tower-hill in 1573, for his attachment to Mary, queen of Scots,) m. Anne, daughter of Thomas, lord Dacre, of Gillesland; and left an only son, Thomas, m. Alatheia, daughter and co-heir to Gilbert Talbot, the 7th earl of Shrewsbury, and had six sons, sons, viz. 1. James, to whom king James I. stood god-father, July 17, 1607, and who died a few years after; 2. Henry, his successor; 3. William, ancestor of the earls of Stafford; 4. Thomas; 5. Gilbert; 6. Charles; which 3 last d. young.—Henry, the 2d son, m. Elizabeth, daughter of the duke of Lennox; and by her had 9 sons and 3 daughters; viz. 1. Thomas, the 5th duke of Norfolk; 2. Henry, the 6th duke; 3. Philip, who d. in 1694; 4. Charles, m. Mary, daughter and co-heir of George Tattershall, esq. by whom (who d. Nov. 7, 1695) he had 2 sons, Charles and Henry; Charles d. young, and Henry m. Mary, daughter of John Aylward, esq. and had 3 daughters, who d. unm., and 3 sons, Henry, Charles, the 10th duke of Norfolk, and Thomas.—5. Talbot; 6. Edward; 7. Francis, d. unm.; 8. Bernard, m. Catharine, sister to his brother Charles's lady, and had 3 daughters, who all became nuns, and d. at Brussels; and one son, Bernard, who m. Anne, daughter of Christopher, lord Teynham, and had issue Bernard, who d. young; Henry, of Sheffield, in Yorkshire, b. April 9, 1713; m. Oct. 30, 1764, Juliana, 2d daughter of sir William Molyneux, of Wellow, Notts, bart. and had 3 sons and 2 daughters, viz. Mary Bridget, b. in 1767, m. Robert-Edward, 10th lord Petre, and had issue; Juliana-Barbara, b. in 1769, m. 9th lord Petre; Bernard-Edward, b. Nov. 21, 1765, the present heir presumptive to the dukedom of Norfolk, m. April 23, 1789, lady Elizabeth Bellasyse, daughter of Henry, the 2d and last earl of Fauconberg, and had a son, Henry-Edward, b. Aug. 9, 1791, (which marriage was dissolved by act of parliament in 1794, when she re-married Richard Bingham, present earl of Lucan;) Henry-Thomas, b. Oct. 6, 1766, m. in 1801, Miss Long, daughter of — Long, esq. by whom he had issue; Edward-Charles, b. May 28, 1774; 9. Esme, who was m. and had only one daughter, who d. unm. Feb. 26, 1736-7.

We now return to Thomas, the 5th duke of Norfolk, (son and heir of Henry, earl of Arundel, &c.) who d. unm. Dec. 1, 1677, when he was succeeded by his brother, Henry, the 6th duke, who was 21 Car. II. created lord Howard, of Castle-Rising, co. Norfolk, and on Oct. 19, 1672, he was created earl of Norwich, and by the same patent had granted the office and dignity of earl marshal of England to him and his issue male, and in default to the heirs male of Thomas, earl of Arundel, Surry, and Norfolk, grandfather of Henry, lord Howard; remainder to the heirs male of Thomas, late earl of Suffolk; remainder to the male issue of the body of lord William Howard, of Naworth, co. Cumberland, youngest son of Thomas, 4th duke of Norfolk (beheaded in 15 Elizabeth, 1572); remainder to the male issue of Charles Howard, earl of Nottingham; m. first, Anne, daughter of Edward, marquess of Worcester, by whom (who d. in 1662) he had 2 sons and 3 daughters; 1. Henry, 7th duke, and 2. Thomas, father of Thomas, 8th duke of Norfolk; 3. Alathea, d. young; 4. Elizabeth, m. Alexander Gordon, 1st duke of Gordon, and d. July 16, 1732; and 5. Frances, m. the marquess of Valparessa, a Spanish nobleman. The Duke married 2dly Jane, daughter of Robert Bickerton, gent. son of James Bickerton, lord of Cash, in North Britain, and had issue; 6. George, m. Arabella, daughter and sole heir of sir Edmund Allen of Hatfield Peverel, co. Essex, bart. and by her who d. March 6, 1720-1, had no issue; 7. James, d. unm. Aug. 12, 1702; 8. John d. an infant; and 9. Frederick-Henry, b. Sept. 1684, m. Catharine, daughter of sir Francis Blake, co. Oxford, knt. relict of sir Richard Kennedy, of Mount Kennedy, in Ireland, bart. and by her had a daughter Elizabeth, m. sir William Dudley, of Clopton, co. Northampton, bart.; 10. Catharine, and 11. Anne, both nuns in Flanders; 12. Philippa, b. 1678, m. Ralph Standish, of Standish, co. Lancaster, esq. and d. April 5, 1731, by whom she had Cicely, m. William Towneley, of Towneley, co. Lancaster, esq.; his Grace died at his house in Arundel-street, Strand, Jan. 11, 1683, and was succeeded by his son,

Henry, 7th duke, K. G. summoned to parliament during the lifetime of his father, Jan. 27, 1677-8, as baron Mowbray, and took his seat in the House of Peers, at the upper end of the Barons bench. Constable and governor of the castle of Windsor, and warden of the forest of Windsor, lord lieutenant of the counties of Norfolk, Berkshire, and Surrey, and colonel of the 12th regiment regiment of foot, married Mary Mordaunt, daughter and sole heir of Henry Mordaunt, earl of Peterborough, (which marriage was dissolved by act of parliament, April 11, 1700; who m. 2dly sir John Germain) had no issue; the duke died April 2, 1701, without issue, and was buried in Arundel church, co. Sussex.

Lord Thomas Howard, (next brother to Henry, 7th duke) who, at the coronation of James II. April 23, 1686, as lord of the manor of Worksop, co. Notts, claimed to find the King a right-hand glove, and support the King's right arm whilst he held the sceptre, which being allowed, he accordingly performed that service, married Elizabeth Maria, daughter and sole heir of sir John Savile, of Copley, co. EDWARD-ADOLPHUS SEYMOUR, DUKE of SOMERSET, Baron Seymour, a Baronet, LL.D. and F.R.S.; born Feb. 7, 1775; succeeded his father, Webb, the late duke, Dec. 15, 1793; married June 24, 1800, to lady Charlotte Hamilton, 2d daughter of Archibald, duke of Hamilton and Brandon, and has issue; 1. Charlotte-Jane; 2. Edward-Adolphus, lord Seymour; 3. Jane-Wilhelmina; 4. Anna-Maria; 5. Henrietta; 6. Archibald-Algernon; and 7. a daughter.

This illustrious family derive their name from their original place of residence in Normandy, Seymour being a corruption of St. Maur. The first of the name we meet with in England is Rogerus de Sancto Mauro, who lived about the period of William the Conqueror. Milo de St. Maur had 2 sons, Geoffrey and William, who, in the 18th of king John, joined the rebellious barons against that king. William de St. Maur, by the aid of Gilbert, earl of Pembroke, recovered Wendy and Penhow (parts of the county of Monmouth) from the Welch nation, 22d Henry III. 1237. From him descended sir John Seymour, who attended Henry VIII. in the wars of France and Flanders; he d. in 1536, leaving issue by Margaret his wife, daughter of sir John Wentworth, of Nettledon, in Suffolk, 6 sons and 4 daughters; of which daughters, Jane m. king Henry VIII. and was mother to Edward VI. Elizabeth m. 2dly, John, lord St. John of Basing, afterwards the first marquess of Winchester. His 2d son, Edward, was K. G. and in 1536 was created viscount Beauchamp, and the following year advanced to the dignity of earl of Hertford. In 1542, he was appointed lord great chamberlain, and, upon the death of Henry VIII. was made lord protector, and created duke of Somerset, with a grant of the office of earl-marshal for life. Feb. 10, 1546-7, he was appointed lord treasurer of England, and though he had the title of viscount Beauchamp, and earl of Hertford, yet, not being a baron a baron, he was advanced to that degree of honour on the 15th of the same month, with limitation to the heirs male of his body by Catharine, his 1st wife, by the title of baron Seymour, "whereby the name of that family, as the king declares in the patent from which his most beloved mother, Jane, late queen of England, drew her beginning, might not be clouded by an higher title or colour of dignity." He was beheaded in 1552, when his titles were forfeited to the crown, having been deprived of his other honours.

Sir William Seymour, K. G. 2d son of Edward, lord Beauchamp, upon the death of his grandfather, Edward, earl of Hertford, succeeded him in his honours. In 1640, the 16th of Charles I. he was created marquess of Hertford, and was restored to the dignity of duke of Somerset; married 1st, Arabella, daughter and sole heir of Charles Stuart, 3d son of Matthew, earl of Lennox, (by Elizabeth, daughter of sir William Cavendish, of Chatsworth, in Derbyshire, knt. ancestor to the dukes of Devonshire;) but she being cousin german to king James I. and secretly married without his privity or consent, they were both committed prisoners to the Tower of London, where she d. without issue, Sept. 27, 1615. His grace married 2dly, Frances Devereux, eldest daughter of Robert, earl of Essex, (the great favourite of queen Elizabeth, and sister and co-heir to Robert, earl of Essex,) and had issue 5 sons and 3 daughters: 1. Frances, m. 1st, Richard Molyneux, 2d viscount Molyneux; 2dly, Thomas, earl of Southampton, lord high treasurer of England; and 3dly, Conyers D'Arcy, 2d earl of Holderness; 2. Mary, m. Heneage Finch, 2d earl of Winchilsea; 3. Jane, m. Charles Boyle, lord Clifford, eldest son of Richard, earl of Burlington; 4. William; 5. Robert, both d. unm.; 6. Henry, d. during the life-time of his father, m. Mary, daughter of Arthur lord Capel, of Hadham, left issue William, 3d duke of Somerset; Frances and Mary, d. young; 7. Edward, d. young; 8. John, 4th duke; and Elizabeth, m. Aug. 31, 1676, Thomas Bruce, 1st earl of Aylesbury, and as heir to her brother, brought Tottenham-park, Savernake-forest, and other possessions, which are now the property of the present earl of Aylesbury. His grace d. Oct. 24, 1660, and was succeeded by his grandson,

William,

William, 3d duke, born 1657, d. at Worcester-house in the Strand, Sept. 12, 1671, unm. and was succeeded by his uncle John, 4th duke, 5th and youngest son of Wm. 2d duke of Somerset, m. Sarah, daughter of sir Edward Alston, knt. but dying, April 29, 1675, without issue, we now proceed to

Francis, grandson to Francis Seymour, 3d grandson of Edward, earl of Hertford, and next brother to William, the 2d duke. This Francis Seymour was, on the 19th of June, 1640, created baron Seymour of Troubridge, and, June 1, 1660, was appointed chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster; married 1st Frances, daughter of sir Gilbert Prynne, of Allington in Wilts, knt. and had Charles, his heir, and Frances, m. sir William Ducie of Tortworth, in Gloucestershire, K. B. created afterwards viscount Downe, in the Peerage of Ireland; and 2dly to Catharine, daughter of sir Robert Lee, of Bidsey, co. Warwick, knt. by whom he had no issue. He was succeeded by his son Charles, who, in 1669, succeeded his father as Baron Seymour, of Troubridge, and by Elizabeth, daughter of William, lord Allington, of Horseheath, had issue, Francis, 5th duke; and Charles, 6th duke.—Francis, the eldest son, in 1665, succeeded, and became the 5th duke, b. Jan. 17, 1657, succeeded to the titles of duke and earl of Somerset, but not to the marquessate of Hertford, the latter honour having become extinct on failure of issue, the remainder being to the male issue of William, 2d duke of Somerset, and did not extend to his brother Francis, baron Seymour, or his issue. His grace being on his tour, at Lerice, in the territory of Genoa, indulging the levity of youth, and behaving improperly to some ladies of the family of Botti, in the church of the St. Augustines, Horatio Botti, the husband of one of the ladies who had been affronted, marked him out for vengeance, and shot him dead at the door of his inn, April 20, 1678. His grace dying without issue was succeeded by his brother, Charles, 6th duke of Somerset, K. G. b. Aug. 12, 1662, married 1st, Elizabeth Percy, daughter and sole heir of Josceline Percy, 11th and last earl of Northumberland, relict of Henry Cavendish, earl of Ogle, only son and heir to Henry duke of Newcastle, and by her (who d. Nov.

Nov. 23, 1722) had issue Algernon, 7th duke; Percy, d. unm. July, 1721; Charles, d. unm. 1711; Elizabeth, m. Henry O'Bryen, earl of Thomond, in the Peerage of Ireland, and d. without issue in 1734; Catharine, m. in 1708, sir William Wyndham, of Orchard-Wyndham, in Somersetshire, bart. ancestor to the earls of Egremont, and d. in 1713; Frances, d. unm. 1720; Anne, m. Peregrine Osborne, 3d duke of Leeds. His grace married, 2dly, Charlotte Finch, daughter of Daniel, 6th earl of Winchelsea; and by her (who d. Jan. 21, 1773) had 2 daughters: Frances, m. John Manners, marquess of Granby, and by her, (who d. in Jan. 1760) was mother of Charles, the 4th duke of Rutland; and Charlotte, b. 1736, m. Oct. 6, 1750, Heneage Finch, 3d earl of Aylesford, and had the present earl, and other issue. The duke d. Dec. 2, 1748, and was succeeded by his son, Algernon, 7th duke (who on the death of his mother, 1722, succeeded to the baronies of Percy, Lucy, Poynings, Fitz-Payne, Bryan, and Latimer, and took his seat accordingly in the house of peers,) married Frances, eldest of the 2 daughters and co-heirs of Henry Thynne, son of Thomas viscount Weymouth, ancestor of the marquesses of Bath, and by her (who d. July 7, 1754) had a son, George, lord Beauchamp, b. in 1725, d. at Bologna, in Italy, Sept. 11, 1744, during the life-time of his father and grandfather, and a daughter, Elizabeth, m. in July, 1740, sir Hugh Smythson, of Stanwick, in Yorkshire, bart. His Majesty was pleased to grant to his grace the dignities of baron Warkworth, and earl of Northumberland, with remainder, in default of issue male, to sir Hugh Smythson, bart. by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of the said duke of Somerset, and in default of such issue, to her ladyship and her heirs male; his Majesty was also pleased to grant to his grace the titles of baron Coker-mouth and earl of Egremont, in the county of Cumberland, and, in default of issue male, to his nephew, sir Charles Wyndham, bart. father of the present and 3d earl of Egremont, (see Earl of Egremont,) and in default of such issue, to Percy O'Bryen, of Shotgrove, in Essex, esq. brother of the said sir Charles, created afterwards earl of Thomond, in the Peerage of Ireland. His grace dying without issue male, July, 1750, the above titles descended descended to the persons on whom they were respectively in remainder; the baronies of Percy, Poynings, Fitz-Pain, Bryan, and Latimer, to Elizabeth, wife of the above-named sir Hugh Smythson, bart. (created afterwards duke of Northumberland, K. G. father of the present duke;) and the titles of earl of Hertford, viscount Beauchamp, and baron Seymour, became extinct; but the titles of duke of Somerset and baron Seymour, devolved upon sir Edward Seymour, bart. descended from sir Edward, eldest surviving son of the lord protector Somerset, by his wife Catharine, who was possessed of a considerable estate at Berry Pomeroy, in Devonshire, purchased by his father, sir Thomas Pomeroy.

Edward, 8th duke, born in Dec. 1694, (the 7th in lineal descent from Edward, 1st duke of Somerset, by his wife Catharine, daughter and sole heir of sir William Fillol,) when his right of succession had been clearly proved by sir Dudley Ryder, knt. attorney-general, (ancestor to the present earl of Harrowby,) and a report made to his Majesty, Nov. 23, 1750, was summoned to the house of peers, and took his seat accordingly, married, in 1716, Mary, daughter of Daniel Webb, of Monckton Farley, in Wilts, esq. niece and heir to Edward Somner, of Seend, in Wiltshire, esq. and had issue Mary, m. His grace m. 2dly, June 23, 1803, lady Georgiana Gordon, daughter of Alexander, duke of Gordon, K. T. and has Wriothesley, b. May 14, 1804; Edward, b. April 24, 1805; Charles-James-Fox, b. Feb. 10, 1807; a son b. Oct. 23, 1808; a daughter b. June 23, 1810; a daughter b. July 8, 1812; and a son b. Oct. 6, 1813, which lived but a few hours.

This family have been of long standing in the county of Dorset. John Russell, was constable of Corfe castle in the 5th of Henry III. Ralph, his heir, m. Isabel, daughter and co-heir to James de Newmarch, one of the barons of the realm; his son and successor, William Russell, in 1284, obtained a charter for a market at his manor of Kingston, or Kingston-Russell, in Dorsetshire; from him descended

John Russell, the 1st earl of Bedford, March 9, 1539, was created a baron of the realm by the title of lord Russell, baron of Cheynies, in the county of Bucks, and on the 19th of January, 1549, was advanced to the dignity of earl of Bedford. His lordship having visited most of the foreign courts of Europe, returned one of the most accomplished gentlemen and first scholar of his time. In 1498, Philip, archduke of Austria, accompanied by the archduchess, and a numerous suite, for the purpose of taking possession of the kingdom of Castile, was

was compelled, by stress of weather, to put into the harbour of Weymouth; upon this occasion, he was so highly entertained with the company and conversation of Mr. Russell, (who had been introduced to him by sir Thomas Trenchard, his relative) that the archduke insisted on his accompanying him to Windsor, where the court then was. On his arrival, Mr. Russell was introduced to king Henry VII. who finding his accomplishments, both natural and acquired, of too great value to remain in obscurity, retained him at court after Philip's departure, and appointed him gentleman of the privy chamber; which office he held during the remainder of the king's reign, of whose favour he enjoyed a large share. On the accession of Henry VIII. he was continued gentleman usher of the privy chamber; in the 14th of that reign, he was knighted by the earl of Surry, admiral of the fleet, in reward for signal services performed by him at the siege of Morlaix. Such an entire confidence did the king repose in him, that he employed him in several negociations of the utmost importance, with the emperor, Charles V. Francis I. king of France, the Pope, and the duke of Lorraine; he was present at the celebrated battle of Pavia, 1525, when Francis I. was taken prisoner by Charles, duke of Bourbon, who had joined the Imperialists; and, lastly, the king, as a testimony of his gratitude and esteem for his distinguished services, was pleased to advance him to the dignity of the peerage as above; and, that he might better support the honour he had conferred upon him, that monarch took the earliest opportunity to augment his fortune, and in 1540, upon the dissolution of the religious houses, obtained a grant to himself, and Anne, his wife, and their heirs, of the whole site and circuit of the rich abbey of Tavistock, in Devonshire; also of the borough and town of Tavistock, and of the manors of Hundewyke, Morewell, and Morewelham, Milton-Abbot, alias Meltonlegh, Lamerton, Hole, Brentorr, Wyke-Dabernon, Peterstavve, Ottrew, alias Otterye, Whitchurch, and Newton; with the hundred of Hundewyke, otherwise called the hundred of Tavistock. He had, likewise, divers other lands given him, in the counties of Devon, Somerset, and Bedford;

the earl d. March 14, 1558, and was buried at Cheynies, in Bucks, an estate he possessed in right of his wife, Anne, daughter and sole heir to sir Guy Sapcot, knt. widow of sir John Broughton, of Tuddington, in the county of Bedford, knt. he was succeeded by his son,

Francis, 2d earl, K. G. born in 1528, married Margaret St. John, daughter to sir John St. John, knt. and sister to Oliver, 1st lord St. John, of Bletso, and by her had issue 4 sons, viz. 1. Edward, d. without issue, having m. Jane-Sibilla, daughter of sir Richard Morrison, and was summoned to parliament during the life-time of his father; 2. John, m. Elizabeth, d. of sir Anthony Cook, of Giddea Hall, in Essex, knt. and relict of sir Thomas Hobby, of Bisham, co. Berks, knt. d. before his father, and had issue Francis, d. an infant; Elizabeth, d. unm.; and Anne m. Henry Somerset, the 1st marquess of Worcester; 3. Francis, who was killed in an accidental skirmish on the borders of Scotland, in 1585, one day previous to his father's death, m. Julian, daughter and co-heir to sir John Foster, knt. lord warden of the middle marches, and by her had Edward, 3d earl; 4. sir William Russell, baron Russell, of Thornhaugh, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Long, of Shengay, in the county of Cambridge, esq. and had issue Francis, the 4th earl; of the daughters, Anne, m. Ambrose Dudley, earl of Warwick, and d. 1603; Elizabeth, m. William Bouchier, earl of Bath; and Margaret, m. the celebrated George Clifford, 3d earl of Cumberland, the hero of the reign of queen Elizabeth, by whom she had a daughter, Anne, m. 1st, Richard, 3d earl of Dorset; and, 2dly, Philip, 4th earl of Pembroke and Montgomery. Francis, 2d earl, d. in 1585, at Russell House, in the Strand, and was buried at Cheynies, in Bucks; he was succeeded by his grandson,

Edward, 3d earl, married Lucy, sister and co-heir to John, lord Harrington, of Exton, sister and co-heir of John, 2d lord Harrington, and d. in 1627, without issue, was succeeded by Francis, 4th earl (grandson of the 2d earl by his 4th son, sir William Russell, baron of Thornhaugh.) This earl, in 1630, was the principal undertaker of that great and

and expensive work of draining the fens, called the Great Level, and since the Bedford Level, which extend into the counties of Northampton, Cambridge, Huntingdon, Norfolk, and Lincoln, married Catharine, daughter and co-heir to Giles Brydges, 3d lord Chandos, and had issue William, 5th earl and 1st duke; Francis, governor of Barbadoes, d. unm.; John, colonel of the 1st regt. of foot-guards, d. in 1681; and Edward, m. Penelope, daughter to sir Moses Hill, of Hillsborough, in Ireland, (ancestor to the present marquess of Downshire) widow to sir William Brooke, K. B. and had issue 5 sons and 2 daughters; Edward, 2d of these sons, was gentleman of the bed-chamber to the duke of York, but, on the beheading of his cousin-german, the virtuous lord William Russell, he retired from court; and, after the accession of James II. being disgusted with his conduct, exerted himself to the utmost in promoting the revolution. Upon the advancement of the prince of Orange to the throne, he was made one of the privy council; and, in 1690, was appointed admiral of the blue, advanced to the command of the navy, and appointed first lord of the admiralty; on the 19th of May, 1692, he gave a signal defeat to the French fleet, commanded by Monsieur de Tourville, at La Hogue, and, in the pursuit, (besides 6 considerable ships burnt by vice-admiral Delaval) destroyed 13 of their men of war, and several transports. In 1695, by his diligence, prevented the intended invasion of James II. who lay with a French army ready to embark near Dieppe; for these, and other gallant services, he was, May 7, 1697, created baron Shingey, in Cambridgeshire, viscount Barfleur, in the duchy of Normandy, and earl of Orford, in Norfolk. In May, 1701, he was impeached by the house of commons; his trial commenced June 23, when he was unanimously acquitted of the articles exhibited against him; his lordship d. without issue, Nov. 26, 1727, leaving his fine house, in Covent-garden, to lord Archer; and his seat, at Chippenham, in Cambridgeshire, to lady Tipping, his niece. Francis, 4th earl, d. May 9, 1641, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

William, 5th earl and 1st duke of Bedford, K.G. b. 1614;

May 11, 1649, he was created marquess of Tavistock, and duke of Bedford; married Anne, daughter and sole heir of Robert Carr, earl of Somerset, by his too celebrated countess Frances Howard, the divorced wife of Essex, and had issue 7 sons, and 3 daughters: of the sons, William, on the death of his eldest brother, became lord William Russell, who, July 21, 1683, (during the life-time of his father) was unjustly beheaded in Lincoln's-inn-fields, for being concerned, as was pretended, (but never proved) in a conspiracy against the king and government; but so contrary to every principle of justice was this proceeding held, that, in 1688, an act of parliament passed, annulling his lordship's attainder; he m. Rachael, daughter and co-heir to Thomas Wriothesley, earl of Southampton, and relict of Francis, eldest son to Richard, earl of Carberry, and by her (who d. Sept. 29, 1723) had issue Wriothesley, 2d duke; Rachael, m. William, 2d duke of Devonshire; and Catharine, m. John, 2d duke of Rutland. His grace d. Sept. 7, 1700, and was succeeded by his grandson, Wriothesley, 2d duke, and 1st baron Howland, of Streatham, in Surry, K. G. b. in 1689, married Elizabeth, daughter and sole heir to John Howland, of Streatham, esq. one of the greatest fortunes of that period. Soon after the marriage, it was thought proper to create him baron Howland, of Streatham; and by her (who d. June 29, 1724,) had issue Rachael, m. 1st, Scroop, the 1st duke of Bridgewater, and by him had Louisa, m. Granville, the 1st marquess of Stafford, K. G.; and, 2dly, to sir George Lyttelton, K. B. brother to George, lord Lyttelton; Elizabeth, m. William, 3d earl of Essex: of the sons, William, d. young; Wriothesley, 3d duke; John, 4th duke. His grace died in May, 1711, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Wriothesley, 3d duke, born in 1708, married April 1725, Anne, daughter to Scroop, 1st duke of Bridgewater, by Elizabeth Churchill, 3d daughter and co-heir to John, duke of Marlborough, but by her (who m. 2dly, William, 3d earl of Jersey) had no issue. His grace d. Oct. 23, 1732, and was succeeded by his surviving brother,

John, 4th duke, K. G. lord lieutenant and governor of Ireland;

Ireland, keeper of the privy seal, and, Sept. 4, 1762, was appointed minister plenipotentiary to the court of Versailles, and, on Nov. 3, following, signed, at Fontainebleau, the preliminary articles of peace with France and Spain; and Feb. 10, 1763, subscribed the ratification of a definitive treaty of peace between the belligerent powers of Great Britain, France, Spain, and Portugal; born Sept. 30, 1710, married 1st, Oct. 11, 1731, Diana Spencer, youngest daughter to Charles, earl of Sunderland, by Anne, daughter of John, duke of Marlborough, and by her (who d. Sept. 27, 1735) had a son, d. an infant. His grace m. 2dly, in April 1737, Gertrude, eldest daughter to John, the 1st earl Gower, grandfather to the present marquess of Stafford, and by her had issue, Francis, marquess of Tavistock, b. 1739, who, to the great regret of his noble family and the whole nation, lost his life by a fall from his horse in hunting, March 22, 1767. The marquess m. in 1764, Elizabeth Keppel, daughter to William, 2d earl of Albemarle, and by her (who d. in Oct. 1768) had Francis, 5th duke; John, 6th duke; William, b. Aug. 20, 1767, m. July 11, 1789, Charlotte Villiers, daughter to George, the 4th earl of Jersey, and by her (who d. Aug. 31, 1808) had Gertrude-Frances, b. Nov. 25, 1791; Francis, b. March 7, 1793; George, b. April 7, 1795; John, b. July 11, 1796. His grace died Jan. 14, 1771, and was succeeded by his grandson,

Francis, 5th duke, b. July 22, 1765, who dying universally regretted, unm. March 2, 1802, was succeeded by his next brother, John, present and 6th duke, and 10th earl.

WILLIAM.

WILLIAM-SPENCER CAVENDISH, DUKE of DEVONSHIRE, Marquess of Hartington, Earl of Devonshire, Baron Cavendish of Hardwick, Lord Lieutenant of the county of Derby, LL.D.; born May 21, 1790; succeeded his father William, the late duke, July 29, 1811.

This illustrious family derive their descent from Robert de Gernon, a soldier of great eminence, who attended William the Conqueror in his invasion of England; and, in reward of his services, had grants of several lordships. From him descended Matthew de Gernon, who m. Hodierna, daughter and co-heir of sir William Sackville, knt. ancestor to the dukes of Dorset and the viscounts Sackville. William de Gernon, who d. 43d of Henry III. left issue, by Eleanor, his wife, sir Ralph de Gernon, knt. whose grandson left two daughters, his co-heirs; and Geoffrey, from whom the noble family of Cavendish descend. This Geoffrey is styled of the Peak, in Derbyshire, and was succeeded by Roger, his son and heir, of Grimston-hall, in Suffolk, and d. in 1318, having m. the daughter and heir of John Potton, lord of Cavendish, by whom he left issue, John, Roger, Stephen, and Richard, who all assumed the name of Cavendish; from Roger, 2d son, descended Thomas Cavendish, who m. Mary, daughter of Thomas, lord Wentworth, of Nettled, father of sir Thomas Cavendish, the celebrated navigator, who was the third person, and the second Englishman, who sailed round the globe, 1586; Stephen, 3d son of Roger de Gernon, was one of the representatives in parliament for London, 31st Edward III. sheriff, in the 34th of the same reign, and lord mayor of the city of London. Sir John Cavendish, who obtained the lordship of Cavendish Overhall, by his m. with Alice, daughter and sole heir of John de Odyngsells, chief justice of the King's Bench, 1366, 1373, 1377, who was beheaded by some rebels in an insurrection 1582, was father of sir William Cavendish, of Chatsworth. This sir John Cavendish, in 1365, was constituted chief justice of the King's Bench, which patent was renewed in the next reign, and June 26, 1377, he had a grant of 100 marks per annum; in 1380 he was elected chancellor of the

the university of Cambridge; and the following year, was commissioned with Robert de Hales, treasurer of England, to suppress an insurrection raised in the city of York; in which year, the mob being induced to rise in several parts of the kingdom, and particularly in Suffolk, a body of 50,000 made it their triumph to plunder and murder the lawyers, and were the more incensed against the lord chief justice Cavendish, for that his son, John Cavendish, had killed Wat Tyler in Smithfield. They dragged this venerable judge, with sir John, of Cambridge, prior of Bury, into the market-place of that town, and there beheaded them. Andrew Cavendish, his eldest son, was elected for the county of Suffolk, 1376, and attending 41 days in parliament, with the other knight, had 16*l.* 8*s.* for their expences; 1384, he was sheriff of the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, and dying 18th of Richard II. 1396, seized of the manor of Cavendish Overhall, was buried in the abbey, called the New Abbey, (where the victualling office now stands.) William Cavendish, 2d son of sir William Cavendish, of Chatsworth, knt. being a person of great merit, and possessing a vast estate, was, by James I. created baron Cavendish of Hardwick; and, Aug. 7, 1618, was advanced to the dignity of earl of Devonshire; his lordship was highly instrumental in rearing the English colonies in America, particularly those of Virginia, and the Bermuda Islands, one of the eight divisions of the large island being still known by the name of Cavendish; m. 1st, Anne, daughter and co-heir of Henry Kighley, of Kighley, co. York, esq. and had issue, 1. William, 2d earl; 2. Gilbert, d. young; 3. James, d. an infant; 4. Frances, m. sir William Maynard, created afterwards lord Maynard; and 2dly, Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Boughton, of Causton, co. Warwick, esq. by whom she had issue, sir John Cavendish, K. B. at the creation of Charles, prince of Wales, Nov. 3, 1616. The earl d. March 3, 1625, and was succeeded by his son William, 2d earl, who d. at his house near Bishopsgate, London, (where Devonshire square is now built,) June 20, 1628, and was succeeded by William, 3d earl, who was, Nov. 25, 1684, succeeded by

William,

William, 4th earl and 1st duke of Devonshire, K. G. lord steward of the household, &c.; May 12, 1694, he was, by king William and queen Mary, created marquess of Hartington and duke of Devonshire; the preamble to his patent says, "that the king and queen could do no less for one who, in a corrupted age, and sinking into the basest flattery, had constantly retained the manners of the ancients, and would never suffer himself to be moved either by the insinuations or the threats of a deceitful court: but, equally despising both, like a true assertor of liberty, stood always for the laws." He married Mary, 2d daughter of James Butler, duke of Ormond, and by her (who d. in 1710) had William, 2d duke; Henry; and James, m. Anne, daughter of Elihu Yale, Esq. governor of Fort St. George, Madras, and dying Aug. 18, 1707, was succeeded by his son,

William, 2d duke, K. G. lord steward of the household, married Rachael Russell, daughter of the virtuous lord William Russell, sister to Wriothesley, Duke of Bedford, and had William, 3d duke; and Elizabeth, m. sir William Lowther, of Holker-hall, Lancashire, bart. His grace d. 1729, and was succeeded by his son,

William, 3d duke, K. G. born 1698, lord steward of the household, 1729, married March 27, 1718, Mary, daughter and sole heir of John Hoskins, esq. of the county of Middlesex, and by her (who d. May 8, 1777) had 4 sons and 3 daughters, viz. William, 4th duke; George-Augustus, b. April 8, 1728, and d. unm. May 2, 1794; Frederick, b. Aug. 1729, a field-marshal of his Majesty's forces, and colonel of the 34th regiment of foot, d. Oct. 21, 1803, unm.; John, b. Oct. 22, 1732, d. unm. Dec. 19, 1796; Caroline, b. May 22, 1719, m. June 1739, to William, the 2d earl of Besborough, and d. Jan. 20, 1760, leaving issue; Elizabeth, b. April 24, 1723, m. Sept. 1743, the right hon. John Ponsonby, speaker of the house of commons in Ireland, next brother of William, 2d earl of Besborough, by whom she had issue William Brabazon, created BARON PONSONBY, of Imokilly, March 13, 1806, and the right hon. George Ponsonby, late lord chancellor of Ireland, and Rachael, b. June 7, 1727, m. May 12, 1748, Horatio, lord Walpole, the 1st earl of Orford, and

WILLIAM-HENRY-CAVENDISH-BENTINCK SCOTT, DUKE of PORTLAND, Marquess of Titchfield, Earl of Portland, Viscount Woodstock, Baron of Cirencester, Lord Lieutenant of the county of Middlesex; born June 24, 1768; succeeded his father, William-Henry, the late duke, Oct. 30, 1807; married August 4, 1795, Henrietta Scott, eldest daughter and co-heir of general

general John Scott of Balcomie, co. Fife, and has issue, William-Henry, marquess of Titchfield, b. Oct. 22, 1796; Caroline, b. July 6, 1799; John, b. Sept. 18, 1800; Henrietta; George; Henry; Charlotte; Lucy; and Mary.

This family came into England at the revolution, and are descended from an ancient and noble house of the name, in the province of Guelderland. This nobleman entered so early into the service of William, prince of Orange, afterwards king of England, that they may be said to have had their education together, which, undoubtedly, was one of the motives that induced that prince to honour him both with his friendship and confidence in such an extraordinary manner as he did upon all occasions. In the list of king William's first privy council we find Mr. Bentinck's name, who was also appointed groom of the stole and privy purse to his Majesty, the very day on which the proclamation was issued. These favours were soon followed by others; for, on the 19th of April, 1689, he was created baron of Cirencester, viscount Woodstock, and earl of Portland. Being appointed ambassador to the court of France, he set out for that country in Feb. 1698, attended by Prior, the celebrated poet, as his secretary; on the 29th of that month he made his public entry into Paris, which, in magnificence, excelled every thing of the kind during that reign. His lordship was a lieut.-general in the army, and K. G. He married, first, Anne, daughter of sir Edward Villiers, and sister to Edward, earl of Jersey, and had issue, 1. William, d. young; 2. Mary, m. Algernon, the second earl of Essex, and after his death re-m. sir Conyers D'Arcy, only brother of Robert, 3d earl of Holderness; 3. Anna-Margaretta, m. monsieur Duyvenverde, one of the principal nobles of Holland; 4. Frances-Wilhelmina, m. William, 4th lord Byron; 5. Eleanor, d. unm.; 6. Isabella, m. Evelyn, duke of Kingston, and d. Feb. 23, 1728; 7. William, who d. young in Holland. His grace married, 2dly, May 16, 1700, Jane, 6th daughter of sir John Temple, bart. sister to Henry, viscount Palmerston, and relict of John, lord Berkeley, of Stratton; and by her (who d. March 26, 1751) had

issue two sons and four daughters—William, one of the nobles of Holland; Charles-John, who d. in Feb. 1779; Sophia, m. March 24, 1728-9, Henry de Grey, duke of Kent; Elizabeth, m. Henry Egerton, D. WILLIAM MONTAGU, DUKE of MANCHESTER, Earl of Manchester, Viscount Mandeville, and Baron Montagu, of Kimbolton; Captain General and Governor of the Island of Jamaica, Lord-Lieutenant of Huntingdonshire, and Collector, inwards and outwards, of the Customs in the port of London; born March 21, 1771; succeeded his father, George, the late duke, Sept. 2, 1788; married, Oct. 7, 1793, Susan Gordon, daughter of Alexander, duke of Gordon, K. T. by whom he has issue: 1. George, viscount Mandeville, b. July 9, 1799; 2. William-Francis, b. Aug. 5, 1800; 3. Jane, b. Nov. 5, 1794; 4. Elizabeth, b. Dec. 11, 1795; 5. Susan, b. Sept. 18, 1797; 6. Georgiana-Frederica, b. March 16, 1803; 7. Caroline-Catharine, b. Sept. 27, 1804; 8. Emily, b. Sept. 17, 1806.

This family took its name from a town in Normandy, their ancestor, Drogo de Monte-acuto, or Montagu, having been one of the noble adventurers who come from thence with William the Conqueror. On William's ascending the throne of England, Drogo obtained, like other adventurers, a grant of several manors, particularly in the county of Somerset. A lineal descendant of this Drogo, or Dru, was sheriff of Dorsetshire and Devonshire, in the 6th, 7th, 8th, and 9th, years of king John, which fully proves his importance at that period, when none but persons of the greatest rank and property were advanced to that office. From whom descended

Sir Henry Montagu, 3d brother to Edward, lord Montagu of Boughton, who was bred to the law, and on the coronation of James I. received the honour of knighthood, and the same year was elected recorder of London, Nov. 8, 1616, he was appointed lord-chief-justice of the King's Bench, on the 19th of December, 1620, he was created

GEORGE - JOHN - FREDERICK SACKVILLE,
DUKE of DORSET, Baron of Dorset and Middlesex,
Baron Buckhurst, and Baron Cranfield; born Nov. 15, 1793; succeeded his father, John, the late duke, July 19, 1799.

Robert

Robert de Gernon, ancestor of this family, came from Normandy with William the Conqueror, and having been serviceable to him, obtained from the Conqueror grants of lands in Hertfordshire and in the county of Gloucester, the greater part of which he bestowed upon the abbey of that city. This Robert de Gernon was succeeded by his only son, Matthew, who married Hodiern, a daughter and co-heir to sir William de Sackville, from a younger brother of whom descended the dukes of Dorset, the viscounts Sackville, and the dukes of Devonshire; from whom descended

Thomas Sackville, who, in 1566, succeeded his father, sir Richard Sackville, (by Winifred, daughter of sir John Bridges,) was, in 1567, created Baron Buckhurst, and in 1603, earl of Dorset, K. G. He was one of the peers who sat in judgment on the unfortunate duke of Norfolk, who was executed in 1572; in 1586, he was one of the commissioners for the trial of Mary Queen of Scots; in 1601, was appointed lord high steward for the trial of the earl of Essex, and conducted himself in that distinguished situation with remarkable candour and humanity towards the prisoner, whose sentence of death he was compelled by his office to pronounce. The earl married Cicely, daughter of sir John Baker, and had Robert, his heir, and Jane, m. Anthony, viscount Montagu; and Mary, m. Henry Neville, 7th lord Abergavenny. His lordship died suddenly at the council table, at Whitehall, in April, 1608, and was succeeded by his son, Robert, 2d earl, m. Margaret, only daughter of Thomas Howard, duke of Norfolk, and had Thomas, d. young; Richard, and Edward, successive earls; Cicely, m. sir Henry Compton, K. B. third son to Henry, first baron Compton; Anne, m. Edward Seymour, baron Beauchamp, grandson to Edward, earl of Hertford. The earl d. in Feb. 1609, and was succeeded by his son Richard, 3d earl, m. Anne Clifford, daughter and sole heir to George Clifford, 3d earl of Cumberland, and at that period one of the most gallant and opulent noblemen in England, and by her had 3 sons, who d. infants; Margaret, m. John Tufton, 2d earl of Thanet, and Isabella, m. James Compton 3d earl of Northampton. The earl died March 28, 1628, at Dorset-house, in the city of London, (the present Salisbury-court, Fleet-street,) and was succeeded by his only brother, Richard, the 4th earl, born in 1590, K. G. married Mary, daughter and sole heir to sir George Curzon, of Croxall, in Derbyshire, (by Mary, sister and sole heir to sir Richard Levison,) and had issue Richard, his heir, and Edward, m. Bridget, baroness Norreys; but, in 1645, being taken prisoner by the parliament forces, at Kidlington, was basely murdered between Abingdon and Oxford. His lady m. secondly, Montagu, 2d earl of Lindsey (ancestor of the present earl of Lindsey), by whom she was mother of James, the 1st earl of ABINGDON. (See Earl of ABINGDON.) The earl died July, 1652, and was succeeded by his son,

Richard, 5th earl, married Frances Cranfield, eldest daughter of Lionel, earl of Middlesex, afterwards sole heir to Lionel, earl of Middlesex, her brother, and had Charles, his heir, and other issue, and dying in 1677, was succeeded by his son, Charles, the 6th earl, K. G. who, possessing the estates of his uncle Lionel, earl of Middlesex, was, April 4, 1675, created earl of Middlesex and baron Cranfield, in Bedfordshire; by his 2d wife, Mary, daughter to James, 3d earl of Northampton, he had Lionel Cranfield, his heir, and Mary, m. Henry, 2d duke of Beaufort. The earl d. Jan. 29, 1706, and was succeeded by his son,

Lionel Cranfield, 1st duke, 7th earl of Dorset, 2d earl of Middlesex, and baron Cranfield, K. G. born Jan. 18, 1688; on the 29th of Jan. 1566, succeeded his father in the earldom of Dorset and Middlesex; and June 13, 1720, was advanced to the dignity of duke of Dorset. In Jan. 1709, married Elizabeth, daughter of lieutenant-general Colyear, brother to David, earl of Portmore; and by her, who d. June 12, 1768, his grace had issue, Ann, b. 1709, who d. March 23, 1720; Charles, 2d duke; Elizabeth, b. March 20, 1712, who, Dec. 6, 1726, was m. to Thomas Thynne, 2d viscount Weymouth, and who d. before cohabitation, June 29, 1729, whilst his lordship was on his travels; John-Philip Sackville, b. June 22, 1713, m. Jan. 1, 1763, Frances, 4th daughter of John, earl Gower, sister to the 1st marquess of Stafford; and d. Dec. 3, 1765; by whom (who d. Jan. 26, 1788), he left issue, John-Frederick Sackville, 3d duke; and Mary, b. April 1, 1746, m. July 30, 1767, Sackville, 8th earl of Thanet; and d. Sept. 1778, leaving issue, George, 1st viscount Sackville; (see Viscount SACKVILLE;) Caroline, b. March 6, 1718, m. July 27, 1742, to Joseph Damer, 1st earl of Dorchester, by whom she had issue, and d. in March, 1775. His grace dying Oct. 10, 1763, was succeeded by his son, Charles, 2d duke, born Feb. 6, 1711; married in 1743, Grace, daughter and sole heir of Richard Boyle, viscount Shannon, and by her (who d. May 10, 1768) had no issue. His grace dying Jan. 5, 1769, was succeeded by his nephew, John-Frederick, 3d duke, m. Jan. 4, 1790, Arabella-Diana Cope, daughter of Catharine, countess of Liverpool, by the late sir Charles Cope, bart. (who m. 2dly, in April, 1801, Charles, viscount Whitworth, K. B.) and had issue, George-John-Frederick, the present duke; Mary, b. July 30, 1792, m. August 5, 1811, Other Archer, present earl of Plymouth; Elizabeth, b. August 11, 1795, m. June 21, 1813, George-John, earl of Delawarr. His grace died July 19, 1799, and was succeeded by his only son, George-John-Frederick, the present and 4th duke.

This

This noble family is descended from Mainfred, a Danish chieftain, who made irruptions into France in the 9th century; his posterity settling in Normandy, took their name from their domain of Percy, in that province. William de Percy, with his brother Serle, accompanied king William the Conqueror, in 1066, from whom he had grant of 86 manors in Yorkshire, and 32 in Lincolnshire, &c. and is expressly stated a baron in records of that and the following reign. Josceline Percy, the 11th and last earl of the male line of the Percys, m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Wriothesley, earl of Southampton, by whom he left a daughter, Elizabeth Percy, sole heir to the baronial honours and estates of her house, and who was m. to Charles, 6th duke of Somerset, by whom she had 7 sons and 6 daughters, (only one of which daughters left issue, viz. Catharine Seymour, wife of sir William Wyndham, bart. whose eldest son, Charles, earl of Egremont, had the possessions of the ancient earls of Northumberland, in Sussex, Yorkshire, and Cumberland.) Her grace d. in 1722, on which her eldest surviving son, Algernon Seymour, duke of Somerset, earl of Hertford, Northumberland, and Egremont, viscount Beauchamp, baron Beauchamp, Seymour, Warkworth, and Cockermouth, and also baron Percy, by writ of summons (vitâ patris), m. Frances, daughter and co-heir of Henry, only son of Thomas, 1st viscount Weymouth, by whom he had issue only one daughter and one son, George, viscount Beauchamp, who dying unm. in 1744, all the baronial honours of her father, together with the estates of the ancient earls Percy, in Middlesex and Northumberland, descended to his only daughter and heiress, Elizabeth, late duchess of Northumberland, mother of the present duke. Having given his grace's maternal descent, we shall give that of his paternal, as follows: Langdale Smithson, 2d son of sir Hugh Smithson, of Yorkshire, the 3d baronet of the family, by a daughter of Marmaduke, 2d lord Langdale, m. Philadelphia, daughter of William Revely, of Newby-Wisk, in Yorkshire, esq. and dying in his father's life-time, left a daughter, Dorothy, who d. unm. and and Hugh, the 1st duke, who d. June 6, 1786, aged 74, and was succeeded by his son, Hugh, in the earldom and dukedom, and in the barony of Lovaine, by his son, Algernon, created, Oct. 30, 1790, earl of Beverly (see Earl of Beverly.) This was held by the Percy family through several generations. The earldom, however, was at length forfeited, on the abdication of Henry VI. when the title was granted by Edward IV. to the Neville family, and, by the same monarch, restored to the Percys, in whom it expired in 1539, was revived in 1557, in its ancient precedence, and became finally extinct in 1670; but the barony remained in the Percy family until it became vested by marriage in Algernon, 7th duke of Somerset, by descent from his mother, who, among other honours, had conferred on him, by George II. in 1749, the earldom of Northumberland, with remainder to the heirs male of sir Hugh Smythson, by Elizabeth, his wife, only daughter and heir of the said Algernon, duke of Somerset, who d. Feb. 7, 1750. Sir Hugh, who had m. July 16, 1740, the above lady, succeeded to the dignities of baron Warkworth and earl of Northumberland, on the death of his father-in-law, Algernon, duke of Somerset, by virtue of a special limitation in the patent of creation of those honours, dated Oct. 2, preceding; and by an act of parliament, April 12, following, his lordship, and Elizabeth, countess of Northumberland and baroness Percy, his and their issue, were enabled to take and use the name of Percy, and bear and quarter the arms of the Percys, earls of Northumberland; installed K. G. in 1757, created duke of Northumberland and earl Percy, to him, and the heirs male of his body, by patent, Oct. 22, 1766; and lord Lovaine, baron of Alnwick, with remainder to Algernon, his 2d son, and the heirs male of his body, by patent, Jan. 28, 1784. By his consort, who d. Dec. 5, 1776, his grace had issue 2 sons and 1 daughter, viz. Hugh, the present duke; Elizabeth-Anne-Frances Percy, b. April 6, 1744, and d. May 27, 1761, unm.; and Algernon, the present earl of Beverly. His grace deceasing June 6, 1786, was succeeded by his eldest son, Hugh,

Hugh, the present, and 2d duke, who succeeded to his mother's barony in 1776.

Heir Apparent—HUGH, Earl PERCY, eldest son of the duke.

This family is of considerable antiquity in the county of York. Sir Allan Gower, of Sittenham, at the time of the Norman conquest was sheriff of Yorkshire, 1066, and from him, in a direct line, the family have continued their seat at Sittenham to the present time.

In 1257, was living sir Walter, the father of sir Robert de Guer, living in 1289 and 1293, about which time probably the name began to be differently written; for in the 28th Edward I. 1299, sir John Gower was one of those persons of note summoned to be at Carlisle, with horse and arms, on the feast of the nativity of St. John the Baptist, to march against the Scots; and the year after he had summons to be at Berwick, with horse and arms, on the same account.

In 1313, Lawrence Gower, of co. York, had the king's pardon for being concerned with Thomas, earl of Lancaster, in the murder of Piers Gaveston, earl of Cornwall, the great favourite of Edward II. at Blacklow Hill, co. Warwick, June 19, 1312.

Sir John-Leveson Gower, 4th bart. was created baron Gower, March 16, 1703, and chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, married Catharine, eldest daughter of John, 1st duke of Rutland; and by her, (who d. March 7, 1722,) having survived his lordship, who d. Sept. 10 1709, had issue: Catharine, d. April 20, 1712; Jane, m. John Proby, esq. (ancestor of the present earl of Carysfort,) and d. June 10, 1726, leaving issue; William, m. May 26, 1730, Anne, daughter of sir Thomas Grosvenor, bart. (ancestor of the present earl Grosvenor,) and d. Dec. 13, 1756, leaving issue one daughter, Catharine; Thomas, d. unm. Aug. 12, 1727; Baptist, d. Aug. 2, 1782.

John, the eldest son, was by George II. July 8, 1746, advanced to the dignity of viscount Trentham and earl Gower; he married, first, March 18, 1712, Evelyn, youngest daughter of Evelyn Pierrepont, duke of Kingston, and by her (who d. June 26, 1727) had issue, John, who d. July 15, 1723; William, who d. unm. April 14, 1739; Granville-Leveson, the 1st marquess; Richard, d. unm. Oct. 19, 1753; Catharine, d. an infant; Gertrude, m. April 2, 1737, John, 4th duke of Bedford, by whom she had issue, and d. June 1, 1794; Mary, m. the rev. sir Rich. Wrottesley, bart. and d. May 1, 1778, leaving issue the present duchess of Grafton; and the lady of baron de Kutzleben, who d. Aug. 28, 1798, leaving issue; and another daughter, m. general Gardner, and has issue a son and several daughters; Jane, d. May 1737, unm.; Frances, m. Jan. 1, 1743, to John-Philip Sackville, son to the 1st duke of Dorset, by whom she had issue, and d. June 26, 1788; Elizabeth, m. in 1751, to John, 3d earl Waldegrave, had issue, and d. April 28, 1784; Evelyn, m. first, in July, 1744, John, 1st earl of Upper Ossory, and had issue by him; and, 2dly, in 1759, Richard Vernon, esq. by whom she had issue the present countess of Warwick. The earl married 2dly, Oct. 31, 1733, Penelope, daughter of sir John Stonehouse, bart. relict of sir Henry Atkins, bart. and by her (who d. Aug. 19, 1734,) had issue a daughter, Penelope, b. in June 1734, who d. in 1741. The earl married 3dly, 1736, Mary, daughter and co-heir of Thomas, 6th earl of Thanet, and widow of Anthony Grey, earl Harold, brother to the late marchioness de Grey, and only son of Henry, duke of Kent, who d. 1723; by whom (who d. Feb. 19, 1785) he had issue, Mary, d. young; Thomas, b. Aug. 23, 1738, and d. young; John-Leveson, b. 1743, an admiral R. Emily

Emily, b. July 13, 1789; m. May 29, 1812, George-Thomas-John, lord Delvin, eldest son of George-Frederick, earl of Westmeath; James-Mordaunt-William, viscount Cranborne, b. April 17, 1791; and a daughter, b. in April, 1793, and d. May 23, 1797.

The marquess is descended from the same ancestor as the marquess of Exeter, the 1st earl, being the younger son of the celebrated lord Burleigh, treasurer to queen Elizabeth, who was born in 1550, and by king James I. the same day, was, with his brother, advanced to the dignity of an earl. He had been, in 1596, appointed secretary of state, in the room of the unfortunate earl of Essex, and succeeded his father as principal minister of state; he d. May 24, 1612.

Sir Robert Cecil, 1st earl of Salisbury, married Elizabeth, daughter of William Brook, lord Cobham, and had William, 2d earl; and Frances, m. Henry, lord Clifford, the last earl of Cumberland. He was succeeded by his son, William, 2d earl; married Catharine Howard, daughter of Thomas, 1st earl of Suffolk; and had Charles, who d. before his father, in 1659, leaving James, who, in 1668, succeeded his grandfather, and became 3d earl, who dying in 1683, was succeeded by his son James, 4th earl, who, in 1694, was succeeded by his son,

James, the 5th earl, married, in 1708, Anne Tufton, 2d daughter of Thomas, 6th earl of Thanet; and had issue by her, who d. April 22, 1757, James, viscount Cranborne; and William, who d. in 1740; and 3 daughters: Anne, m. to William Strode, esq. and d. in July 1752; Catharine, m. Feb. 15, 1736, to John, 2d earl of Egmont, and d. Aug. 16, 1752; and Margaret, d. in March, 1752. His lordship dying Oct. 9, 1728, was succeeded in his honours and estates by

James, 6th earl of Salisbury, born Oct. 20, 1713, married, in 1743, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Edward Keet, of Hertfordshire, esq. by whom (who d. Feb. 3, 1776,) he had issue, James, the present earl, who was created a marquess, Aug. 18, 1789; Bennet, b. June 22, 1747, and d. Nov. 18, 1769; Anne, b. March 6, 1746, d. unm. June 11, 1813. His lordship d. in Sept. 1780, when he was succeeded by his eldest son,

James,

James, the 7th earl, present and 1st marquess.

Heir Apparent — JAMES-MORDAUNT-WILLIAM, Viscount CRANBORNE, only son of the marquess.

THOMAS THYNNE, MARQUESS of BATH, Viscount Weymouth, Baron Thynne, of Warminster, and a Baronet, LL. D. and F. S. A.; born Jan. 25, 1765; succeeded his father, Thomas, the 1st marquess, Nov. 19, 1796; married, April 24, 1794, Isabella Byng, daughter of George, 4th viscount Torrington, and has issue, Elizabeth, b. Feb. 27, 1795; viscount Weymouth, b. April 9, 1796; Henry, b. May 24, 1797; John, b. Nov. 7, 1798; Louisa, b. March 25, 1804; a son, b. Oct. 17, 1803; a son, b. Jan. 20, 1805; a son, b. Dec. 25, 1808; another son, b. in 1809; a daughter, b. April 10, 1811; and another daughter, b. Jan. 1813.

It appears from the evidences still extant among the writings of this family, that their ancient name was Botevile, and by this name they held lands in the manor of Stretton, co. Salop, for many generations, from the time of king John, in whose reign the two brothers, sir Geoffrey and Oliver Botevile, of considerable rank in Poictou, came into England, in order to assist him against his barons, as recorded by Matthew Paris, in his history. Sir Geoffrey, the eldest brother, was the 1st that settled at Stretton, on the lands given him by the earl of Arundel, (William d'Albini,) which have ever since been called Botevile's Lye, and are still in the possession of one of that name. Sir Geoffrey was, by king John, constituted governor of Belvoir Castle, co. Lincoln, which had been taken from that earl—in the said parish of Stretton, this family resided from the above named sir Geoffrey's time, till sir John Thynne, the eldest, settled at Longleat, co. Wilts, still retaining his ancient lands in Shropshire. William Botevile, his son, died 1256, leaving a son, John, whose name is recorded in an old roll among the knights of Shropshire, who attended at the siege of Caerlaverock Castle. This sir John Botevile had two sons, sir Adam and Walter Botevile; sir Adam was attainted of high treason for taking part with Thomas Plantagenet, earl of Lancaster at the battle of Boroughbridge, March 16, 1322. This last named John, was father of Thomas Botevile, and Hugh-Thomas, the elder brother, had a son, Richard, father of William, who had a son, Richard, who was father of John Botevile, styled from his residence in one of the inns of court, John of Th'Inne, and from thence came the surname now used.

Thomas, 2d viscount Weymouth, was son of Henry-Frederick, the 1st viscount's younger brother, by Mary, daughter of Edward, 1st earl of Jersey, who m. Dec. 6, 1726, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Lionel, duke of Dorset, who dying June 29, 1729, he m. 2dly, in July, 1733, Louisa, daughter of John, late earl Granville, by whom (who d. Dec. 25, 1736,) he had the following issue: Thomas, 1st marquess; Henry-Frederick, who was heir, by will, to his grandfather, the late earl Granville, took the name of Carteret, and was created baron Carteret, Jan. 29, 1784, (see Lord CARTERET); James, b. Dec. 19, 1736, and d. March 19, 1741. His lordship died Jan. 12, 1751, and was succeeded by his son, Thomas, 1st marquess, and 3d viscount, who was, on Aug. 26, 1789, advanced to the dignity of a marquess, was b. Sept. 13, 1734; m. May 22, 1759, Elizabeth-Cavendish Bentinck, eldest daughter of William, 2d duke of Portland, by whom he had issue, Louisa, b. March 25, 1760; m. Dec. 3, 1781, Heneage, the 4th earl of Aylesford, and has issue; Charlotte, b. Nov. 7, 1761, and d. May 19, 1764; Henrietta, b. Nov. 17, 1762; m. May 2, 1799, Philip, 5th earl of Chesterfield, K. G. and has issue; Sophia, b. Dec. 18, 1763; m. Aug. 28, 1784, lord St. Asaph, present earl of Ashburnham, and d. April 9, 1791, leaving issue 4 children: Thomas, the present marquess; 2 sons (twins) d. June 25, 1766; Maria, Maria, b. Aug. 1, 1767, and d. March 30, 1768; Isabella, b. Oct. 11, 1768; George, b. Jan. 23, 1770; m. May 12, 1797, Harriet, sister to viscount Courtenay, presumptive heir to the barony of Carteret, of his uncle Henry-Frederick, lord Carteret; Frances, b. Feb. 12, 1771, d. in 1782; John, b. Dec. 28, 1772, M. P. for Bath, and vice-chamberlain to the king; m. June 18, 1801, Mary-Anne Master; Elizabeth, b. Aug. 19, and d. Aug. 22, 1775; Mary, b. May 17, 1778; m. May 10, 1806, Osborne Markham, esq. son of the late archbishop of York; Caroline, b. Aug. 31, 1781. The marquess died Nov. 19, 1796, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Thomas, 10th viscount Weymouth, and present and 2d marquess of Bath.

Heir Apparent—Viscount WEYMOUTH, son to the marquess.

Creations—Baronet, July 15, 1641; Baron and Viscount, Dec. 11, 1682; Marquess, Aug. 18, 1789.

Motto—J'ai bonne cause. I have a good cause.

Gordon, 4th earl of Aberdeen, d. Feb. 29, 1812; 5. Maria. The marquess married, 2dly, March 4, 1792, his 1st cousin, lady Cecil Hamilton (to whom his Majesty granted the precedence of an earl's daughter, Oct. 27, 1789), 8th daughter of the hon. George Hamilton, canon of Windsor, and rector of Taplow, in Bucks, 4th son of James, 7th earl of Abercorn, (which marriage was dissolved by act of parliament in 1798,) and lady Cecil m. May 25, 1799, sir Joseph Copley, of Sprotborough, bart. The marquess married, 3dly, April 3, 1800, lady Anne-Jane, eldest daughter of Arthur Gore, 2d earl of Arran, K. P. (by his 1st wife, Catharine, only daughter of William Annesley, viscount Glerawly), and widow of Henry Hatton, of Great Clonard, in Wexford, esq.

The marquess is the chief representative, in the male line, of the illustrious house of Hamilton. His ancestors have frequently intermarried into the royal family of Scotland, and have been acknowledged by the parliament of that country as the presumptive heirs to the crown, in the person of James Hamilton, earl of Arran, who was chosen, in 1542, protector to queen Mary, during her minority, and declared 2d person of the realm; and, in failure of issue in the queen, her successor to the throne of Scotland.

James, 3d lord Hamilton, was created earl of Arran in 1503, whose son, James, 2d earl, presumptive heir to the crown of Scotland, was created duke of Chatelherault, in 1549, by Henry II. of France. He left issue 4 sons, viz. 1. James; 2. John; 3. Claud, ancestor of the marquess of Abercorn; 4. David, d. young. James, the eldest son, succeeded as 3d earl, and was succeeded by his brother, John, 4th earl of Arran, created marquess of Hamilton, in 1599; whose son, James, 2d marquess, was created to the English honours of baron Innerdale, and earl of Cambridge, in 1619. He was father of James, 3d marquess, created duke of Hamilton in 1643; who was beheaded in 1648, for his loyalty to the unfortunate Charles I. Deceasing without male issue, the title devolved to his brother, William, 2d-duke, who also deceasing without issue male, the estates and honours devolved to the lady Anne Hamilton, eldest daughter of the the 1st duke, who carried them to the house of Douglas, by her marriage with William Douglas, earl of Selkirk, eldest son by the 2d marriage of William, marquess of Douglas; which William, earl of Selkirk, became duke of Hamilton in right of his wife, and assumed the name and arms of Hamilton, discontinuing those of Douglas: from him descends the present duke of Hamilton and Brandon.

Lord Claud Hamilton, 3d son of James, 2d earl of Arran, and duke of Chatelherault, in France, and brother of John, 1st marquess of Hamilton, was created baron of Paisley in 1535. He had issue 4 sons, of whom, sir Frederick, the youngest, was father of Gustavus Hamilton, created viscount Boyne in 1717. James, the eldest son, succeeded as 2d lord Paisley: he was created baron of Abercorn in 1604, in his father's life-time, and was advanced to the dignities of earl of Abercorn, baron of Hamilton, Mountcastle, and Kilpatrick, July 10, 1606. He m. Mariana, daughter of Thomas, lord Boyde, and had issue 4 sons, viz. 1. James, 2d earl of Abercorn, in Scotland, who was a peer of Ireland in 1616, by the title of baron of Strabane; 2. Claud, to whom his elder brother made over the title of Strabane, with the permission of king Charles I., whose grandson, Claud, 5th baron of Strabane, in Ireland, succeeded as 4th earl of Abercorn, on the death of his cousin, George, 3d earl; 3. sir William Hamilton, knt.; d. without issue; 4. sir George, ancestor of the marquess of Abercorn; which sir George Hamilton, 4th and youngest son of James, 1st earl of Abercorn, was seated at Donalong, in the county of Tyrone, in Ireland. During the civil wars he was a captain of horse, colonel of foot, and governor of the castle of Nenagh, in Tipperary, and was very active in the service of Charles I. and Charles II. In 1651, he retired to France with the exiled monarch, by whom he was created a baronet of Nova Scotia, after the Restoration. He m. Mary, 3d daughter of Thomas, viscount Thurles, son of Walter, 11th earl of Ormond, and sister of James, duke of Ormond, and had issue 6 sons and 3 daughters, viz. 1. James; 2. sir George, created count Hamilton, in France, and a mareschal reschal du camp; m. Frances, eldest daughter and co-heiress of Richard Jennings, of Sandridge, in Herts, esq. sister of Sarah, duchess of Marlborough, and had issue by her (who m. 2dly, Richard Talbot, duke of Tyrconnel, and d. in Dublin, March 7, 1730), 3 daughters, viz. Elizabeth, m. in 1685, Richard Parsons, viscount Rosse; Frances, m. Henry, 8th viscount Dillon; and Mary, m. Nicholas Barnewall, 3d viscount Kingsland; 3. Anthony, a lieutenant-general in the French service; 4. Thomas, R. N. commanded the ship which took the duke of Argyll's, in the West Indies, d. in New England; 5. Richard, a brigadier-general, and colonel of a regiment of horse in the army of James II. with whom he retired to France, upon king William's victories, and was there made a lieutenant-general; 6. John, a colonel in king James's army, killed at the battle of Aughrim; 7. Elizabeth, m. Philibert, count de Gramont, younger brother of Anthony, duke de Gramont, peer and mareschal of France, by whom she had two daughters, viz. Claude-Charlotte, m. April 3, 1694, Henry, earl of Stafford, and Elizabeth, abbess of the Chanonesses, in Loraine; 8. Lucia, m. sir Donogh O'Brien, bart.; 9. Margaret, m. Matthew Ford, esq. of Coolgreny, in Wexford. James, the eldest son, d. before his father, sir George; he was groom of the bed-chamber to Charles II. and colonel in his army, and m. Elizabeth, eldest daughter of John, lord Culpeper, of Thorsway, and d. of a wound in 1673, received commanding a regiment of foot, on board the navy, with the duke of York in one of his sea expeditions against the Dutch. He had issue 3 sons, viz. 1. James; 2. George, a colonel in the foot guards, killed at the battle of Steinkirk, in 1692; 3. William, seated at Chilston Place, Kent, m. Margaret, 2d daughter of sir Thomas Culpeper, knt. of Hollingbourne, and was ancestor of the Hamiltons of Chilston.

James, the eldest son, succeeded to the title of baronet on the death of his grandfather, sir George, but declined using the title; at the age of 17 he was groom of the bed-chamber to Charles II. and afterwards a privy councillor and colonel of a regiment of horse to James II.; but perceiving that prince's intention to introduce popery, he fought on the side of king William, and was particularly assisting at the celebrated siege of Londonderry. In 1700, he succeeded to the title of earl of Abercorn, (on the decease of Charles, 5th earl of Abercorn, and 6th lord Strabane, who was the grandson and last male descendant of Cland, lord Strabane, 2d son of James, 1st earl of Abercorn), being the grandson and heir male of sir George Hamilton, bart. 4th son of the 1st earl of Abercorn. His lordship took his seat in the Scotch parliament in 1706, as 6th earl of Abercorn, but generally resided in Ireland, of which realm he was a peer, as baron Strabane, and was called into the privy council, and advanced to the dignities of viscount Strabane, and baron of Mountcastle, Dec. 2, 1701. The earl married, in 1686, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of sir Robert Reading, bart. of Dublin (by Jane, widow of Charles, earl of Mountrath), and had issue by her (who d. March 19, 1754,) 9 sons and 5 daughters, viz. 1. Robert, d. young; 2. James, lord Paisley; 3. Robert, d. young; 4. John, d. in 1714, aged 20; 5. George, d. young; 6. CHARLES COMPTON, MARQUESS and EARL of NORTHAMPTON, Earl and Baron Compton, F.S.A. and M.A. and Baron Wilmington, Lord-Lieutenant, Custos Rotulorum and Recorder of Northampton, born March 24, 1760, succeeded his father, Spencer, the 10th and late earl, April 7, 1796, married, Aug. 18, 1787, Mary, eldest daughter of Joshua Smith, of Earl Stoke Park, co. Wilts, esq. and has issue, 1. Spencer, b. June 8, and d. June 28, 1788; 2. Spencer Joshua Alwyne, earl Compton, b. Jan. 2, 1790; 3. Smith, b. Dec. 7, and d. Dec. 18, 1790; and 4. Frances-Elizabeth, b. Dec. 20, 1791.

The family of Compton derives its name from the lordship of Compton, co. Warwick. Sir William Dugdale, in his admirable history of this county, derives their descent from Turchil, who was one of the first in England, who, in imitation of the Normans, assumed a surname ; for it appears, that in the reign of king William Rufus, he wrote himself Turchilus de Eardene, from his residence in Arden, (as now written,) in the said county, the said king having dispossessed him of his castle of Warwick. By his 1st wife, he had issue, Siward de Arden, ancestor to the family of Arden, and by Leverunia, his 2d wife, he had issue Osbert, who styled himself of Compton in 1169, and is, without doubt, the ancestor of this family : which Osbert had issue 3 sons, Osbert, Philip, and Peter, the eldest of whom left 2 daughters, and co-heirs. Philip, the 2d son, writing himself Philip de Compton, was a witness, about 5 king John, with Walter Poer, to a grant of lands lying in Tirhoe, made by Richard de Beresford, and Cecilia his wife, to the cannons of Kenilworth, to him succeeded Thomas de Compton, his son and heir, who, in 1251, was certified to hold a knight's fee in Compton, of Thomas de Arden, lineal heir to Turchil above mentioned, and he of the earl of Warwick.

William lord Compton, 1st earl of Northampton, son and heir of Henry, lord Compton, was first summoned to parliament 35 Elizabeth, and Aug. 2, 1618, was invested with the dignity of earl of Northampton, in a solemn manner, in the bishop's palace at Salisbury ; K. G. lord-president of the marches and dominion of Wales ; married Elizabeth, daughter and sole heir of sir John Spencer, knt. lord mayor of the city of London, 1593, with whom he acquired a considerable fortune, being commonly styled the rich Spencer, and by her had, 1. Spencer Compton, 2d earl ; 2. Elizabeth, m. Robert Maxwell, earl of Nithisdale, in the Peerage of Scotland ; and 3. Anne, m. Ulick, son and heir of Richard Burgh, earl of Clanricarde, in the Peerage of Ireland, and earl of St. Albans, &c. in England ; which Ulick succeeded his father as earl of St. Albans, &c. and, in 1645, was created marquess of Clanricarde, but died without issue male, 1659 ; Margaret, his only daughter, m. lord Muskerri, grandfather of Donogh, earl of Clancarty, in the Peerage of Ireland. The earl died June 24, 1630, and was succeeded by his only son,

Spencer,

Spencer, 2d earl, K. B. who distinguished himself by his valour and attachment to the cause of king Charles I. and was killed at the battle of Hopton-heath, near Stafford, March 19, 1642—3. This gallant nobleman married Mary, daughter of sir Francis Beaumont, brother of Mary, countess of Buckingham, and son of Anthony Beaumont, 3d son of William Beaumont, of Cole Orton, co. Leicester, esq. and by her had 6 sons and 2 daughters; of the sons, 5 received the honour of knighthood, and Henry, the 6th, was lord bishop of London in 1675, during whose prelacy the cathedral of St. Paul's was built.

James, 3d earl, succeeded his father, and with his father's honours inherited his attachment to the fortune of his royal master, for which he was deprived of his estates by the parliament, but which were restored to him on the accession of king Charles II. married, 1st, Isabella Sackville, daughter and co-heir of Richard, 3d earl of Dorset, by the celebrated lady Anne Clifford, and by her (who d. Oct. 14, 1661,) had issue, 2 sons and 2 daughters, who all d. young; and Alatheia, m. sir Edward Hungerford, bart. son and heir of sir Edward Hungerford, K. B. and d. 1678, without issue, when her great fortune descended to her cousin John, 3d earl of Thanet; and, 2dly, Mary, daughter and heir of Baptist Noel, viscount Campden, (by his 2d wife, Hester, 2d daughter and co-heir of Thomas, lord Wotton,) and by her had 3 sons and 3 daughters; 1. George, 4th earl; 2. James, d. young; 3. the right hon. Spencer, K. G. speaker of the house of commons in several parliaments, lord president of the council, paymaster of the forces, and treasurer of Chelsea Hospital, was created a peer by the title of baron Wilmington, Jan. 2, 1727, and June 1730, was created viscount Pevensey, and earl of Wilmington; Dec. 31, of the same year, he was declared lord president of the council, and installed a K. G. His lordship d. unm. July 2, 1743, when the titles became extinct; leaving his fortune to the earl of Northampton, which has now descended to lady Elizabeth, (daughter and sole heir of Charles, 7th earl,) now the wife of lord George-

George-Augustus-Henry Cavendish, uncle to the present duke of Devonshire. The earl died Dec. 15, 1681, and was succeeded by his son,

George, 4th earl, born Oct. 18, 1664, constable of the Tower of London, married Jane, youngest daughter of sir Stephen Fox, knt. (father of Stephen, 1st earl of Ilchester, and Henry, 1st lord Holland,) and by her (who d. July 10, 1721,) had issue, 1. James, 5th earl; 2. George, 6th earl; 3. Stephen, d. young; and 4. Charles, m. Aug. 14, 1727, Mary, sole daughter and heir of sir Berkeley Lacy, of Broxburn, co. Herts, bart. and had issue, Charles, 7th earl of Northampton, and Spencer, 8th earl; 5. Mary, m. 1st, Richard Haddock, esq. and, 2dly, Arthur Scott, esq. both in R. N.; 6. ARTHUR

ARTHUR WELLESLEY, MARQUESS and EARL of WELLINGTON, Viscount Wellington of Talavera, and Baron of Douro; Field Marshal in the army, and Colonel of the royal horse-guards blue, K. G. F. K. T. S. and K. F. Commander-in-Chief of his Majesty's forces in Spain and Portugal, Marshal-General of the Portuguese armies, generalissimo of the Spanish armies, and a grandee of the highest class, (Duke of Ciudad Rodrigo, and of Vittoria, in Spain,) born May 1, 1769, married, April 10, 1806, the hon. Catharine Pakenham, 3d daughter of Edward, lord Longford (who died before his mother, Elizabeth, in her own right countess of Longford,) and sister of Thomas, 2d earl of Longford, and has issue, Arthur, lord Douro, b. Feb. 3, 1807, and Charles, b. Jan. 16, 1808.

This illustrious nobleman is the 3d surviving son of Gerrard-Colley Wellesley, earl of Mornington, in the Peerage of Ireland, by Anne Hill, eldest daughter of Arthur, viscount Dungannon, youngest and sole brother of Trevor Hill, viscount Hillsborough, father of Wills Hill, 1st marquess of Downshire, and next brother to Richard, marquess of Wellesley, K. G. K. C. K. S. L. and LL. D. (see Marquess of Wellesley, in the Peerage of Ireland.)

Arthur, marquess of Wellington, was born at Dangan Castle, the seat of his father, Garret, earl of Mornington, educated at Eton College, and embracing a military profession, served in India, under marquess Cornwallis. In Sept. 23, 1803, he fought the celebrated battle of Assye, between a division of the British army, and the combined armies of Dowlut Rao Scindeah, and the Rajah of Berar. During this severe and brilliant action, the conduct of the marquess united a degree of ability, prudence, and of dauntless spirit, seldom equalled and never surpassed. It is impossible to bestow any commendation superior to the skill, magnanimity, promptitude, and judgment, displayed by the general on this occasion, nor can any instance be adduced from the annals of our military glory, of more exemplary order, firmness, discipline, and alacrity, than were manifested by the British troops, in every stage of the arduous contest, which preceded the victory of Assye. The whole line led by general Wellesley, in person, advanced to the charge, with the greatest bravery and steadiness, without its guns, against a most destructive fire of round and grape shot, until within a very short distance of the enemy, whom the British troops compelled, (notwithstanding their superior numbers,) at the point of the bayonet, to abandon their guns, and to relinquish the field of battle, which Scindeah's infantry had maintained, with much obstinacy, for more than three hours. In 1804, he received the distinction of the military order of the Bath: in May 1804, he received the unanimous thanks of both houses of parliament, for his gallant services in the Dekan: in 1807, he was appointed secretary of state to the lord-lieutenant of Ireland: in 1808, he was sent with the command of a considerable force to Portugal; and on Aug. 21, fought and won the celebrated battle of Vimiera: in this action, in which the whole of the French force in Portugal was employed, under the command of the duke D'Abrantes in person, in which the enemy was undoubtedly superior in cavalry and artillery, and in which not more than half of the British army was actually engaged, the enemy sustained a signal defeat, and lost thirteen pieces of cannon, twenty-three ammunition waggons, with powder, shells, stores of all descriptions, and 20,000 rounds of musket ammunition. In 1809, he fought the celebrated battle of Talavera: for this victory, sir Arthur was advanced to the dignity of the peerage, by the titles of baron of Douro, and viscount Wellington, of Talavera. The viscount received, Feb. 10, 1812, the thanks of both houses of parliament, for the skill, decision, indefatigable exertion, and consummate judgment, manifested by him in the siege of Ciudad Rodrigo, by which that important fortress was wrested from the enemy in the short space of eleven days. In 1813, an act passed for granting one hundred thousand pounds for purchasing an estate for the marquess of Wellington, and the heirs of his body, in consideration of the eminent and signal services performed by the marquess to his majesty and the public. The Cortes of Spain have have also, in remuneration of the gallant public services of the marquess, conferred upon him a territorial property out of the national domains, the title of which possession shall contain the following words: "in the name of the Spanish nation, in testimony of its most sincere gratitude."

The following just tribute to the series of eminent public services achieved by the marquess of Wellington, is extracted from the speech of the right hon. Charles Abbott, speaker of the House of Commons, in addressing his R. H. the Prince Regent, at the close of the session of parliament, July 22, 1813: "but, sir, whatever doubts may cloud the rest of our views and hopes, it is to the peninsula that we look with sentiments of unquestionable delight and triumph; there the world has seen two gallant and independent nations rescued from the mortal grasp of fraud and tyranny, by British councils and British valour; and within the space of five short years, from the dawn of our successes at Roleia and Vimiera, the same illustrious commander has received the tribute of our admiration and gratitude, for the brilliant passage of the Douro, the hard fought battle of Talavera, the day of Busaco, the deliverance of Portugal, the mural crowns won at Ciudad Rodrigo and Badajoz, the splendid victory of Salamanca, and the decisive overthrow of the armies of France, in their total rout at Vittoria; deeds which have made all Europe ring with his renown, and have covered the British name with a blaze of unrivalled glory."

Nov. 8, 1813, the marquess again received the unanimous thanks of both houses of parliament, "for the consummate ability, indefatigable exertion, and admirable judgment, displayed by him in the operations which succeeded the battle of Vittoria, by which the enemy have been compelled to abandon the western provinces of Spain, and the allied army finally established on the frontier of France." Such a series of battles fought and gained, has not been achieved by any British general since the days of the celebrated duke of Marlborough.

Heir Apparent—ARTHUR, lord Douro, eldest son of the marquess.

Creations—Viscount and Baron, Aug. 26, 1809, and Marquess of Wellington, Aug. 18, 1812.

Motto—Porro unum necessarium. Moreover one thing necessary.

EARLS.

CHARLES TALBOT, EARL of SHREWSBURY, in England, Earl of Wexford and Waterford, in Ireland, premier Earl of England; born March 3, 1753; succeeded his uncle, George, the late earl, July 22, 1787; married, Sept. 12, 1792, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of James Hoey, gent. of Dublin.

This illustrious family have enjoyed the peerage from the most remote period: Richard de Talbot, one of the witnesses to that grant which Walter Giffard, earl of Buckingham, made to the monks of Cerasie, in Normandy, in the reign of William the Conqueror, Oct. 14, 1066, and in the domesday-book he is mentioned as holding nine hides of the said Walter; as also other great possessions in the time of the Conqueror; among which were lands in Bedfordshire. This Richard m. the daughter of Gerard, and sister of Hugh de Gournay, and by her had 2 sons, 1st, Geffery, a military partizan of Maude, the empress, in whose cause he exercised much cruelty, and for whom he fortified the castle of Hereford; and a benefactor to the monks of Rochester, to whom he gave his lordship of Little Wrotham, co. Kent; from whom descended the Talbots, of Bashall, and Thornhill, co. York; and 2. Hugh, ancestor of the earls of Shrewsbury and Talbot. Hugh, youngest son of the above named Richard, governor of the castle of Plessy, 1118, left issue, Richard, father of Gilbert Talbot, who was present at the coronation of king Richard I. July 9, 1189, leaving issue Richard, m. Aliva, daughter of Alan Basset, baron of Wiscombe, co. Bucks, sister to Gilbert Basset, justice of England, she was widow of Dru de Montacute, and had issue Gilbert, and Richard, elected bishop of London, 1261, but died previous to his consecration.

Gilbert, the eldest son, held three castles in the marches of Wales, for Edward, prince of Wales, on the insurrection of the Welsh, under Llewellyn, in 1256: he died 1274, having married Guendeline, daughter of Rhese ap Griffith, prince of South Wales, leaving by her Richard, his heir, aged 24, at the time of his decease; and in respect of the said marriage, his descendants relinquished their paternal coat of arms, viz. bendy of ten pieces, argent and gules; and bore a lion rampant, or, in a field, gules, with a bordure engrailed of the first; which were the arms of the said Rhese, and his ancestors, from whom descended

John Talbot, 1st earl of Shrewsbury, K. G. celebrated for his great and heroic achievements, lord-lieutenant of Ireland, &c. created earl of Shrewsbury May 20, 1442, earl of Wexford, and earl of Waterford, July 17, 1446. It has been observed of this earl, that he had been victorious in forty several battles and dangerous skirmishes. He fell at the battle of Chastillon, July 20, 1453, aged 30; from whom descended

Charles, 12th earl of Shrewsbury, b. July 24, 1660, received his name from his godfather, king Charles II.; he was one of the privy council, and appointed secretary of state in 1688, and, in 1694, created marquess of Alton, and duke of Shrewsbury; his grace d. Feb. 1, 1717, having filled several situations under James II. William and Mary, and queen Anne, and leaving no issue, issue, the dukedom and marquessate became extinct, but the earldom devolved to his cousin, the rev. Gilbert Talbot, (eldest surviving son of Gilbert, 4th son; John, 10th earl of Shrewsbury, by Mary, daughter of sir John Fortescue,) who became the 13th earl; he was in the holy orders of the Church of Rome, and d. in 1744, and was succeeded by his only brother,

George, 14th earl, who, on the 11th of March, 1719, married Mary, daughter of Thomas, 4th viscount Fitzwilliam, in the Peerage of Ireland, (by Elizabeth, sister to George Pitt, of Stratfieldsay, in Hampshire, ancestor to the barons Rivers,) and by her (who d. Sept. 20, 1752) had issue 7 sons: 1. George, 15th earl; 2. Charles, m. Mary, daughter and co-heir of Robert Alwyn, of Trayford, in Essex, esq. and by her (who d. in child-bed, June 8, 1750,) had Mary, who d. July 12, 1771; he m. 2dly, April 7, 1752, Mary, daughter of sir George Mostyn, of Talacre, in Flintshire, bart. and by her, who d. Feb. 1812, had issue, Charles, present earl; George-Joseph, d. July 7, 1789; John-Joseph, b. June 9, 1765, m. 1st, May 23, 1789, Miss Clifton, and had issue by her, Charles, b. in March, 1789, and John, b. in April, 1790; and, 2dly, May 4, 1797, Harriet, daughter of the rev. Bacon Bedingfield, of Ditchingham Hall, Norfolk; Anne, d. young; Frances; Barbara, m. April 9, 1780, Francis-Fortescue Turville, esq. and has issue; Catherine-Mary; Juliana, m. June 7, 1784, M. Bryan, esq. and has issue; Elizabeth; Theresa, m. Feb. 5, 1793, Robert Selby, esq. and has issue Robert and John, and Anne-Mary, d. Jan. 27, 1775; Charlotte-Mary, d. in 1775. 3. John, d. unm. April 5, 1751; 4. James; 5. Thomas, both d. unm.; 6. Francis, m. April 20, 1761, Anne, daughter of Thomas Belasyse, 1st earl of Fauconberg, and by her (who d. Sept. 13, 1768,) had no issue; and, 2dly, May 18, 1772, Margaret-Frances, sole daughter of William Sheldon, esq. by whom he had the following issue, George, d. June 7, 1773; Elizabeth-Margaret, b. May 20, 1775; Frances, d. Dec. 22, 1795; Maria, m. Sept. 22, 1802, James Wheble, of Woodley-Lodge, Berkshire, esq. and has issue; Francis-William, b. March 15, 1781; Charles-Thomas, b. Nov. 24, 1782; Louisa 1776, and d. Nov. 25, 1805, having m. Aug. 22, 1796, her cousin, Edmund Hornby, esq. son of the above-named rev. Geoffrey Hornby—Elizabeth-Henrietta, m. Jan. 15, 1795, Thomas Cole, esq. son of major Thomas-Rea Cole, of Twickenham, Middlesex, by Isabella, daughter of sir Henry Ibbetson, bart. and has issue. The earl married, 2dly, May 1, 1797, Eliza, daughter of — Farren, of the city of Cork, gent. and has issue: Lucy-Elizabeth, b. March 1, 1799, d. April 25, 1809—Henry-James, b. March 9, 1800—Mary-Margaret, b. March 23, 1801.

William, de Audleigh, living in the reign of king John, had from his cousin, sir Adam, son of Lydulph, the manor of Stanleigh, and half of Barterley, co. Derby, in exchange for Talk, co. Stafford; which William, fixing his seat at Stanleigh, assumed the sur-name of Stanleigh or Stanley, from that manor, which was so styled from its rough and stony soil, being part of that tract of land, called the Moorlands — William, great grandson of the said William, flourished in the reign of Henry III. and was father of sir William de Stanley, who married Joan, eldest daughter and heir to sir Philip de Bamville, lord of Stourton, co. Chester, which sir William, by his marriage, became possessed of the above named manor and baylwick of Wyrall forrest, and thereupon assumed the armorial bearings, since used by his descendants in place of those wore by his ancestors; viz. three stags heads on a bend.

Sir Thomas Stanley was summoned to parliament as baron Stanley, in 1456; his son, Thomas, 2d baron, having been very instrumental in the victory of Henry VII. at Bosworth Field, was created earl of Derby, in 1485; he m. 1st, Eleanor, daughter of Richard Nevile, earl of Salisbury, and sister of the celebrated Richard Nevile, the king-making earl of Warwick: he was, 8 Edw. IV. solicited by that earl to put himself in arms against king Edward, which he refused. He was appointed chief-justice of Chester, 2 Edw. IV. and continued so till 1 Hen. VII. when his son, George, lord Strange, was joined to him in the same commission. He m. 2dly, Margaret, daughter and heir of John, duke of Somerset, set, widow of Edmund Tudor, earl of Richmond, and mother of Henry, earl of Richmond, at that time competitor for the crown ; and for the services rendered king Henry VII. at the battle of Bosworth, he was Oct. 27, 1485, advanced to the dignity of an earl ; from whom descended

James, 7th earl. He was taken prisoner at the fatal battle of Worcester, Sept. 3, 1651, and, contrary to the law of nations, was condemned to die, notwithstanding his just plea, that he had quarter for life given him by one captain Edge, who took him prisoner : but this plea was overruled, and he was, Oct. 15, 1651, beheaded at Bolton, in Lancashire : he m. Charlotte de la Tremouille, daughter of Claude, duke of Tremouille, in France, (by Charlotte Brabantine de Nassau, youngest daughter of William I. prince of Orange, founder of the Dutch republic,) and by her had issue Charles, his successor, and 4 daughters, Charlotte, the eldest, d. unm. ; Henrietta-Mary, m. William Wentworth, 2d earl of Strafford ; Catharine, m. Henry Pierrepont, marquess of Dorchester ; Amelia-Sophia, m. John Murray, 1st marquess of Athol, ancestor of the present duke, (vide Duke of Atholl in the Peerage of Scotland.) This noble earl was truly loyal and of a great and heroic spirit ; he fell a sacrifice to the dastardly revenge of Oliver Cromwell, who sent a letter, offering him his own terms, if he would deliver up the Isle of Man : to which the earl returned the following spirited answer :

“ I received your letter with indignation, and with scorn I return you this answer, that I cannot but wonder whence you should gather any hopes from me, that I should (like you) prove treacherous to my sovereign ; since you cannot be insensible of my former actings in his late majesty’s service ; from which principle of loyalty I am no way departed.

“ I scorn your proffers ; I disdain your favours ; I abhor your treasons ; and am so far from delivering this island to your advantage, that I will keep it the utmost of my power to your destruction.

“ Take this final answer, and forbear any farther solicitations ; for if you trouble me with any more messages upon upon this occasion, I will burn the paper, and hang the bearer.

JOHN-WILLIAM EGERTON, EARL of BRIDGE-WATER, Viscount Brackley, and Baron of Ellesmere; a General in the army, and Colonel of the 14th regiment of Dragoons; Steward of Estates to the Prince Regent, in Hertfordshire, and Master of Gretham Hospital, Durham, F. S. A.; born April 13, 1753; succeeded, March 8, 1803, to the titles as above, on the death of Francis, 3d and last duke of Bridgewater; married Jan. 14, 1783, Charlotte-Catherine-Anne, only daughter and sole heir of Samuel Haynes, esq.

This family is descended, according to Camden, from Robert, Baron of Malpas, in the reign of William the Conqueror; whose son Robert, as appears from Domesday Book, held in Cestrescire, and other parts, 32 different manors or lordships. Robert dying without male issue, Lætitia, his only daughter and sole heir, m. John le Belward de Malpas, in the reign of William Rufus. His son and heir, William, m. Beatrix, daughter of Hugh, earl of Chester, and sister of Ranulph, earl of Chester, and by her left issue 3 sons, David, Robert, and Richard; from which 3 sons are descended all the families of Egerton, and all the several families of Cholmondeley.

mondeley. David, baron of Malpas, was justice of Chester, and high-sheriff of the county of Chester, in 1248, 36 Hen. III. He had two sons, William, baron of Malpas, who left no legitimate issue; and Philip, high-sheriff of Cheshire, in the reign of Edward I. who being possessed of the manor of Egerton, in the county of Chester, took, according to the custom of that age, the surname of Egerton, from the place of his residence; which said manor and estate of Egerton has remained in possession of the Egerton family, to this day.

Sir Thomas Egerton, the 1st lord Ellesmere, and viscount Brackley, natural son of sir Richard Egerton, of Ridley, in Cheshire, was educated at Oxford, and afterwards studied at Lincoln's Inn, and was called to the bar. He was appointed, June 28, 1581, solicitor-general to queen Elizabeth; attorney-general, June 2, 1592; master of the rolls, in 1594, being then a knight; and, in 1596, lord keeper of the great seal. He was created baron of Ellesmere by James I. July 21, 1603, and on the 24th of the same month, constituted lord high chancellor. It is remarkable his lordship held the great seal for a longer period than any of his successors, viz. from May 6, 1596, to March 3, 1617. He was elected chancellor of the university of Oxford, in Nov. 1610, and advanced to the dignity of viscount Brackley in 1616. The viscount d. in 1617, aged 70, leaving issue,

Sir John Egerton, K. B. 2d lord Ellesmere, and viscount Brackley, created earl of Bridgewater, May 27, 1617, m. lady Frances Stanley, daughter and co-heir of Ferdinando, earl of Derby, (by Margaret Clifford, daughter and only child of Henry Clifford, earl of Cumberland, by lady Eleanor Brandon, daughter and co-heir of Charles Brandon, duke of Suffolk, by his wife, the princess Mary, youngest daughter of king Henry VII. and dowager of France,) and by her (who d. March 11, 1625,) had issue. His lordship d. Dec. 4, 1649; from whom descended,

Scroope, 4th earl, succeeded his father, John, in 1700; b. Aug. 11, 1681; created marquess of Brackley, and duke of Bridgewater, June 18, 1720. His grace m. 1st, Elizabeth Elizabeth Churchill, 3d daughter and co-heir of John, 2d duke of Marlborough, by whom (who d. March 22, 1714,) he had John, viscount Brackley, b. Feb. 3, 1704, and d. Jan. 29, 1714, and another son, who d. young; Anne, b. Dec. 19, 1705, m. 1st, April 22, 1725, Wriothsesley, 3d duke of Bedford; and, 2dly, in June, 1733, William, earl of Jersey, and d. in 1763, leaving issue. His grace m. 2dly, Aug. 4, 1722, Rachael, sister to the above-named Wriothsesley, duke of Bedford, and had issue, Charles, marquess of Brackley, d. May 2, 1731; John, 2d duke; William, d. Feb. 19, 1729; Thomas, d. an infant; Diana, b. March 3, 1732, m. March 9, 1753, Frederic, lord Baltimore, and d. Aug. 18, 1758, without issue; Francis, 3d duke; Louisa, b. April 13, 1723, m. March 28, 1748, Granville-Levison, 1st marquess of Stafford, K. G. and d. March 14, 1761, leaving issue George, 2d and present marquess of Stafford; Caroline, b. May 21, 1724. To the illustrious house of Bridgewater, the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland are indebted for having first conceived and executed the plan of inland navigation, by the system of canals; Scroop, duke of Bridgewater, having obtained, in 1732, 10 Geo. II. "An Act for making a Navigable Canal from Worsley to Manchester." His grace deceasing Jan. 11, 1745, was succeeded by his son, John, 2d duke, dying unm. March 8, 1748, was succeeded by his only surviving brother, Francis, 3d duke, who d. unm. March 3, 1803, was succeeded in the earldom by John-William Egerton, the present and 7th earl.

John-William, the 7th earl, is descended from Henry, brother to Scroope, the 1st duke, who was consecrated bishop of Hereford, in 1724; 5th son of sir John Egerton, 3d earl of Bridgewater, brother to Scroope, father of Francis, the 3d duke; b. Feb. 10, 1688; m. Dec. 10, 1720, Elizabeth-Ariana Bentinck, daughter of William, the 1st earl of Portland, by Jane, (6th daughter of sir John Temple, of East Sheen, in Surrey, bart. sister to Henry, viscount Palmerston, and relict of John, lord Berkeley, of Stratton), and by her, who d. March 24, 1765, had issue, 1. Henry, d. young; 2. William, lieutenant-tenant-

tenant-colonel in the army, m. Mary, daughter of Robert Kirke, esq. and by her (who d. July, 1810,) had William and James, both d. young; 3. Ariana-Margaret; 4. Elizabeth, m. Feb. 19, 1784, Anthony-Charles-Benjamin Saladin, esq. and by her (who d. Aug. 27, 1810,) had issue, Anthony-Charles-William, Charlotte-Ariana, Augustus-Henry, Amelia-Matilda, and Sophia-Eleanor-Laura; 5. Isabella-Frances, m. March 18, 1784, Richard Master, esq. and has issue, William, Henry, Richard, Thomas, and St. Vincent-Frederic; 6. Henry; 7. Charles, d. Nov. 7, 1725; having m. Catherine, daughter of Francis Greville, esq. and sister to Fulke and William, lords Brooke, who d. July, 1735, by whom he had issue; 8. James; 9. John, d. unm.; 10. John, bishop of Durham, m. Anna-Sophia, daughter of Henry Grey, duke of Kent, and by her (who d. March 24, 1780,) had 3 sons and 1 daughter; John, d. young; John-William, the present earl; Francis-Henry, M. A. F. R. S. and F. S. A. in holy orders, prebendary of Durham, and rector of Whitchurch, in the county of Salop. (His Majesty was pleased, Jan. 22, 1808, to grant to the rev. Francis Egerton, and his sister, lady Amelia, the same rank and precedence as if their father, John, bishop of Durham, had survived his cousin, Francis, 3d duke of Bridgewater;) Amelia, m. April 25, 1771, sir Abraham Hume, of Wormleybury, in the county of Herts, bart. M. P. for Hastings, and by her (who d. Aug. 8, 1809,) had issue, 1. Amelia, m. the right hon. Charles Long, M. P. for Haslemere, and joint paymaster of the forces; 2. Sophia, m. July 24, 1810, John, lord Brownlow, and has issue. The bishop of Durham m. 2dly, March 31, 1782, Mary, sister to sir Edward Broughton, bart. by whom he had no issue, and d. Jan. 18, 1786. His grace the duke of Bridgewater d. March 8, 1803, without issue male, and was succeeded in the earldom by John-William, the present and 7th earl, great-grandson and heir male of John, earl of Bridgewater, grandfather of Francis, the late duke, heir male of sir John Egerton, knt. the 1st earl of Bridgewater, grandson, and younger co-heir of Henry de Grey, duke and earl of of Kent, who was heir male of Edmond, earl of Kent, 5th of Edward IV. son and heir of sir John Grey, by Constance Holland, whose father, sir John Holland, duke of Exeter, and earl of Huntingdon, was son and heir male of lady Joan Plantagenet, daughter of king Edward the First's youngest son, Edward Plantagenet, of Woodstock, earl of Kent, whose mother, lady Elizabeth Plantagenet, daughter of king Edward the Third's son, John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster, and of his 1st wife, lady Blanche, daughter and heir of Henry Plantagenet, duke of Lancaster, grandson and heir of king Henry the Third's second son Edmond, earl of Lancaster.

ALBEMARLE BERTIE, EARL of LINDSEY, in Lincolnshire, a General in the army, and Colonel of the 89th regiment of foot; succeeded Brownlow, the 5th duke of Ancaster and Kesteven, Feb. 8, 1809, when the dukedom and marquessate became extinct, being heir male of Robert Bertie, the 1st earl of Lindsey, K. G.; married, 1st, Elizabeth, relict of Thomas Scrope, of Coleby, in Lincolnshire, esq. daughter of William Clay, of Burridgehill, in Nottinghamshire, esq.; and, 2dly, Nov. 18, 1809, miss Layard, daughter of the late C. P. Layard, D. D. and dean of Bristol, and has issue a daughter, b. May 17, 1812, who survived but a few hours.

This family is said to have come into England with the Saxons, from Bertiland, on the borders of Prussia. The first person of the name of Bertie mentioned in our records is Leopold de Bertie, constable of Dover Castle, in the reign of king Ethelred, from whom descended Robert Bertie, the 1st earl of Lindsey, K. G. admiral of the fleet, m. Elizabeth, sole daughter of Edward, baron Montagu, of Boughton, in Northamptonshire, and by her had Montagu, 2d earl, and 7 other sons, and 5 daughters. The earl laid claim to the earldom of Oxford, and to the baronies of Bulbeck, Stanford, and Badlesmere, and to the office of hereditary lord high chamberlain of England, as son and heir to Mary Vere, daughter and sole heir of John, earl of Oxford, which claim was allowed, and petitioned the queen to be admitted to the dignity of a baron in her right: his lordship was, in consequence, summoned to parliament in Jan. 1580, as baron Willoughby de Eresby, and took his seat in the house of lords, next to lord Zouch of Harryngworth. His lordship, however, had ample remuneration for his disappointment of the earldom of Oxford, &c.; for, Nov. 22, 1626, he was created earl of Lindsey, and, in Aug. 1642, he was appointed general of his majesty's forces, in which post he fell a martyr to the royal cause, at the memorable battle of Edge-hill, Oct. 23, 1642. He was succeeded by his son, Montagu, 2d earl, K. G. in 1661; m. 1st, Martha, daughter of sir William Cockayne, of Rushton, in Northamptonshire, knt. and relict of John Ramsay, earl of

of Holderness, and by her (who d. in July, 1641,) had issue, 1. Elizabeth, m. Baptist, viscount Campden; 2. Bridget, m. Thomas, 1st duke of Leeds, and d. in 1704; 3. Catharine, m. Robert Dormer, of Dorton, Bucks, esq.; 4. Robert, 3d earl; 5. Peregrine, d. in 1770; 6. Richard, d. unm. in 1685; 7. Vere, one of the justices of the Common Pleas, in the reign of Charles II. d. unm. in 1680; 8. Charles, of Uffington, m. Mary, relict of sir Samuel Jones, knt. and d. in 1710, leaving issue. The earl m. 2dly, Bridget, daughter and sole heir of Edward Wray, esq. by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter and sole heir of Francis, lord Norreys, earl of Berkshire, and had issue, James Bertie, baron Norreys, by descent, in right of his mother; created earl of Abingdon, Nov. 30, 1682, (see Earl of ABINGDON); Henry; Edward; and Mary, m. Charles Dormer, earl of Carnarvon. The earl d. July 25, 1665, and was succeeded by

CHARLES-HENRY MORDAUNT, EARL of PETERBOROUGH and MONMOUTH, Viscount Mordaunt of Avalon, Baron Mordaunt of Ryegate, and Baron

Baron Mordaunt of Turvey; born May 11, 1758; succeeded his father, Charles, the late earl, Aug. 1, 1779.

Eustach le Mordaunt, who, by marriage with Alice, daughter and co-heir of sir William de Alneto, (or Alno,) modernly styled Dauncy, became possessed of the lordship of Turvey, co. Bedford. Several deeds of this Eustach are extant by the name of Eustachius Mordaunt de Wahall. William, his son, was lord of Turvey, Radwell, Ashull, and other lands, and was succeeded by his son, William, who was possessed of Chicheley, and had licence from king Edward I. 1292, to enclose his pasture of Wolsey, Turvey Lees, Mansel Grove, and other lands in Turvey, to form a park.

John Mordaunt, 5th lord Mordaunt, was created earl of Peterborough, in 1628, and had issue, Henry, 2d earl, and John, created viscount Avalon, and lord Mordaunt of Ryegate, in 1659, for his services in effecting the restoration; whose son, Charles, 2d viscount Avalon, was created earl of Monmouth, in 1689, and, in 1697, became 3d earl of Peterborough, on the decease of his uncle, Henry, 2d earl, without issue male, K. G. His lordship served in his youth, during the war with the Algerines, under the admirals Torrington and Narborough. In 1705 he was declared general and commander in chief of the forces sent to Spain, and joint admiral of the fleet with sir Cloudesley Shovel, knt. and took Barcelona, and drove the duke of Anjou and the French army out of Spain, which consisted of 25,000 men, though his own troops never amounted to 10,000. He m. 1st, Carey, daughter of sir Alexander Frazer, and by her (who d. May 13, 1709,) had 2 sons, John and Henry, and a daughter, Henrietta, m. Alexander, 2d duke of Gordon. Of the sons, Henry, the youngest, was a commander in the navy, and d. unm. Feb. 24, 1710—John, his brother, took early to arms, and at the battle of Höchstet lost his left arm; he d. April 6, 1710, leaving issue by Frances, daughter of Charles, 2d duke of Bolton, (who d. July 30, 1715,) 2 sons, Charles, d. Jan. 15, 1808, and John, who, in Oct. 1735, m. 1st, Mary, sister to Scroope, 2d viscount Howe, and relict of Thomas, 8th earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, (who d. Sept. 12, 1749;) and, 2dly, 2dly, Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel Hamilton, esq. but d. without issue, July 1, 1767. The earl m. 2dly, in 1735, Miss Anastatia Robinson, and deceasing at Lisbon, Oct. 25, 1735, was succeeded by his grandson, Charles, 4th earl of Peterborough, who m. 1st, Mary, daughter of John Cox, esq. and by her, (who d. Nov. 18, 1755,) had issue, Frances-Anne, b. in April, 1736, m. Oct. 10, 1765, the rev. Samuel Bulkeley, D. D. prebendary of Bristol, and rector of Henton, co. Northampton, and d. in Oct. 1793—Mary-Anastatia-Grace, b. June 5, 1738. His lordship m. 2dly, in 1756, Robiniana, daughter of colonel Brown, by whom (who d. Dec. 6, 1794,) he had issue, Charles-Henry, the present earl; Poulet, b. July 12, 1759, who d. young; and a daughter, m. Oct. 21, 1787, to Maurice Bisset, esq. His lordship d. Aug. 1, 1779, and was succeeded by his son, Charles-Henry, the present and 5th earl.

Heir Presumptive—To the Barony of Mordaunt, of Turvey, only, the earl's half-sister, lady Frances Bulkeley, and her issue, if any; and in default, then the duke of Gordon is presumed to be the heir general.

Creations—Baron Mordaunt, of Turvey, in Bedfordshire, by writ of summons, May 4, 1532; Earl of Peterborough, in Northamptonshire, by letters patent, March 9, 1627-8; Baron Mordaunt of Ryegate, and Viscount Mordaunt, of Avalon, in Somersetshire, July 10, 1659; and Earl of the county of Monmouth, April 9, 1689.

Motto—Nec placidâ contenta quiete est. Not contented with soft repose.

GEORGE-CAPEL CONINGSBY, EARL of ESSEX, Viscount Malden, and Baron Capel, of Hadham, Lord-Lieutenant of Herefordshire, Recorder and High-Steward of Leominster; born Nov. 13, 1758; succeeded his father, Ann-Holles, the late earl, March 5, 1799; married, June 6, 1786, Mrs. E. Stephenson, widow of Edward Stephenson, esq. and daughter of Henry Bazett, esq.

John Capell, of Stoke Neyland, in Suffolk, esq. living in 1449, had 2 sons, John, the eldest, had the possessions in Suffolk; and the 2d, sir William Capel, knt. entering into business, fixed himself in London, where by his ingenuity he acquired great wealth, and at the same time possessed the esteem of his fellow citizens. The court could not see his success without a degree of envy, that was sufficient to influence sir Richard Empson and sir Edmund Dudley, under colour of justice, to extort one thousand six hundred pounds from him, which they threw into the exchequer; and discovering that he was still accumulating more wealth, they attacked him a second time, for the same sum of money, upon the specious pretence that he had, in his mayoralty, not properly exerted himself against a person accused of coining. A clear conscience enabled him to resist the extortion, tortion, and he steadily refused to answer their demands: this produced his commitment to the Tower, in 1509, from whence he was in a short time released by the death of his royal master, who had given but too much countenance to those arbitrary proceedings, notwithstanding he had conferred upon him the honour of knighthood, Jan. 17, 1485, eight years previous to his serving the office of lord mayor. In 1492, 1512, and 1514, we find him sitting in parliament for the city of London. He made considerable additions to St. Bartholomew's church, behind the Royal Exchange, by building a chapel, or chantry, whence persons have with good reason conjectured that his place of residence was in that parish; and another strong circumstance seems to point out the very spot where his house stood, which is now called Capel Court; but, previous to the fire of London, was, as asserted, one house, styled Capel House. Sir William m. Margaret, daughter of sir John Arundel, of Lanherne, in Cornwall, and by her had, Elizabeth, m. William Powlet, 1st marquess of Winchester, (ancestor of the present marquess of Winchester); and Dorothy, m. John, lord Zouch, of Haryngworth; and deceasing March 6, 1515, when his great fortune devolved upon his only son, sir Giles Capel, knt. from whom descended,

Arthur, 1st lord Capel, (who succeeded his grandfather, sir Henry Capel,) created baron Capel, of Hadham, Aug. 6, 1641; he was eminent for his loyalty, and beheaded by the rebels, with James, duke of Hamilton, earl of Cambridge, &c. in Old Palace Yard, March 9, 1649; m. Elizabeth, daughter and sole heir of sir Charles Morrison, of Cashiobury, co. Herts, knt. and by her had 6 daughters: 1. Elizabeth; 2. Theodosia, both d. young; 3. Mary, m. 1st, Henry Seymour, marquess of Hertford, and by him was mother to William, 3d duke of Somerset; and, 2dly, to Henry, 1st duke of Beaufort, by which she became grandmother to Henry, 2d duke of Beaufort; 4. Elizabeth, m. Charles Dormer, earl of Carnarvon; 5. Theodosia, m. Henry Hyde, earl of Clarendon; 6. Anne, m. John Strangways, son and heir of Giles Strangways, of Melbury-Sandford, co. Dorset, Dorset, esq.; also 4 sons: 1. Arthur, 1st earl; 2. sir Henry Capel, K. B. created baron Capel, of Tewkesbury, April 11, 1692; in 1679, he was appointed 1st lord of the admiralty, lord-lieutenant of Ireland; and dying in Dublin, May 13, 1696, without issue, when the title became extinct; 3. Edward; 4. Charles, both d. unm. His lordship deceasing, was succeeded by his son, Arthur, 1st earl, who was, April 20, 1661, created viscount Malden and earl of Essex. After holding several important situations in the diplomatic line, he was, in 1672, appointed lord-lieutenant of Ireland; he was recalled in 1677, and was accused, among many others, of the fanatic plot, and was sent prisoner to the Tower, where, July 13, 1683, he was found with his throat cut; but not without suspicion of his being murdered. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Algernon Percy, 10th earl of Northumberland, and by her (who d. in 1718,) had 6 sons and 2 daughters, whereof only 1 son, and a daughter, Anne, lived to maturity; and m. in 1692, Charles, 3d earl of Carlisle, and had issue. The earl deceasing, was succeeded by his only son,

Algernon, 2d earl; m. Mary Bentinck, eldest daughter of William, 1st earl of Portland, (ancestor to the present duke of Portland,) and by her who afterwards m. sir Conyers D'Arcy, left William, his heir, and 2 daughters, Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Samuel Molyneux, esq. but he deceasing in April 1728, she m. 2dly, Nathaniel St. Andre, esq.; and Mary, who m. May 7, 1729, Alan Bodrick, viscount Midleton, in Ireland. The earl deceasing, was succeeded by his son,

William, 3d earl, b. in 1697, m. 1st, Nov. 27, 1718, Jane, eldest surviving daughter of Henry Hyde, earl of Clarendon and Rochester, and sister to John, the 1st earl Gower, and by her (who d. Jan. 30, 1724,) he had 4 daughters, 1. Caroline, b. Sept. 20, 1719, who d. young; 2. Jane, b. Oct. 20, 1720, who d. young; 3. Charlotte, b. Oct. 2, 1721, m. March 30, 1752, Thomas Villiers, (2d son of the earl of Jersey,) created, 1756, baron Hyde, of Hindon, co. Wilts, and had issue; 4. Mary, b. Oct. 13, 1722, m. Aug. 26, 1758, to the late admiral

THOMAS-MORETON-FITZHARDINGE BERKELEY, EARL of BERKELEY, Viscount Dursley, and Baron Berkeley, of Berkeley Castle; born Oct. 19, 1796, succeeded his father, Frederick-Augustus, the late earl, Aug. 8, 1810.

This noble family is descended from Robert Fitzhardinge, who obtained a grant of the castle and honour of Berkeley, in Gloucestershire, (which this family still inherit, and from whence they obtained the surname of Berkeley;) and to the said Robert (who accompanied William the Conqueror in his expedition into England, and was grandson to one of the kings of Denmark) succeeded Maurice Berkeley, who m. Alice, daughter to Roger de Berkeley, of Dursley, and had Robert, his heir, who d. May 13, 1219, who was succeeded by Thomas, his brother, m. Joan, daughter of Ralph de Somery, lord of Campden in Gloucester, from whom descended Thomas de Berkeley, who was summoned to parliament by Edward I. and II. and by Jane his wife, daughter of William de Ferrers, earl of Derby, had Maurice, his heir, who was appointed justice of South Wales, in 1319, being being styled dilectus consanguineus regis; he was made steward of the duchy of Aquitain, and had for his wages an assignation of two thousand pounds tournois; by Eva, daughter of Eudo le Zouche, by Millisent, daughter and co-heir of William de Cantelupe, and by her who d. 1314, had Thomas, his heir; Maurice, from whom descended the barons Botetourt and Berkeley, of Stratton; John, ancestor of the Berkeleys of Shropshire. Thomas, his heir, having taken part with his father, and other nobles, against the Spencers, was imprisoned in the Tower of London, (from whence he escaped;) 2dly, in the castle of Berkhamstead; and 3dly, in that of Pevensey, from which being released by the queen and her party, had his castle of Berkeley (of which Hugh le Despencer had dispossessed him) restored to him; he had the custody of king Edward II. at his castle of Berkeley, who received him by indenture from Henry, earl of Lancaster, with an allowance of five pounds per day; but neither king nor castle continued long in his possession, but were ordered to be delivered up to John, lord Maltravers, and Thomas Gurney, whence the execrable murder of that unhappy monarch succeeded. His lordship, however, was afterwards tried as an accessory to the murder of the king, but acquitted both by the jury and the parliament; although there are some circumstances that make it very suspicious that he was favourable to the horrid deed, as his conniving at Gurney, and sheltering him afterwards. His lordship was one of the principal commanders at the celebrated battle of Poitiers, where he acquired great honour; in 1357 and 1360, he had summons to parliament; he d. Oct. 27, 1361, and was buried at Berkeley church; from whom descended

Thomas, 9th lord, Sept. 9, 1513, he had a command in the English army in that celebrated battle fought at Flodden, and for his gallantry there received the honour of knighthood from Thomas Howard, earl of Surrey, m. 1st, Eleanor, daughter of sir Marmaduke Constable, of Flamborough, co. York, knt. relict of John Ingelby, of Ripley, in the same co., and 2dly, Cecilia, relict of Richard Rowden, co. Gloucester, esq.; he had Thomas, his heir, and Mary, m. sir Robert Throckmorton, of Coughton, co. Warwick, ancestor to sir John, the present bart.

Thomas, 10th lord, who by Anne, his 2d wife, daughter of sir John Savage of Frodsham, co. Chester, knt. and Elizabeth, m. Thomas Butler, 10th earl of Ormond, without issue.

Henry, 11th lord Berkeley, his son and heir, on the death of King Edward VI. the last male heir of Henry VIII. had possession of Berkeley castle, and all those lordships settled on that monarch by William, marquess of Berkeley: he obtained livery of them in 1553-4, previous to his arrival at full age. The said castle of Berkeley, and lordship had rested in the crown full sixty-one years, four months, and 22 days, and were then of the value of 687*l.* 5*s.* per annum, old rent, not accounting the parks and chases thereto belonging. The inquisition taken of the estates on the decease of king Edward VI. recites the remainder made by the said William, marquess of Berkeley (extinct 1492) to king Henry VIII. and the heirs male of his body, and in default, to his own right heirs. The several manors, &c. so entailed, are as follows: The castle and manor of Berkeley, the manors of Hame, Apulridge, Slymbridge, Hurst, Cowley, Alkington, Came, Hynton, Wotton-under-Edge, with the advowsons thereof, of Symondshall, and Erlingham, co. Gloucester, the manors of Postbury, and Potshed, co. Somerset, one 4th of the manor of Tiborne, alias Marybone, co. Middlesex, and the manor of Shington, co. Warwick. These manors with the appurtenances, coming to lord Henry Berkeley, within age, as heir in remainder; and the doubt being whether he was to be in ward to the queen, and to sue livery at full age. Queen Mary, by warrant, Sept. 8, 1554, to the master and council of the court of wards, gave them special warrants to pass his livery of the said lands at the old rent, during the minority, as if he had been at full age, dated Sept. 5, 1554. In the said inquisition it is recited, that he was son of Thomas, lord Berkeley, and brother and heir of Maurice, lord Berkeley, eldest son of Maurice, lord Berkeley, brother and heir of the said William,

William, marquess of Berkeley, m. Catharine, 3d daughter to Henry Howard, earl of Surrey, by Frances, daughter of John Vere, earl of Oxford, and by her (who d. April 7, 1596,) had issue, sir Thomas, knt. b. July 11, 1575; m. Elizabeth, sole daughter and heir of George Carey, 2d lord Hunsdon, lord chamberlain to queen Elizabeth, and d. Nov. 22, 1611, leaving George, who succeeded his grandfather and 12th lord Berkeley; Ferdinand; and Mary, m. John Zouch, son and heir of sir John Zouch, of Codnore, co. Derby, knt.; Frances, m. George Shirley, of Astwell, co. Northampton, esq. created afterwards a baronet, and ancestor to the present earl Ferrars; Joan; and Catharine.

George, K. B. only son of sir Thomas, as above; succeeded his grandfather, being the 12th lord Berkeley, agreeable to the summons of his ancestor, June 23, 1295, m. Elizabeth, 2d daughter and co-heir of sir Michael Stanhope, of Sudbury, co. Of this family, which were long settled in the county of Warwick, was William Coventry, of Coventry, whose son John, being a mercer of London, was sheriff of that city, with Robert Whittington, in 1416, and lord mayor in 1425; he was one of the executors of Richard Whittington, who was three times lord mayor of London: and who having begun to build Newgate and the library of the Grey Friars at Christ-Church, London, with that of Guildhall, they were all finished by his three executors. This John Coventry is much commended, in our ancient chronicles, for his discreet conduct in the debate between Humphry, duke of Gloucester, and Henry Beaufort, bishop of Winchester, and was buried in the church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, London. From him, in a lineal descent, was Vincent Coventry, whose son and heir, sir Richard, m. a daughter of ———— Turner, and had 2 sons, John, of Cassington, and Thomas Coventry, of Croome, in Worcestershire; who, in the 3d of James-I. was appointed one of the judges of the court of Common Pleas, and dying Dec. 12, 1666, was succeeded by Thomas, his eldest son, b. at Croome-Dabitot in Worcestershire, in 1578; November 17, 1615, he was elected recorder of London, and in 1625, he was appointed lord-keeper of the great seal; and April 18, 1628, was created baron Coventry of Aylesbury, co. Worcester, (extinct, 1719;) the earl of Clarendon, in his History of the Rebellion, says, "That he was a man of wonderful gravity and wisdom, and understood not only the whole science and mystery of the law, at least equally with any man, that had ever sat in that place; but had a clear conception of the whole policy of the government both of church and state; which, by the unskilfulness of some well-meaning men, jostled each other too much;" m. 1st, Sarah, daughter of sir Edward Sebright, of

of Besford, in Worcestershire, knt.; and had Thomas, 2d lord; Anne, m. 1st, sir William Saville, bart. and by him was mother of a son, George, created afterwards marquess of Halifax, which title became extinct in 1700; Mary, m. Henry-Frederick Thynne, of Longleat, in Wiltshire, (ancestor of the present marquess of Bath;) Margaret, m. Anthony, 1st earl of Shaftesbury; and Dorothy, m. sir John Packington, of Westwood, in Worcestershire, bart.; and by his 2d wife, Elizabeth, daughter of John Aldersey, of Spantow, in Cheshire, he had 4 sons; 1. John, father of sir John Coventry, K. B. M. P. for Weymouth, remarkable for having had his nose cut, which occasioned the passing the act, from thence styled the Coventry act. Hume, in his History of England, gives the following account of it: "There was a private affair, which, during this sessions, disgusted the House of Commons, and required some pains to accommodate; the usual method of those who opposed the court in the money-bills, was, if they failed in the main vote, as to the extent of the supply, to levy the money upon such funds as they expected would be unacceptable, or would prove difficult; it was proposed to lay an imposition upon the play-houses; the courtiers objected, that the players were the king's servants, and a part of his pleasures. Sir John Coventry, a gentleman of the country party, asked "whether the king's pleasure lay among the male, or female players?" This stroke of satire was aimed at Charles, who, besides his mistresses of higher quality, entertained at that time two actresses, Davis and Nell Gwin. The king received not the raillery with that good humour which might have been expected. It was said that this being the first time that respect to majesty had been publicly violated, it was necessary, by some severe chastisement, to make Coventry an example to all who might incline to tread in his footsteps. Sandys, O'Brien, and some other officers of the guards, were ordered to waylay him, and to set a mark upon him. He defended himself with bravery, and after wounding several of the assailants, was disarmed with some difficulty. They cut his nose to the bone, in order, as they said, to teach him what respect he owed the king. The commons was inflamed by this indignity offered to one of their members, on account of words spoken in that house; they passed a law; and they enacted, that those criminals who had assaulted Coventry, should be incapable of receiving a pardon from the crown."—Vol. 7. p. 468.—2. Francis: 3. WILLIAM LEGGE, EARL and BARON of DARTMOUTH, Viscount Lewisham, LL.D. born November 29, 1784; succeeded his father, George, the late earl, Nov. 2, 1810,

Thomas Legge, who lived in the reign of Edward III, 1326, is the direct ancestor to the present earl of Dartmouth, which Thomas was of the company of Skinners, London, and sheriff of that city 1343, and twice lord mayor, anno 1346, and 1353; he was returned one of the burgesses in parliament for London 1349 and 1352. In 1358, he lent Edward III, 300*l*, for the support of the war against France, which was a considerable sum in those days; from whom descended Thomas Legge, who settled in Ireland, whose grandson, William Legge, was appointed groom of the bedchamber to Charles I, and was distinguished for his fidelity to that monarch, as a constant follower of all his fortunes. He was wounded and taken prisoner at the battle of Worcester, but contrived to effect his escape, and on the restoration was made treasurer of the ordnance; he d, in 1672, leaving issue,

George, the 1st baron Dartmouth, who went early to sea, under sir Edward Spragge; after which he entered into the military service as an engineer, and by various services recommended himself so much to the favour of the duke of York, who made him gentleman of his bedchamber, as through his interest, 1673, governor of Portsmouth, then commander-in-chief of the forces, and in 1682, created baron Dartmouth, upon the accession of James II. he continued so much in favour as to be appointed master of the horse, general of the ordnance, and constable of the Tower, and a privy counsellor; in all which offices he conducted himself with such probity and impartiality, as to be deservedly esteemed the most upright upright man in the administration of public affairs, which that age produced. He was committed to the Tower in 1691, for his attachment to James II. on an unjust suspicion of his carrying on a secret correspondence with his late royal master, where he died Oct. 25, 1691; his only son, HENEAGE FINCH, EARL of AYLESFORD, and Baron Guernsey, born Feb. 23, 1789, succeeded his father, Heneage, the late Earl, Oct. 21, 1812.

Heneage Finch, 2d son of Heneage, Earl of Nottingham, was entered of the Inner Temple for the study of the laws, in which he was so great a proficient that, January 13, 1678, he was constituted solicitor-general, from which office he was removed by king James II. April 21, 1686, he was one of the principal of those eminent counsel who pleaded in behalf of the seven bishops, who were tried June 29, 1688, for refusing to authorise the reading king James's declaration for abrogating the test and penal laws, and on that account were committed to the Tower. Mr. Finch argued strenuously against their commitment, and the power of the king in dispensing with the laws, mentioned in the declaration: and that the lords, the bishops, could not in prudence, honour, or conscience, so far make themselves parties to it, as the solemn publication thereof in the time of divine service (as they were commanded,) must amount to. In 1702 he was chosen to compliment queen Anne, on the part of the University of Oxford, on her visit to Oxford, and in consideration of his great merit and talents was created baron of Guernsey, March 15, 1702-3, and on the accession of George I. JOHN-JAMES WALDEGRAVE, EARL WALDEGRAVE, Viscount Chewton, Baron Waldegrave, of Chewton, a Baronet, and a Major in the 15th regiment of dragoons; born July 30, 1785; succeeded his brother, George, the late earl, June 29, 1794.

The family of Waldegrave, formerly written Walgrave, is denominated from a place of their own name in the county of Northampton, at which it appears that Warine de Walgrave, who, by the daughter of Riston, had issue, John de Waldegrave, who was sheriff of London 1205, an office then of great power and trust; and by his wife, daughter of sir Henry Hastings, knt. had issue Walter de Waldegrave, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of sir James Nevil, of co. Notts, had issue, sir Ralph, who, dying in 1328, seised of the manors of Walgrave, and Holtale, co. Northampton, was succeeded by sir Richard Waldegrave, knt. his son and heir, and in 1328, attended Edward III. into Aquitaine, with John de Waldegrave, junr.; and in 1334, was one of the knights of the shire for the co. Lincoln. He was father of sir Richard Waldegrave, knt. who succeeded to the estate 1373. This sir Richard, was of Smallbridge, co. Suffolk, and was one of the knights of the shire for that county, 1375, as also in the reign of Richard II. was again elected in 1st, 2d, and 3d years; in which it appears he was chosen SPEAKER of the House of Commons; and it is remarkable that he was the first that made excuse, desiring to be discharged from the office, but the king commanded him, on his allegiance, to stand, being chosen by his companions. He was again elected in the 6th, 7th, 10th, and 13th of Richard II. from whom descended

Sir Henry Waldegrave, 4th baronet, was created Jan. 30,

30, 1686, baron Waldegrave; in 1686, comptroller of the king's household; and d. at Paris in 1689, having m. Henrietta Fitz-James, natural daughter of king James II. by Mrs. Arabella Churchill, sister to John, duke of Marlborough, by her (who d. April 3, 1730,) had two sons, and a daughter, Arabella, a nun. Sir Fulk Greville, the 1st lord Brooke, was of an honourable family, in co. Warwick, and was at an early age introduced to court, in the service of queen Elizabeth, whose favour he had the good fortune to preserve uninterrupted to her death. At the coronation of James I. he was created a K.B. and soon after obtained a grant of the ruinous castle of Warwick : he was then appointed pointed chancellor of the exchequer, and created lord Brooke, baron of Beauchamp-court, and one of the lords of the bedchamber. After passing through life, with the most distinguished honor, to the age of 70, he was sacrificed to the resentment of a villain, one Heywood, at that time in his service, who took an opportunity of stabbing him in the body; the villain made his escape into another room, which he locked, and before it could be broken open, for him to be seized, he murdered himself. His lordship died of the wound, Sept. 30, 1628; from whom descended Francis, 8th lord Brooke, father of the present earl, b. in 1719, who succeeded his father in 1723; was, on July 7, 1746, created earl Brooke; and, on November 27, 1759, by George II. advanced to the farther dignity of earl of Warwick. HENRY-STEPHEN FOX STRANGWAYS, EARL of ILCHESTER, Lord Ilchester, Baron of Woodford-Strangways, Dorset, and Lord Ilchester and Stavor-dale, dale, Baron of Redlynch, Somersetshire ; born Feb. 21, 1787 ; succeeded his father, Henry-Thomas, the late earl, Sept. 5, 1802 ; married, Feb. 6, 1812, Caroline-Leonora, daughter of the right honorable and right reverend lord George Murray, late bishop of St. Davids, brother to the duke of Atholl.

Sir Stephen Fox, the ancestor of the earls of Ilchester, and the barons Holland, was a man of the greatest abilities and most accomplished manners. His fidelity to his sovereign was proverbial ; and, though the reigning powers at that time tried their utmost endeavours to make him withdraw his allegiance from his exiled master, Charles II. they found him incorruptible.

When the happy Restoration took place, sir Stephen accompanied his royal master to England, and was immediately rewarded with several places of dignity and trust, which he discharged in the most honorable manner. He was likewise sworn of the privy-council ; and his majesty granted him, out of the royal arms, an augmentation to his paternal coat, viz. in a canton, a fleur-de-lis or, to him and his heirs for ever. These preferments shew how justly he was esteemed by his king and country : but what will endear his memory to the latest posterity is, his being the first projector of the noble design of Chelsea Hospital, having contributed to the expense of it above 13,000*l.* ; his motive to it was known from his own words : he said, "he could not bear to see the common soldiers, who had spent their strength in our service, beg at our doors." He therefore did what he could to remove such a scandal from the kingdom. He first purchased some grounds near the old college, at Chelsea, which had been escheated to the crown, in James I. and on these grounds the present college is erected. Numerous were his public and private charities : he lived to see his noble design take effect, and d. Oct. 28, 1716, in the 89th year of his age, universally regretted. By his 2d marriage he had 2 sons, Stephen, and Henry who were both created English peers.

Sir Stephen Fox, knt. of Farley, in Wilts, m. 1st, Elizabeth Whittle, and had 7 sons and 3 daughters, all of which which sons d. young, except Charles, paymaster of the forces, who d. without issue, in 1703: of the daughters, Margaret d. young—Elizabeth m. in 1673, to Charles, 3d lord Cornwallis—Jane m. in 1685, to George, 4th earl of Northampton, and d. in 1721. Sir Stephen m. 2dly, in 1703, Christiana, daughter of the rev. Charles Hope, and had 2 sons, Stephen, the 1st earl of Ilchester, and Henry, the 1st lord Holland (see Lord HOLLAND), and 2 daughters, one of whom d. young, and Charlotte, m. to Edward, son of lord Digby, by whom she had Edward, the 1st earl Digby, and several other sons, and one daughter—Stephen, the eldest surviving son, was created lord Ilchester, May 11, 1741; and lord Ilchester and Stavordale, and baron of Redlynch, in the county of Somerset, with remainder to his brother, Henry Fox, Jan. 3, 1747; and also, with the same remainder, advanced to the dignity of earl of Ilchester, June 5, 1756. He m. in March 1736, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Strangways Horner, esq. of Mells Park, in Somersetshire, by Susanna Strangways, one of the daughters and co-heiresses of Thomas Strangways, of Melbury, in Dorsetshire, esq. who, on the death of her sister, Elizabeth, duchess of Hamilton, became the sole heiress of that ancient and opulent family. He had issue, 3 sons and 6 daughters, viz. 1. Henry-Thomas, 2d earl; 2. Stephen Strangways Digby, a lieutenant-colonel in the army, b. Dec. 3, 1751; and 3. Charles-Redlynch, in holy orders, rector of Kilmington, in Somersetshire, b. April 27, 1761; m. Aug. 1787, Jane, daughter of the rev. Dr. Haines, and has issue, Charles, in the royal navy, b. Dec. 25, 1789; Thomas, a lieutenant in the royal artillery, b. Dec. 28, 1790; Henry, b. Feb. 25, 1794; Susanna, b. Sept. 13, 1794; Frances, b. Dec. 18, 1797; John, b. Feb. 12, 1799. d.; George, b. Nov. 2, 1802; Edward, b. April 2, 1806; 4. Susanna-Sarah-Louisa, b. Feb. 12, 1743, m. April 7, 1764, William O'Brien, of Stinsford, in the county of Dorset, esq; 5. Charlotte-Elizabeth, d. in 1755; 6. Juliana-Judith, d. in 1749; 7. Lucy, b. Dec. 15, 1748; m. Oct. 1, 1771, the hon. His lordship d. May 11, 1778, (after having been carried home from the house of lords, where he had fainted away, in consequence of the violent exertions he had made in a remarkable speech on the American war,) was buried in Westminster Abbey, at the public expense; and the parliament, as a tribute to his exalted merit, settled 4000*l.* per annum on the male heir to whom the earldom of Chatham may descend. This illustrious nobleman filled many of the higher departments of the state, with such honour to himself, such glory to the nation, and so greatly to the satisfaction of his Sovereign and his people, as never any minister in Great Britain before experienced: our successes abroad during his patriotic administration are too deeply engraven on the minds of his countrymen ever to be erased. The earl was succeeded by his son, John, the present and 2d earl.

Heir Presumptive—None.

Creations—Viscount Pitt, and Earl of Chatham, July 30, 1766; and Baron Chatham, in right of his mother, so created Oct. 5, 1761.

Motto—Benigno numine. By God's blessing.

Arms—See Plate 15.

HUGH FORTESCUE, EARL FORTESCUE, Viscount Ebrington, and Baron Fortescue, of Castle Hill, in Devonshire; Lord-Lieutenant, Custos Rotulorum, and Vice-Admiral of Devonshire, High Steward of Barnstaple and South Moulton; born March 12, 1753; succeeded his father, Matthew, the late lord, July 8, 1785; married, May 10, 1782, Hester Grenville, sister to George, 1st marquess of Buckingham, K.G. by whom he has Hugh, viscount Ebrington, b. Feb. 13, 1783—Hester, b. Dec. 17, 1784; m. May 26, 1804, Peter, lord King—Matthew, b. in Aug. 1786—George, in the army.

Of this ancient and eminent house, was sir John Fortescue, lord chief justice of England in the reign of Henry VI. 1442, and lord high chancellor of England 1461: he was author of the celebrated treatise “De Laudibus Legum Angliæ.” His son and heir, Martin Fortescue, of Filleigh, co. Devon, had issue 2 sons, viz. John Fortescue, ancestor of the earls Fortescue; and of John, lord Fortescue, of Credan, in Ireland, whose title became extinct; and William, ancestor of the viscounts Clermont, in Ireland.

The earl's grandfather, Hugh Fortescue, esq. m. Bridget, sole daughter and heiress of Hugh Boscawen, esq. by Margaret, his wife, daughter, and at length co-heiress of Theophilus, earl of Lincoln, and baron Clinton ton and Saye, by whom he had Hugh and Theophilus; and by a 2d wife, Lucy, 2d daughter of Matthew, 1st lord Aylmer, he had Matthew, late earl Fortescue—another daughter, Lucy, m. in 1742, to George, lord Lyttelton, and who d. Jan. 19, 1746. (by his 1st wife, Nicola Grierson, only daughter of sir John Grierson, of Lagg, bart., by Janet Murray, eldest of 3 daughters and co-heiresses of sir James Murray, of Cockpool, eldest brother of John, earl Annandale, heir male of the Murrays, earls of Annandale, now represented by the earl of Mansfield), and by her (who d. July 20, 1785,) had issue, 1. David, 6th viscount; 2. James, was chosen M.P. for the borough of Elgin, &c. 1710, and 1713, he was one of queen Anne's commissioners for settling the trade with France, and after her death resided abroad, and d. at Avignon, Aug. 1770, aged 80; 3. William, b. at Scone, March 2, 1705, he was admitted a king's scholar of Westminster, 1719; where he gave early proofs of superior ability; and at the election in May, 1723, had the honor of standing first on the list of those who were elected for Christ Church College, Oxford; where he was entered, June 18, 1723; he took the degree of B.A. 1727, when his elegant verses on the death of George I. were honored with the 1st prize; he was admitted student of Lincolns' Inn, in April, 1724; took the degree of M.A. June 24, 1730; left the university soon after, and travelled through France and Italy; he was called to the bar in Michaelmas term, 1730: in the pursuit of legal knowledge, his assiduity soon co-operated with his shining abilities. Having acquired the friendship of Pope, he studied elocution under that great master, who proclaimed, in bewitching verse, the reputation of his friend, addressing to him his imitation of the 1st ode of 1st book of Horace, and thus apostrophizing the bar in the Dunciad,

How sweet an Ovid, Murray, was our boast!

Mr. Murray was associated with Talbot, and York, the attorney and solicitor-general, in an appeal to the house of lords, March, 1733, respecting the purchase of South-sea stock, and he was soon engaged as counsel in a great number of appeals, when Pope addressed to him his imitation of the 16th epistle of the 1st book of Horace,

Grac'd as thou art, with all the powers of words,
So known, so honor'd at the house of lords.

He was counsel for the city of Edinburgh, in the Porteous cause, 1737, and acquitted himself so much to the satisfaction of his clients, that he was presented with the freedom of the city in a gold box; he was appointed solicitor-general in 1742, and elected for the borough of Borough-bridge. On the lists in the house of commons, with the greatest of all opponents, the celebrated William Pitt, who, with a degree of candor worthy of himself, admitted that he found in Mr. Murray, a fair, open, and formidable rival. On the trial of the lords engaged in the rebellion, 1745, the eloquence and judgment of Mr. Murray, was admired, lord Lovet even going the length of saying, that he heard him with pleasure, though it was against his life. He was promoted to the office of attorney-general, 1754, and in November, 1756, was raised to the office of chief-justice of the court of king's bench, in which court he presided with unrivalled reputation, for the long period of thirty-two years, refusing frequently the seals, viz. 1757, 1770, and 1771. He was sworn in, Nov. 8, 1756, and the same day, created a peer, by the title of baron of Mansfield, co. Nottingham, and his issue male. His lordship held the office of chancellor of the exchequer, with a seat in the cabinet, from April 9, to July 2, 1757. It was principally through his mediation, the coalition took place between Mr. Henry Fox (after-wards wards the 1st lord Holland) and Mr. William Pitt (afterwards the 1st earl of Chatham) was effected, the former being paymaster of the forces, and the latter, principal secretary of state; a coalition which was of the most essential service to the public interest, by uniting all the great leaders of the different parties, and thereby giving an energy to the war we were then engaged in, which terminated so gloriously and successfully to the British arms. He again held the office of chancellor of the exchequer, from Sept. 12, 1767, to Dec. 1, following. His lordship opposed the doctrine of general warrants, (warrants without naming the persons) and finally determined against their legality, Nov. 1765. His lordship's speech in the Douglas cause, 1769, made a deep impression on the house of lords, and drew from Andrew Stuart the agent for the duke of Hamilton, four letters to his lordship on his conduct in that important appeal. His lordship was advanced to the dignity of earl of Mansfield, co. Nottingham, Oct. 31, 1776, to him and his issue male, remainder in default of such issue, the title of countess of Mansfield aforesaid to Louisa, viscountess Stormont, wife of David, viscount Stormont, and after her decease, the title of earl of Mansfield aforesaid, to the heirs male of the body of the said Louisa, viscountess Stormont, by the said David, viscount Stormont. In the riots of 1780, lord Mansfield was selected as one of the victims of popular violence, his house in Bloomsbury-square was set on fire by the populace, and it is to be deplored, the irreparable loss sustained by the destruction of his invaluable collection of books and manuscripts in the conflagration; his lordship escaped with his life only; and on the 14th of June, 1780, the last day of term, again took his seat in the court of king's bench. His lordship resigned his seat on the bench, June 1788, in his 84th year, on which occasion, an affectionate and pathetic address from the bar, was transmitted to him by the honorable Thomas Erskine, (created February 10, 1806, lord Erskine, of Restormel Castle, co. Cornwall,) expressive of their regret for the loss of a magistrate whose conspicuous and exalted talents conferred dignity on the profession, whose enlightened and regular administration of justice, made its duties less difficult and laborious, and whose manners rendered them pleasant and respectable. To this lord Mansfield, without detaining the messenger five minutes, returned an appropriate answer in these terms, "If I have given satisfaction, it is owing to the learning and candor of the bar, the liberality and integrity of their practice having freed the judicial investigation of truth and justice from many difficulties. The memory of the assistance I have received from them, and the deep impression which the extraordinary mark they have now given me of their approbation and affection has made upon my mind, will be a source of perpetual consolation in my decline of life, under the pressure of bodily infirmities which made it my duty to retire." The earl m. Sept. 20, 1738, Elizabeth Finch, 6th daughter of Daniel, 6th earl of Winchilsea and Nottingham, and by her (who d. 1784,) had no issue. His lordship having been created an English earl, with remainder to Louisa, viscountess Stormont, on the idea then prevalent, that no English peerage could be limited to a Scots peer, even in remainder, was, as soon as a contrary doctrine was established by law, created earl of Mansfield, of Canewood, co. Middlesex, by patent, Aug. 11, 1792, with remainder to his nephew,

David, 7th viscount Stormont, who succeeded his uncle as 2d earl of Mansfield, and 7th viscount Stormont; 5. Charles, and 6. Robert, both d. without issue; 7. Catharine, d. unm. Nov. 27, 1754; 8. David, 6th viscount, m. Jan. 20, 1726, Anne, only daughter daughter and heiress of John Stewart, of Inneryntie, esq. and had issue, 1. David, 7th viscount Stormont; 2. James, d. unm.; 3. Anne; 4. Margery, d. April 19, 1799, on whom, and her sister Anne, his Majesty was pleased, April 30, 1793, to grant the place and precedence of an earl of Great Britain.

David, 7th viscount, succeeded his father July 23, 1748, b. Oct. 9, 1727, succeeded his uncle as Earl of Mansfield, co. Middlesex, 1793, was educated at Westminster school, from whence he went to Christ Church College, Oxford, 1744, his proficiency in classical knowledge at both these seminaries, and his distinguished reputation as a scholar are well known; many of his Latin compositions still remain, and prove his taste and command of that language; he continued through life, notwithstanding constant employment in business, to cultivate, at leisure hours, the learned languages, and with such diligence, that it is presumed he left few better Greek scholars behind him. His lordship was appointed ambassador to the elector of Saxony and king of Poland, 1755, and remained with the court of Dresden, during its residence at Warsaw, till he was named along with the earl of Egremont, and sir Joseph Yorke, K.B. (created afterwards baron Dover, which title became extinct 1792,) to treat for peace at Augsburgh, 1761; but the meeting did not take place, the leading negotiation in London between Mr. Stanley and M. de Bussy being broken off. His lordship returned to London 1762, and was sworn a privy councillor July 1763, and appointed ambassador extraordinary to the court of Vienna, in which station he continued till 1772, enjoying the esteem and confidence of Maria Theresa, her son, the emperor Joseph, and their minister of state, Comte de Kaunitz; was appointed secretary of state for the northern department, Oct. 27, 1779, president of the council April 2, 1783. His lordship's conduct as a minister at foreign courts has been every where admitted to be so invariably governed by the purest and most rigid principles of truth, honor, and good faith, and the whole tenor of public life at home, whether in his ministerial or parliamentary capacity, capacity, has been so uniformly influenced by the most devoted attachment to the welfare of his country, and the preservation of its constitution, that the very few instances in which he may have differed from his colleagues in office, have only served to place the manly virtues which distinguished his public character in a point of view which should render him as much the object of imitation to those who are candidates for public esteem, as he was the object of the imitation and regret of those whose ministerial situations gave them the best means of knowing and valuing him; no man ever fulfilled the relative duties of social life with more scrupulous exactness, either as a father, a husband, a brother, or a friend; his liberality was unbounded, not ostentatious indeed, but secret in the manner, and princely in the measure!! The earl married 1st, at Warsaw, Aug. 16, 1759, Henrietta-Frederica, daughter of Henry, count Bunau, privy counsellor to the elector of Saxony, and envoy to the court of St. James's, of the branch of Ruen, by his wife, daughter of Gustavus, baron of Ragnitz, by his wife, Mademoiselle Schomberg, of the family of the duke of Schomberg, and by her (who d. March 16, 1766,) had issue, 1. Elizabeth-Mary, b. May 18, 1760, m. Dec. 10, 1785, George-Finch Hatton of Eastwell Park, co. Robert Fulke Greville, only brother of George, earl Brook and Warwick, and by him has issue,) and had issue, 1. William, present and 3d earl of Mansfield, 2. George, b. April 8, 1780, lieutenant-colonel in the army; 3. Charles, b. Aug. 22, 1781, m. Miss

WILLIAM NELSON, D.D. Earl Nelson, Viscount Merton and Trafalgar, Baron Nelson of the Nile, and Hilborough, in Norfolk, (Duke of Bronté, in Sicily), Prebendary of Canterbury; born April 20, 1757; succeeded his brother Horatio, the late viscount Nelson, in the barony, Oct. 21, 1805; farther advanced to the above honours, Nov. 20, 1805; on Jan. 11, 1806, was advanced to the farther dignities of Viscount Merton and Trafalgar, and Earl Nelson of Trafalgar, and of Merton, in the county of Surrey, by patent, dated November 20, 1805; and on January 11, 1806, obtained his Majesty's royal licence and authority to use the honourable augmentations to his armorial ensigns which had been granted to his late brother Horatio, viscount and baron Nelson, deceased. In July following, the earl was permitted to bear an augmentation to his arms, viz. "a fess wavy, thereon inscribed the word TRAFALGAR," and, Oct. 21, 1806, was permitted by his Majesty to succeed to the title of Duke of Bronté, in the Farther Sicily, granted by his Sicilian Majesty to his late brother. His lordship married, Nov. 9, 1786, Sarah, daughter of the reverend Henry Yonge, vicar of Great Torrington in the county of Devon, and cousin to the late right reverend Philip Yonge, D.D. lord bishop of Norwich, by whom he has issue, Horatio, viscount Trafalgar, knight of St. Ferdinand and of Merit, b. Oct. 26, 1788, d. Jan. 1808—and Charlotte-Mary, b. Sept. 20, 1787, m. July 3, 1810, the hon. Samuel Hood, youngest son of Henry, lord Hood, of Catherington, and has issue, a daughter, b. Dec. 1, 1811.

The family of Nelson has long been resident in the county of Norfolk:—his lordship's grandfather was rector of Hilborough in that county; of which living the Nelsons for many years have been, and the present earl still is, the patron.

His lordship is related to the noble families of Walpole and Cholmondeley, his mother being the granddaughter of sir Charles Turner, bart. of Warham in the county of Norfolk, who m. Mary, daughter of Robert Walpole, of Houghton, esq. sister to sir Robert Walpole, K.G. and K.B. 1st earl of Orford, and to Horatio, 1st lord Walpole of Wolterton, and father of Horatio, earl of Orford, so created, April 1, 1806. Her next sister, Dorothy, was the 2d wife of Charles, viscount Townshend, grandfather of the 1st marquess.

His maternal ancestors, the Sucklings, have been seated at Wooton, in Norfolk, nearly three centuries.

His lordship's father, the reverend Edmund Nelson, rector of Burnham Thorpe, who d. April 26, 1802, m. April 11, 1749, Catharine, daughter of Maurice Suckling, D.D. rector of Barsham, in Suffolk, Woodton, in Norfolk, and one of the prebendaries of Westminster, and by her had issue, 8 sons and 3 daughters, viz. 1. Edmund, b. April 5, 1750, d. an infant—2. Horatio, b. July 28, 1750, d. an infant—3. Maurice, b. May 24, 1753, d. April

d. April 24, 1801, without issue—4. Susannah, b. June 12, 1755, the wife of Thomas Bolton, of Cranwich, in the county of Norfolk, esq. and by her (who d. July 16, 1813,) has issue, one son, Thomas Bolton, who is next in remainder, and 3 daughters—5. William, the present earl—6. Horatio, the 1st viscount, d. Oct. 21, 1805, without issue—7. Anne, b. Sept. 20, 1760, d. at Bath, in Nov. 1784, unm.—8. Edmund, b. June 4, 1762, d. in Oct. 1788, unm.—9. Suckling, b. Jan. 5, 1764, d. in April 1799, unm.—10. George, b. Sept. 13, 1765, d. an infant—11. Catharine, b. March 19, 1767, (now living), m. Feb. 26, 1787, George Matcham, esq. and has issue 3 sons and 5 daughters.

Horatio Nelson, viscount and baron Nelson of the Nile, and of Burnham Thorpe, in the county of Norfolk, so created by patent, May 22, 1801; Duke of Bronté, in Sicily, knight of the most honourable military order of the bath, senior knight grand-cross of the royal Sicilian order of Saint Ferdinand and of Merit, senior knight of the imperial order of the Turkish crescent of the first class, knight grand commander of the most illustrious equestrian, secular, and chapteral order of Saint Joachim, LL.D. a vice admiral of the white, &c. was invested at St. James's with the ensigns of the most honourable military order of the bath, Sept. 27, 1797, and installed by proxy, May 19, 1803; received His Majesty's permission, by sign manual, January 7, 1801, to receive and bear the great cross of the order of St. Ferdinand and of Merit, conferred on his lordship by Ferdinand IV. king of the Two Sicilies; and by another warrant, dated the 9th of the same month, to accept for himself and his heirs the title of Duke of Bronté, with the fief of the duchy annexed thereto, conferred also by the said king of the Two Sicilies. When the king of the Two Sicilies conferred the additional title of Bronté upon this gallant admiral, as a reward for the protection which his fleet afforded to his dominions, he, perhaps, was not aware of its appropriate meaning. It is the Greek word for thunder. The name of the Cyclops who is represented in poetic fable as forging forging the thunder of Jupiter, was Brontes; his residence was of course at Ætna, in the Island of Sicily. His Majesty was pleased, March 20, 1802, to grant his royal permission to receive and wear the order of the crescent, transmitted to him by the Grand Seignior. The viscount distinguished himself heroically in the bay of Aboukir, adjoining the coast of Egypt, where he attacked the French fleet, moored in a strong line of battle, commanded by admiral Brueys, whose ship was blown up during the engagement; and after a most gallant action, his lordship obtained a glorious and decisive victory, which occasioned the Grand Seignior to present him with a chelench, or plume of triumph, of considerable value, which is borne as a crest to his armorial bearings. His lordship was b. Sept. 29, 1758; married, at Nevis, March 22, 1787, Frances-Herbert-Woodward, relict of Josiah Nisbett, M.D. by whom he had no issue. His lordship, after a series of heroic and transcendent services, fell in the moment of victory over the combined fleets of France and Spain, off Cape Trafalgar, October 21, 1805, and was honoured with a funeral at the public expence, being buried in the cathedral church of St. Paul, London, Jan. 9, 1806.

His lordship was created baron Nelson of the Nile, and of Burnham Thorpe, in the county of Norfolk, in October, 1798; Viscount, May 22, 1801; Baron Nelson of the Nile, and of Hilborough, in the county of Norfolk, with remainder to his father, the rev. Edmund Nelson (since deceased), to his brother, William, (present earl Nelson), and to his heirs male, and to the heirs male of his sisters, Susannah, wife of Thomas Bolton, esq. and of Catharine, wife of George Matcham, esq.

Heir Presumptive—THOMAS BOLTON, only son of Susannah, wife of Thomas Bolton, Esq. and nephew to Earl Nelson.

Creations—Baron Nelson of the Nile, and of Hilborough, in Norfolk, Aug. 4, 1801; Viscount Merton, and Earl Nelson, of Trafalgar, and of Merton, in Surrey, Nov. 20, 1805; Duke of Bronté, in Sicily, Nov. 7, 1806.

1809; 11. Thomas, b. Dec. 29, 1810; 12. a son, b. March 31, 1813.

The earl is nephew of sir Henry Grey, of Howick, in the county of Northumberland, bart. (who d. in 1808, unm. when the title became extinct). They are a junior branch of a very illustrious northern family ; the chief of which was created baron Grey of Werke, by James I. William III. advanced them to the dignities of viscount Glendale and earl of Tankerville, a title which one of them had gained in the conquest of France by Henry V. ; and these titles became extinct in 1701. This earl's daughter, Mary, m. Charles Bennet, lord Ossulton, who was created, in her right, earl of Tankerville, in 1714, and is ancestor to the present earl of Tankerville.

Sir Charles Grey, a knight of the military order of the Bath, the 1st earl Grey, b. Oct. 23, 1729 ; a general in the army, colonel of the 3d regiment of dragoons, and governor of Guernsey. His lordship was aid-de-camp to prince Ferdinand at the battle of Minden, in which he was wounded ; served at the relief of Ostend and Newport in 1793 ; commander-in-chief in the West Indies at the reduction of Martinique, St. Lucie, and Guadaloupe ; in 1801, he was created baron Grey de Howick ; and in April 1806, was farther advanced to the dignities of viscount Howick and earl Grey. The earl's charities were only limited by his means. His heart was unbounded, and no deserving object ever sought relief at Fallowden-house in vain. The same benevolent spirit which he carried with him into retirement, was uniformly displayed in his military career, through the whole of which the comfort of the private soldier was a peculiar object of his care ; m. June 8, 1762, Elizabeth, daughter of George Grey, of Southwick, in the county of Durham, esq. by whom he had issue, Henry, b. in 1763, d. an infant—2. Charles, the present earl—3. WILLIAM LOWTHER, EARL of LONSDALE, in the County of Westmorland, VISCOUNT and BARON LOWTHER, of Whitehaven in the county of Cumberland, and a Baronet of England and Nova Scotia, K.G. Lord-Lieutenant of Cumberland and Westmorland, Recorder of Carlisle, and a colonel in the army, F.S.A.; born Dec. 29, 1757; succeeded to the titles of viscount and baron Lowther, on the death of James, earl of Lonsdale, May 1802, agreeable to the limitation of the patent, Oct. 26, 1798; married, July 12, 1781, lady Augusta Fane, sister to John, earl of Westmorland, K.G. and has issue, Augusta, b. Oct. 30, 1782, and d. in 1789—Elizabeth, b. Sept. 1, 1784—Mary, b. Oct. 28, 1785—
 William,

William, viscount Lowther, a commissioner for the affairs of India, b. July 30, 1787—Anne, b. in 1788—Henry-Cecil, a lieutenant in the 7th regiment of dragoons, b. July 27, 1790—Caroline, b. Feb. 17, 1792.

The earl is chief heir male of the ancient house of Lowther, which has been seated for time immemorial at Lowther Hall, in the county of Westmorland, in which, as well as in Cumberland, it has long taken the lead. Sir Hugh de Lowther was member of parliament for the county of Westmorland, and attorney-general to king Edward I. His son, sir Hugh, had licence to make a park of his manor of Lowther, and a grant of free-warren there in 1336. His descendant, sir Hugh, was in the battle of Agincourt, in 1415. His descendant, sir Hugh, was a knight of the bath, at the marriage of prince Arthur, son of Henry VII. His son, sir Richard, was sheriff of Cumberland when Mary, queen of Scots, fled to England, in 1568, and had her in his custody: he d. in 1607. His son, sir Christopher, was knighted by king James in 1603, and d. in 1607.

The representative of this family was created viscount Lonsdale by William III. This title became extinct in 1751; but the large landed possessions devolved, with the baronetage of Nova Scotia, upon sir James Lowther, bart. who, May 11, 1784, was advanced to the dignity of lord Lowther, baron of Lowther and Kendal, in Westmorland, and baron Lowther, of Burgh, in Cumberland, viscount Lowther, and earl of Lonsdale. His lordship m. Mary, eldest daughter of John, 3d earl of Bute. Foreseeing that, from want of issue, the honours were likely to become a 2d time extinct, he was created, Oct. 10, 1797, viscount and baron Lowther, of Whitehaven, with remainder to the heirs male of the late rev. sir William Lowther, of Swillington, bart. his cousin. The earl dying May 24, 1802, without issue, the latter-mentioned titles, and the baronetage of Nova Scotia, devolved on William, the present earl. His father (5th in descent by a 3d son from sir John Lowther, of Lowther Hall, bart. of Nova Scotia,) was created a baronet of Great Britain, Aug. 22, 1764. The above-named rev. sir William Lowther, bart. b. July 10, 1707, was rector of Swillington; m. Aug. 31, 1753, Anne, eldest daughter of the rev. Charles Zouch, of Sandall, in Yorkshire, (descended from the ancient family of the Zouches of Ashby de la Zouch, from whom descended William de Zouch, 43d archbishop of York in 1340, and Dr. Zouch, bishop of Oxford,) and d. June 15, 1788, leaving issue, William, the present earl, and John, b. in April 1759; m. Sept. 4, 1790, lady Elizabeth Fane, 2d daughter of John, 9th earl of Westmorland, (by Susan, daughter of Cosmo-George, 3d duke of Gordon,) and had issue, Elizabeth, b. Aug. 4, 1791; John-Henry, b. March 23, 1793; and George-William, b. Oct. 17, 1795; and Frederica, d. May 31, 1812. His lordship was created, April 4, 1807, earl of Lonsdale.

Heir Apparent—WILLIAM, Viscount Lowther, the earl's son.

Creations—Viscount and Baron, Oct. 26, 1798; Earl of Lonsdale, April 4, 1807.

Motto—Magistratus indicat virum. The magistrate proves the man.

Arms—See Plate 18.

DUDLEY RYDER, EARL of HARROWBY, of Harrowby, in the county of Lincoln, Viscount Sandon, in the county of Stafford, Lord Harrowby, of Harrowby, in Lincolnshire, High Steward of Tiverton, LL.D. F.S.A.; born December 22, 1762; succeeded his father, Nathaniel, the late lord, June 20, 1803; married, in July, 1795, lady Susan-Levison Gower, daughter of Granville, first marquess of Stafford, K.G. (by lady Susan Stewart, daughter of Alexander, 7th earl of Galloway,) and has issue, Susan, b. June 20, 1796; Dudley, viscount Sandon, b. May 20, 1797; a son, b. Oct. 27, 1809; a daughter, b. Jan. 28, 1811.

Sir Dudley Ryder, knight, grandfather of the present earl, b. in 1691, 1st cousin of his grace, John Ryder, archbishop of Tuam, who left issue, a daughter, wife, 1st, of admiral Cotes, of Woodcote, in Salop, and, 2dly, of Richard Aldworth, of Newmarket, in Cork, and a son, son, John Ryder, dean of Lismore, who m. in Feb. 1777, the hon. Anne Blackwood, eldest daughter of sir John Blackwood, bart. by the baroness Dufferin, and bred to the law; was appointed solicitor-general to his Majesty in 1733; in 1736, was advanced to the office of attorney-general, which he held for 18 years; in 1754, he was appointed lord chief justice of the court of king's bench; in 1756, his late majesty, in reward of his long and faithful services, determined to advance him to the dignity of the peerage, by the title of lord Ryder, baron of Harrowby, in Lincolnshire, and a warrant was accordingly signed by the king for that purpose on the 24th of May 1756; but sir Dudley d. on the following day before the patent was completed; he m. Anne Newnham, daughter and heiress of Nathaniel Newnham, of Streatham, co. Surrey, esq. by whom (who d. May 9, 1774,) he had Nathaniel, born June 3, 1735, the 1st lord, who was created baron Harrowby, May 20, 1776; married, Jan. 22, 1762, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Dr. Richard Terrick, lord bishop of London, and by her (who d. Aug. 24, 1804,) he had, 1. Dudley, the present earl; 2. Henry, d. young; 3. the right hon. Richard, b. July 5, 1766, m. Aug. 1, 1799, Frederica Skynner, daughter of sir John Skynner, knight, and has issue; 4. Elizabeth, b. Nov. 22, 1777; 5. Nathaniel, d. young; 6. Nathaniel, b. June 7, 1775, d. young; 7. Henry, D.D. dean of Wells, and vicar of Lutterworth, in Leicestershire; m. in Dec. 1802, Sophia, daughter of Thomas-March Phillips, esq. and has a son, b. Oct. 12, 1803, a son, b. April 10, 1810; 8. Anne, b. Nov. 1, 1779, d. June 26, 1801. His lordship deceasing June 20, 1803, was succeeded by his eldest son, Dudley, the present and 2d lord, the 1st earl of Harrowby, and viscount Sandon, who was under-secretary of state in 1790 to the duke of Leeds, and in 1791 was appointed joint-paymaster of the forces, and his brother, Richard, was appointed deputy-paymaster; in 1801 he resigned his office, and was appointed treasurer of his Majesty's navy, which situation he held until June 1803, when he was succeeded by George Tierney, esq. and was appointed chancellor of the the duchy of Lancaster, which office he held till the death of Mr. Pitt, in Jan. 1806. His lordship was created, July 18, 1809, earl of Harrowby, and viscount Sandon.

Heir Apparent—DUDLEY, Viscount Sandon, the earl's son.

The estate devolved to his nephew George Adams, who also succeeded to the estate of Thomas Anson, of Shuckborough, co. Stafford, esq. elder brother of admiral lord Anson, and was father of Thomas Anson, who had the title of Anson revived in his person.

George Anson, the 1st lord Anson, having, from his youth, devoted himself to the sea service, was made captain of the Weazle sloop in 1722, and in 1723 captain of the Scarborough, man of war; and having recommended himself to the esteem of king George II, by his naval science, courage, judgment, and integrity, was, in the year 1740, preferred to the command of a fleet destined to annoy the king of Spain, even in his remotest territories; in which command having, with the greatest constancy and magnanimity, pursued a long and perilous voyage through the South Seas; having infested and spoiled our enemies; and having taken many ships, and asserted the independence of the British flag in those parts; yet, nevertheless, treating his captives with the most generous humanity, (the fame whereof procured afterwards relief to many of his majesty's unfortunate subjects, and is spoken of and remembered with gratitude by the Spaniards, even to this day), he at last, through a variety of difficulties and distresses, arrived at one of our settlements in the East Indies; where, by his vigilance, skill and credit, he so refitted the Centurion, the only remains of his squadron, that he was enabled to conclude his enterprise with the capture of a Spanish ship of much superior force, containing a vast treasure, to a large share of which he was justly entitled, as well by his own desert, as by law and the king's proclamation. At Canton, in China, he claimed an exemption from the emperor's usual duties, thereby supporting the honour of the British flag in those far-distant regions.—No performance ever met with a more favourable reception than lord Anson's Voyage round the World; four large impressions were sold in 12 months; it has been translated into most of the European languages, and still supports its reputation.

His majesty confiding in his abilities, appointed him one of the lords commissioners of the admiralty, and also conferred upon him the rank of rear-admiral of the white squadron, permitting him to enjoy at home the fruit of his valour in felicity; yet he, choosing rather to hazard again his own life and health, for the advantage of his country, than to consult his own ease, and remain in an inactive, though irreproachable retirement, again devoted himself with alacrity to the public service; and, in the winter season, and in a tempestuous sea, endured, with uncommon patience, all the inconveniences of a tedious, unprosperous navigation—and only because he saw no enemy. Disappointed of success, his expectation whereof would not have been frustrated, if a French fleet returning with disgrace from America, had not been, by accidental intelligence, admonished to avoid the station of this gallant seaman; however, not discouraged by this event, he persisted in his purpose; and having happily descried, and instantly pursued, a numerous and powerful fleet, sailing from the ports of France to the East and West Indies, laden with merchandise, treasure, and warlike stores, he disposed, directed, and animated his squadron, (May 3, 1747,) that not one of the many warlike ships belonging to that fleet escaped his seizure; whereby he defeated the pernicious designs of two warlike expeditions, adding to the strength and wealth of this kingdom the force and riches of our enemy; and converting to a public benefit the intended means of a public calamity. It is not amiss to remark here the characteristic and well-timed politeness of the commander of the French fleet upon this occasion. The French admiral, Monsieur Jonquire, on his presenting his sword to the gallant conqueror, said, "Monsieur, vous avez vaincu l'Invincible, et la Gloire vous suit," pointing to the ship of his conquered fleet so named.

His Majesty king George the Second, to manifest his approbation of his eminent virtue, fortitude, and conduct, was pleased to receive him most graciously; and, taking his brave servant by the hand, exclaimed, in the presence of his courtiers, "I thank you much; you have rendered me great service:" and, in further token of his esteem, was pleased to raise him to the honour of the peerage, by the style and title of lord Anson, baron of Soberton, in the county of Southampton, by letters patent, bearing date 13th June, 1747.

On the 23d of April 1745, his lordship was constituted rear-admiral of the white squadron of his Majesty's fleet; and, July 14, 1746, vice-admiral of the blue—July 15, 1747, vice-admiral of the red—May 12, 1748, admiral of the blue squadron of his Majesty's fleet; in which year his lordship convoyed his Majesty to Holland; from whence he arrived, June 7, at his house in the admiralty. Likewise, on the king's return, he had the command of the squadron that brought his Majesty to England, and ever after, constantly attended his Majesty on his going abroad, and on his return to England. His lordship was, on the 22d of June, 1751, appointed first lord-commissioner of the admiralty. In March, 1752, he was appointed one of the lords-justices of the admiralty, during his Majesty's absence; and also in the year 1755, admiral and commander-in-chief of his Majesty's fleets. He was afterwards made vice-admiral of Great Britain; and continued at the head of the admiralty, with little intermission, till the time of his death. In the year 1761, his lordship had the honour of being appointed to command the squadron destined to convoy our present Gracious Queen CHARLOTTE to England, upon her marriage; upon which occasion, her majesty was most graciously pleased to express her highest approbation of the honest and open manners of the veteran sailor, and her entire satisfaction at the attention with which she was received and treated by his lordship and his whole squadron, during a long and tempestuous voyage. Among the many services that will immortalize the name of this illustrious seaman, his discreet and fortunate choice of officers is not the least; as will be readily allowed by all those who remember the names of Saunders, Brett, Dennis, Saumarez, and Keppel, and other junior appointments which proved his discernment; such as the noble and brave commanders, the lords Howe, Gardener, and St. Vincent. His lordship, upon every occasion, approved himself the friend of the meritorious, and the seaman's protector; and no officer in the service possessed the love and respect of the navy equal to himself. Our naval department is much indebted to him for many and various new and excellent alterations and regulations. He died suddenly, as he was walking in his garden, at his seat, Moor Park, in Hertfordshire, June 6, 1762, just at the moment that he was about to receive a fresh instance of the royal favour and approbation, as a patent was actually making out to create him a viscount, with remainder to his sister's son, the father of the present possessor of the family estates, whom his present Majesty, as well in consideration of his ancient family, of the meritorious conduct and well-earned laurels of his illustrious ancestor, as from a just sense of the deserving uprightness, integrity, character, and high birth of the present possessor, he being lineally descended, in right of his mother, from the most noble and ancient families of Howard, Wentworth and Vernon, (vide pedigree), has been pleased to raise to the honour and distinction of a peer of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, by the style and titles of Thomas Anson, baron Soberton, of Soberton, in the county of Hants; and viscount Anson, of Shugborough and Orgrave, in the county of Stafford, by letters patent, dated Feb. 17, 1806.

George Adams, father of viscount Anson, of Orgrave, in Staffordshire, only surviving child and heir also to his maternal uncle, Thomas Anson, esq. in pursuance of whose will, he and his issue were authorized to take the name and arms of Anson, by royal sign manual, dated April 30, 1773: he represented the boroughs of Saltash, and afterwards the city of Lichfield, in several parliaments; m. Jan. 5, 1763, Mary Vernon, daughter of George-Venables Vernon, 1st lord Vernon, (by Mary, 2d daughter and co-heir of Thomas Howard, 6th lord Effingham, by his 1st wife, Mary, sole daughter and heir of Edward, b. Feb. 5, 1803; and 14. Walter-Charles, b. April 26, 1804.

The ancient, noble, and illustrious family of Clifford, so much celebrated by our antiquarians and historians, claims a lineal and undisputed descent from Richard, Duke of Normandy, grandfather of William, 3d son, surnamed Powz, was earl of Arques and Thoulouse, and came to England with the Conqueror, his nephew. His son Richard Fitz-Powz, m. Maude, daughter of Ralph de Toeni, of Clifford Castle, so called from being built on a cliff, near a ford, in the river Wye, co. Hereford. The ruins of it are still standing. Walter, son of Richard Fitz-Powz, assumed the surname of de Clifford, which has remained with his posterity, and is one of the most ancient continuance in this kingdom, having been known and distinguished in England for nearly seven centuries. This Walter de Clifford, was father of Fair Rosamond, and from him descended the elder branch of this family, which for many generations were lords of Westmorland, and earls of Cumberland, and frequently allied by m. to the blood royal. Henry Clifford, 2d earl of Cumberland, m. lady Eleanor Brandon, daughter of Charles Brandon, duke of Norfolk, by Mary, queen dowager of France, daughter of Henry VII., and had the honor of having the crown of England entailed on his issue by the will of king Henry VIII. This branch ended in females about the middle of the 17th century, and from them are descended maternally, the dukes of Devonshire, the earls of Thanet, and lord de Clifford. A younger branch of this family has long been settled at Ugbrook, near Chudleigh, co. Devon. Sir Thomas Clifford, of Ugbrook, the 1st lord of this line, who was lord high-treasurer in the reign of Charles II. was lineally descended from Sir Lewis Clifford, K.G. youngest son of Roger, 5th lord de Clifford, of Westmorland; sir Lewis d. in 1404.

George, 2d lord Clifford, of Chudleigh, eldest son of the lord treasurer, d. unm. 1690; Hugh his brother, 3d lord, m. Anne, daughter and co-heir of sir Thomas Preston, of Furness, co. Lancaster, and by her had 9 sons and 6 daughters: of which Elizabeth, m. William Constable, of Burton Constable, lord viscount Dunbar; Amey, m. Cuthbert Tonstal, of Wycliffe, esq. nephew of the above lord Dunbar, whose estate he inherits, and has assumed his name. Hugh, 3d lord, d. Oct. 12, 1730, and was succeeded by Hugh, 4th lord, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Blount of Blagdon, co. Devon, esq. (sister to Mary, duchess to Edward, 9th duke of Norfolk,) by whom he had issue 2 daughters: Elizabeth, d. an infant; and Mary, m. 1766, sir Edward Smythe, of Acton Burnel, co. Salop, bart.; and 4 sons; 1. Hugh, 5th lord; 2. Edward, b. 1727; 3. Henry, d. an infant; and and 4. Thomas, a posthumous son, b. Aug. 1732; m. 1761, Barbara, youngest daughter and co-heiress of James, 5th lord Aston of Forfar, in the Peerage of Scotland, (by Barbara Talbot, daughter of George, 14th earl of Shrewsbury,) and by her (who d. 1786,) had issue, 8 sons and 5 daughters: 1. Thomas-Hugh, of Tixall, co. Stafford, esq. b. 1762; m. Miss Chichester, and has issue, Thomas Aston, and 2 daughters; 2. Edward, d. an infant; 3. Henry, of Lincolns Inn, d. April 1813, having m. Jan. 24, 1813, Anne-Theresa, youngest daughter of the late Edward Ferrers, of Badderley Clinton, co. Warwick, esq.; 4. Walter, d. 1806; 5. James; 6. Arthur, b. 1777; m. June 15, 1809, —, 2d daughter of captain Macdonnel, of the ancient family of Glencarry, N.B.; 7. Lewis, twin with Arthur, d. 1806; 8. George, m. 1812, Mary, eldest daughter of Walter-Hill Coyney, of Weston Coyney, co. Stafford, esq. and has issue; 9. Barbara, d. 1792; 10. Mary, m. Dec. 1796, Charles, eldest son of sir William Wolseley, bart., and d. 1811; 11. Anne; 12. Lucy-Bridget, m. 1796, Thomas Weld, of Lullworth Castle, co. Dorset, esq.; and 13. Constantia. The honorable Thomas Clifford d. 1787. His father Hugh, 4th lord, dying 1732, was succeeded by his eldest son, Hugh, 5th lord, m. 1749, Anne Lee, daughter of George, earl of Lichfield, who by his mother, lady Charlotte Fitzroy, was grandson of Charles II. and had issue 4 daughters, who all d. unm., and, 1. Hugh-Edward-Henry, 6th lord; 2. Charles, present lord; 3. Robert, F.R. and A.S.S. b. 1759; 4. Thomas, b. 1774. His lordship dying, Sept. 1, 1783, was succeeded by his son, Hugh-Edward-Henry, 6th lord, m. 1780, Apollonia, youngest daughter and co-heir of Marmaduke, last lord Langdale, sister to Mary, lady Stourton. JOHN PARKER, LORD BORINGDON, F.R.S. and LL.D. Baron Boringdon, of Boringdon, in the county of Devon; born May 3, 1772; succeeded his father, John, the late lord, April 27, 1788; married, 1st, June 20, 1804, lady Augusta Fane, 2d daughter of John, earl of Westmorland, K.G. (which marriage was dissolved by act of parliament, Feb. 14, 1809, and her ladyship m. on the same day, the right hon. sir Arthur Paget, K.B. 2d son of Henry, 1st earl of Uxbridge), and by her has issue, one son, Henry-Villiers, b. May 28, 1806; and, 2dly, Aug. 23, 1809, Miss Talbot, of Wymondham, Norfolk, sister of the rev. Mr. Talbot.

This ancient and noble family have been long resident in Devonshire, and were formerly seated at Northmolton and Boringdon, in that county; having intermarried with the families of Mayhew, of Boringdon; the Courtenays, earls of Devonshire; the Heles, of Fryers Hele; and the Seymours, of Bury Pomeroy, ancestors of the present duke of Somerset. It appears from the visitation of Derbyshire, made in 1620, that this family had resided at their seat at Northmolton from the latter end of the 14th century. About that period, by the family tradition, one branch settled there from the county of Warwick; and another branch, in the descendants of which the peerage of Morley vested in 1484, settled in London.

Edmund Parker, of Northmolton, in the county of Devon, esq. by his last will and testament, dated May 18, 1611, to which is annexed a codicil; bearing date the 11th of the next month, directing that his body should be buried in the choir of the church of Northmolton: he m. Dorothy, daughter of sir Clement Smith, of Little Baddow, in Essex, knt. chief-baron of the exchequer, and had issue, 4 daughters; viz. Frances, living in 1611, unm.; Jane, m. John Norleigh, of Norleigh, in the county of Devon, esq.; Elizabeth, m. Walter Harlewin, esq. and Mary, m. George Duke, of Whitcomb, esq. John Parker, esq. d. during his father's lifetime in 1610, leaving issue by his wife, Frances, daughter of Jeremy Mayhew, of Boringdon, in Devonshire, esq. 3 sons: Edmund; Thomas, who was knighted by James I.; John, who was 21 years old in 1620; and 1 daughter, Anne, who d. unm. Edmund Parker, esq. the eldest son, became heir to his grandfather, and was 27 years of age in 1620; he made his last will and testament, Nov. 6, 1642, which was proved Nov. 1, 1649; he m. Amy, youngest daughter of sir Edward Seymour, of Bury Pomeroy, co. Devon, bart. ancestor of the present duke of Somerset; and had issue, 8 sons: Edward, d. unm.; Edmund, who became his heir; John; William, who had an estate at Hober-ton, in Devonshire, and whose grandson, Hugh Parker, was created a baronet in 1681, with remainder, in default of issue male, to his nephew Henry Parker, who became sir Henry, upon the death of his uncle, and from whom is descended admiral sir Hyde Parker, bart. who, in 1780, defeated the Dutch fleet off the Doggerbank, and his grandson, the present sir William Parker, of Melford Hall, in Suffolk, bart.; Henry; Charles; Richard; and James, who were all living in 1642—and 5 daughters: Elizabeth; Amey, m. sir John Davey, of Creedy, bart. (see DEBRETTS BARONETAGE), Dorothy, Mary, and Sarah, were unm. in 1642. Edmund Parker, esq. the eldest son and heir, resided, 1st, at Boringdon, when he enjoyed the estates, which came came from his grandmother, but afterwards removed to the family seat at Northmolton, where he d. in Oct. 1691; he had issue, 5 sons and 1 daughter, all living in 1680, viz. George, his heir—Edmund, who left 4 sons—William—Francis—and Charles. George Parker, esq. the eldest son and heir, m. 1st, Elizabeth, daughter of sir John Fowell, of Fowelscomb, in Devon, bart.; and, 2dly, Anne, daughter of John Buller, of Morval, co. Cornwall, esq. and had issue: Edmund, who d. unm.—John, who became heir, and was father of John, the 1st lord Boringdon—and Francis, of Blagdon, in Devonshire, esq. who left 3 daughters; one of whom m. John Baring, of Mount Radford, esq. and left issue; the 2d m. 1st, his brother, Thomas Baring; and, 2dly, William Spicer, of Wear, esq. and left issue; and the 3d m. John Fryer, of Exeter, esq. and left issue.

John Parker, esq. the eldest surviving son and heir, succeeded to the family estates on the death of his father in 1743; he m. June 26, 1725, lady Catharine Poulett, 2d daughter of John, 4th lord and 1st earl Poulett, (by Bridget, daughter of Peregrine Bertie, uncle to Robert, duke of Ancaster,) K.G. 1st commissioner of the treasury to queen Anne, and d. April 18, 1768; and by her (who d. Aug. 16, 1758,) he had issue, 1. George, d. young; 2. John, the 1st lord; 3. Montagu-Edmund, of Whiteway, in Devonshire, esq. d. Jan. 1813, having m. in 1775, Charity, daughter of Paul Ourey, esq. by whom he has 2 sons, Montagu and Francis; and 3 daughters: Henrietta, d. unm. in March 1808—Catharine, m. Henry Lambert, of Hope-end, in Herefordshire, esq.—and Bridget, m. Redmond Kelly, esq. a lieutenant-colonel in the army, and had issue by him (who d. in 1798,) Ellen-King—Susan-Barbara—John-Frances—Montagu-Henry—and Hinton.

John Parker, the eldest surviving son and heir, having represented the county of Devon in several parliaments, was advanced to the dignity of the peerage by letters patent, dated May 18, 1784, by the title of baron Boringdon, of Boringdon, in the county of Devon: his lordship m. 1st, in Dec. 1763, Frances, daughter of Josiah Hort, archbishop of Tuam, (by Elizabeth Fitzmaurice, maurice, eldest daughter of Thomas, the 1st earl of Kerry), and by her (who d. at Naples, in 1764,) he had no issue; and, 2dly, May 18, 1769, Theresa Robinson, 2d daughter of Thomas, the 1st lord Grantham, and had issue, John, the present lord; Theresa, b. Sept. 22, 1775, m. April 17, 1798, the hon. George Villiers, 3d son of Thomas, the 1st earl of Clarendon. Her ladyship d. Dec. 22, 1798. The following account of her death and character, from the pen of the celebrated sir Joshua Reynolds, knt. appeared in the public journals. "A few days after the birth of her daughter Theresa, she received a stroke of the palsy; of which she appeared recovering, but receiving a second, and soon after a third, it put an end to the life of one of the most valuable of women. Her amiable disposition, her softness and gentleness of manners, endeared her to every one who had the happiness of knowing her; her whole pleasure and ambition were centered in a consciousness of properly discharging all the duties of a wife, of a mother, of a sister; and she neither sought for, nor expected fame out of her own house. As she made no ostentation of her virtues, she excited no envy; but if there existed so depraved a being as to wish to wound so fair a character, the most artful malignity must have searched in vain for a weak part; her virtues were uniform, quiet, and habitual; they were not occasionally put on, she wore them continually, they seemed to grow to her and be a part of herself, and it seemed to be impossible for her to lay them aside, or be other than what she was. Her person was eminently beautiful; but the expression of her countenance was far above all beauty that proceeds from regularity of features only. The gentleness and benevolence of her disposition were so naturally impressed on every look and motion, that without any affected effort, or assumed courtesy, she was sure to make every one her friend that had ever spoken to or seen her. So exalted a character, it is scarce worth mentioning, her skill and exact judgment in the polite arts—she seemed to possess, by a kind of intuition, that propriety of taste and right thinking, which others but imperfectly acquire acquire by long labour and application." His lordship d. April 27, 1788, and was succeeded by his only son, John, the present and 2d lord.

Heir Apparent—HENRY VILLIERS, his lordship's only son.

Creation—May 18, 1784.

Motto—Fideli certa merces. There is a certain reward to the faithful.

THOMAS-NOEL HILL, LORD BERWICK, of Attingham, in Shropshire, LL.D. F.S.A.; born Oct. 21, 1770; succeeded his father, Noel, the late lord, in Jan. 1789; married, Feb. 8, 1812, Sophia Dubouchet.

This family, whose maternal family-name was originally written Hull, Hulle, and de la Hulle, have been long resident in Shropshire, and can be traced previous to Edward I.; and Hugh de Hull, having m. the eldest daughter and co-heir of Hugh de Wlonkeslowe, was seated at Hull and Wlonkeslowe in the reign of Edward II. From Hugh proceeded Geoffrey, who m. the daughter of Warring, lord of Ightfield, descended from Hamlyn Plantagenet, who became earl of Warren and Surrey in right of his wife; Humphrey, his son and heir, was called Hill, and m. the daughter and co-heir of John Bridde, by the heir of sir David de Malpas, descended from Hugh Kevelioe, and the other ancient earls of Chester: from this marriage came several branches of the family of Hill—from one of the younger sons descended sir Rowland Hill, knt. twice lord-mayor of London in the reign of Henry VIII. or Edward VI.: he was the founder of many great public charities, particularly the churches of Stoke and Hodnet, the schools at Drayton, near Hawkestone, and the large stone bridges over the Severn and Tern, near Attingham. Sir Rowland bequeathed his immense wealth chiefly amongst his nieces and sister's children.

This family suffered considerably for their loyalty during the civil wars, when Rowland Hill, ancestor of the

the late sir Richard Hill, bart. and maternal ancestor to lord Berwick, resided at Hawkestone. He m. Margaret, daughter of Richard Whitehall, of Doddington, in Shropshire, by whom he had a numerous issue. His 2d son, the right hon. Richard Hill, great uncle to the 1st lord Berwick, was deputed to several foreign embassies in the reigns of king William and queen Anne, and was appointed a lord of the treasury, and afterwards one of the council to his royal highness George, prince of Denmark, as lord high-admiral of England; he was also a privy-counsellor, and being a statesman of the greatest abilities and integrity, and having refused the highest honours for himself in different reigns, being personally known to king George I. his Majesty conferred the dignity of a baronet upon his nephew and heir at law, sir Rowland, afterwards M.P. for Lichfield, (father of the late sir Richard Hill, bart. of Hawkestone, for many years M.P. for the county of Salop; and John Hill, M.P. for Shrewsbury). Sir Rowland Hill was the son of Richard Hill's next brother, John Hill, of Wem, in Shropshire. Richard Hill had also a sister, m. to Samuel Barbour, of Shenstone Park, Staffordshire, who had issue, a son and a daughter; the son, Samuel, took the name of Hill, and m. Elizabeth, daughter of Philip, earl of Chesterfield, but dying without issue, the Staffordshire estates devolved to Noel Hill, the 1st lord Berwick. The daughter m. John Egerton, esq. of Tatton Park, in Cheshire. Richard had likewise another brother, Robert, of Tern Hall, co. Salop, who had no male issue, but 6 daughters, m. to 6 Shropshire gentlemen, viz. Rebecca, wife of Samuel Adderton, of Preston Mondford, esq.—Mary, wife of Richard Waring, of Hayes, esq.—Elizabeth, wife of Francis Chambre, of Petton, esq.—Sarah, wife of John Harries, of Cruckton, esq.—Anne, wife of L.A. Griffiths, of Dint-hill, esq. and Margaret, wife of Thomas Kynaston, of Maesbury, esq. Margaret, another sister of Richard Hill—Elizabeth, m. 1st, Richard Atcherley of Morton, esq. by whom she had an only daughter, m. to — Lowndes, esq. ancestor of the present family of Selby, of Winslow, in Buckinghamshire; and, 2dly, to

to Thomas Harwood, of Shrewsbury, esq. descended from an ancient family, formerly of Goreing, in Oxfordshire, and afterwards of Hagburne, in Berkshire, (of whom John Harwood, of Goreing, purchased the estate of Hagburne, in 1628, from the earl of Banbury), by whom he had 2 sons and 2 daughters. The 2d son was the rev. Rowland Harwood, A.M. rector of Fornsett, Norfolk, and afterwards of Hodnet, Salop. He took the name of Hill. One daughter, Martha, m. Walter Gough, of Oldfallings, Staffordshire, esq.; and the other daughter, Anne, was the 2d wife of John Kynaston, of Hordley, esq. M.P. for Shropshire, grandfather, by the said Anne, of John Kynaston Powell, esq. one of the present members for Shropshire. The elder son, Thomas, also took the name of Hill, and d. in June 1782, aged 89, having represented the town of Shrewsbury in several parliaments. He m. 1st, Anne, daughter of Richard Powis, of Hintlesham Hall, in Suffolk, (aunt of Mary, countess of Courtown, and Elizabeth, viscountess Sydney,) and by her (who d. Dec. 1739,) had issue, (besides a son and daughter, who d. young,) Anne, daughter, m. Robert Burton, of Longnor, in Shropshire, esq.; and Margaret, m. Bennet Sherrard, 3d earl of Harborough, being his 3d wife. Thomas Hill, m. 2dly, Susanna-Maria, eldest daughter and co-heir (with her sister Frances, countess of Harborough, 2d wife to the above earl) of the hon. William Noel, chief-justice of Chester, and a judge of the court of common pleas, cousin of Baptist Noel, earl of Gainsborough, uncle to Edward Noel, viscount Wentworth, and 2d son of sir John Noel, who was son and heir of sir William Noel, bart. by Margaret, daughter and sole heir of John, lord Lovelace, of Harley, (by Anne, daughter and heir of Thomas Wentworth, earl of Cleveland,) and by her (who d. in 1760,) had issue, Samuel, and Susannah, who d. unm.; Maria, m. 1st, sir Bryan Broughton, bart. and, 2dly, Henry Errington, of Beaufront, in Northumberland, esq. half-brother of Charles, the 1st earl of Sefton, and Noel Hill, the 1st lord Berwick.

Noel Hill succeeded his father in the representation for Shrewsbury, was elected knight of the shire for Salop, was colonel of the Shropshire militia, and was created a peer of Great Britain, May 19, 1784; m. 1st, Nov. 17, 1768, Anne, daughter of Henry Vernon, esq. of Hilton, in Staffordshire, cousin of lord Vernon, countess of Harcourt, &c. &c. eldest brother of Richard Vernon, esq. who, by Evelyn, countess of Upper Ossory, sister of Granville Levison, the 1st marquess of Stafford, was father of the present countess of Warwick, &c. (by Henrietta, 3d daughter of Thomas Wentworth, 3d earl of Strafford), and at length co-heir with her sisters, lady Lucy Howard, and lady Anne Conolly, (mother of Caroline, countess of Buckinghamshire, Frances, viscountess Howe, Mrs. Byng, &c.), to her brother William, the 4th earl of Strafford, who m. in 1741, Anne Campbell, 2d daughter of John, 4th duke of Argyll, but d. without issue. By her he had issue, 6 children: Thomas-Noel, the present lord—William, M.P. for Shrewsbury, envoy-extraordinary and minister-plenipotentiary to the court of Sardinia—Richard, in holy orders, rector of Thornton, in Cheshire, and Berrington, in Shropshire; m. in Oct. 1800, Frances, daughter of the late William-Mostyn Owen, esq. and has Richard-Noel, and other issue—Henrietta-Maria, m. April 10, 1793, Charles, lord Bruce, only son of Thomas-Bruce Brudenell, earl of Aylesbury, K. T. nephew of the late duke of Montagu, and James, the late earl of Cardigan, by whom she has issue, George-Augustus-Frederick, to whom their Majesties stood sponsors, and other issue—Anne—and Amelia-Louisa. His lordship d. in Jan. 1789, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Thomas-Noel, the present and 2d lord.

Heir Presumptive—WILLIAM, his lordship's next brother.

Creation—May 19, 1784.

Motto—Qui uti scit ei bona. It is his duty to do what he knows ought to be done.

Arms—See Plate 25.

ARTHUR-HENRY CARLETON, LORD DORCHESTER, Baron of Dorchester, in the county of Oxford; born Feb. 22, 1805; succeeded his grandfather Guy, the late lord, Nov. 10, 1808.

Sir Guy Carleton, K.B. the 1st lord Dorchester, b. at Strabane, in Ireland, was descended from Launcelot Carleton, a younger son of the Carletons of Carleton-hall, co. Cumberland, the elder branch of whom was raised to the peerage in 1628, by the title of viscount Dorchester, and baron of Imbercourt, which titles became extinct in 1632. His lordship's ancestors moved into Ireland, where, during the civil wars in the 17th century, they joined the royalists, and the three elder brothers lost their lives at the battle of Marston Moor; the younger brother, Guy Carleton, was created bishop of Bristol, 1671, and in 1678, bishop of Chichester; he was great-grandfather to Guy, lord Dorchester. His lordship being bred to arms, distinguished himself in the American war; in 1776 he was honoured with the military order of the Bath; he was general in the the army, colonel of the 4th regiment of dragoons, and governor of Fort Charlemont, in Ireland; his Majesty, in consideration of the important services rendered his country, was pleased, in June 1786, to grant an annuity of one thousand per annum to sir Guy Carleton, to lady Maria Carleton, his wife, and to Guy and Thomas Carleton, his sons, for their several lives. Married, May 21, 1772, lady Maria Howard, daughter of Thomas, the 2d earl of Effingham, and had issue, Guy, who d. Nov. 10, 1793; Thomas, d. April 17, 1794; Christopher, a lieut.-colonel in the army, d. Feb. 4, 1806; having m. June 9, 1797, Priscilla, daughter of William Belford, esq. and had issue, Maria-Pelham, b. June 27, 1798; and Arthur-Henry, the present lord; George, a lieutenant-colonel in the army, b. Sept. 25, 1781; m. in Oct. 1805, Henrietta, daughter of Edward King, of Askham Hall, esq. and has Guy, d. Sept. 3, 1810, and other issue; Charles, d. May 22, 1799; Dudley, b. June 22, 1790; Richard, b. Feb. 10, 1792; Maria, b. Aug. 20, 1777; m. May 12, 1810, William, lord Bolton; Frances, b. Feb. 3, 1785; m. in 1802, the rev. John Orde, M.A. vicar of Kingsclere, in Hampshire, d. April 8, 1812, leaving 6 children. His lordship was advanced to the dignity of the peerage of Great Britain, Aug. 21, 1786, and d. Nov. 10, 1808, and was succeeded by his grandson, Arthur-Henry, the present and 2d lord.

Heir Presumptive—GEORGE, his lordship's uncle.

Creation—Aug. 8, 1786.

Motto—Quondam his vicimus armis. Formerly we conquered with these arms.

Arms—See Plate 25.

GEORGE KENYON, LORD KENYON, Baron of Gredington, in the county of Flint, and a Baronet; Filaser and Custos Brevium, in the Court of King's Bench; born July 22, 1776; succeeded his father, Lloyd, the late lord, April 5, 1802; married, Feb. 1, 1803, Margaret-Emma, daughter of sir Thomas Hanmer, of Hanmer, EDWARD THURLOW, BARON THURLOW, of Thurlow, in the County of Suffolk, Register of the Diocese of Lincoln, Clerk of the Presentations in the Petty Bag Office; Patentee of the Bankrupts Office; Clerk of the Custody of Lunatics and Ideots; and one of the Clerks of the Hanaper in reversion; born in the Middle Temple, London, 10th June, 1781; succeeded his uncle, lord chancellor Thurlow, 12th Sept. 1806; married at St. Martin's in the Fields, 13th Nov. 1813, by Mr. Archdeacon Pott, the Rector, to Mary-Catherine Bolton, eldest daughter of James-Richard Bolton, of that parish, gent.

The first peerage conferred upon this family was granted on the 3d June, 1778, to Edward Thurlow, esq. late attorney-general, and then lord high chancellor of Great Britain. In the following year a new edition of Collins's Peerage was published, and the editor upon that occasion, as is customary, endeavoured to collect some genealogical account of the family; but his applications to the noble lord for assistance and information were ineffectual. The new-made peer, conscious that he owed his elevation not to family connections or interest, but entirely to his own talents, felt little anxiety about the history of his ancestors, and could never be prevailed upon, even by the heralds, whose duty it was to prepare a pedigree to be laid upon the table of the house of lords at the time of his taking his seat, to communicate more than was absolutely necessary for that purpose, according to the standing orders of the house, which required the names of the father and mother and their issue; and even this information was given sparingly, and with reluctance. This conduct, on the part of his lordship, so different from the usual practice in similar cases, tended to excite an idea that there was something in his origin that would not endure the test of enquiry, or gratify the labour of research;—but the following account, which has been faithfully collected from the most authentic sources, will shew that such an idea had no foundation in fact, and that his lordship's ancestors, though not included in the lists of the nobility, are to be found in the rank of clergy and gentry in the counties ties of Norfolk and Suffolk, quietly succeeding each other, in regular lineal descent, for more than three centuries. Their earliest known residence was at Burnham Ulp, in the county of Norfolk; and they appear to have had an interest in all the adjoining parishes, called the Burnhams, which are 7 or 8 in number, and where 3 brothers, named Thomas, Hugh, and William Thurlow, were living in the time of King Edward 4th.

A late edition of Collins's Peerage says, "This family does not appear to claim any alliance with Thurloe, the secretary of state in the time of Cromwell, who bore different arms." It is not improbable that the secretary and the peer might have been descended from a common ancestor: but of the ancestors of the former, nothing is known above his father, who was rector of Abbots Roding, in Essex; and the arms he used, as far as they can be ascertained from the seal to his will (there are none upon his tombstone in Lincoln's Inn) resemble those of Woodhouse, more than any known coat of Thurlow.

Thomas died in 1516, and was buried in the church of Burnham Overy, where an inscription for him, in the old church text, engraved on a brass plate, is still remaining.

"Pray for the soule of Thomas Thyrlow, which dyed in the year of our Lord, A°. 1516."

He made his will 19th Sept. 1512, by which it appears that he had lands in Burnham Overy (or St. Clements), Burnham Ulp, Burnham Sutton, Burnham Westgate, and Burnham Norton: he names his children and grand-children, gives to all his nephews, nieces, and god-children, a combe of barley each, and bequeaths 5*l.* to purchase an antiphoner, for the church of B. O. at which place his mother was still living, upon an estate which he leaves to his son John, after her death, charged with the fulfilling of his father's will (what were the contents of that will, or where it was proved, has not yet been discovered.) He appoints his brother William and his son John, joint executors, and residuary legatees.

It was probably to the memory of his mother that the following inscription, still remaining, was placed in the church of Burnham Overy, viz.:

“ Pray for the soule of Katheryn Thyrlow, which dyed in the yere of oure Lord, 1517.”

The two inscriptions above quoted are all that are now to be found at Burnham Overy; but that there must have been formerly several other memorials of the family here, is evident from the following, which is still in the church of Burnham market, viz.:

“ Here lieth y^e bodies of Henry Thurlow, and Mary, his prudent wife. He lineally descended from those Thurlowes who lye buried in Burnham Overy church. A just man he was, and died full of daies. He was buried y^e 24th day of May, anno. 1678. Pray good sir let noe strange bones disturbe these.”

Hugh Thurlow, the next brother, made his will in 1519, styling himself of Burnham Sutton, but desires to be buried in the church of Burnham Westgate, to which he leaves 40 shillings towards the purchase of an antiphoner; and after many donations to the other Burnhams, directs that his obijt shall be kept with solemn dirge and mass, with lights upon the hearse, in Sutton church, for 10 years; and that a secular priest shall sing for him a whole year, at Cambridge; allotting to him six pounds for his pains. He leaves his estate in Burnham Sutton, to his son John, with remainders to his other sons; and to his wife Agas, all her jewels; appoints one Simon Dey and Thomas Bloy, executors, and his brother William Thurlow supervisor. It has not been deemed necessary to bring down the issue of the two preceding brothers, as the present family derives its descent from the third; but their wills have been quoted for the purpose of shewing, that all the three were living in a state of affluence far above the common rank of society. William Thurlow, the third brother, who, as it has been shewn, was executor of the will of Thomas, and overseer of that of Hugh, made his own will in 1537, by the description of William Thurlow, of Burnham Ulp; desiring to be buried in that church. He gives legacies to Burnham Overy, and to every other parish of Burnham; directs his eldest son, Hugh Thurlow, to pay out of the rents of a certain close which he had lately conveyed to him, twenty shillings a year, for twenty years, to priests and poor people who should resort to the church of Burnham Ulp, at such time and times as his year's mind should be celebrated: gives to his wife 120 marks, all her apparel, half the utensils of his household, all his silver spoons, and a maser, with a bond of silver parcel gilt; names a great number of children and grandchildren, and nephews and nieces; gives to every one of his god-children one ewe sheep, or fourteen pence, at their choice; and to his god-son, Hugh Thurlow, one bullock, or six shillings and eight pence; appoints his sons Hugh and William, executors, and gives to each of them ten pounds for their labour. The witnesses are Richard Roberds, parson of Burnham Norton, and sir William Hoker, priest, and the will was proved at Walsingham, 26th Sept. in the same year, and in the prerogative court of Canterbury, 15th March following. He left issue, besides his sons Hugh and William, two daughters, Joan, then widow of John Colemer, and Anne, who married — Best. William, the second son, died in 1553, leaving issue, by Agnes, his wife, who survived him, two sons, William and Paul, both minors, and six daughters.

Hugh Thurlow, of Burnham Ulp, eldest son and heir of William, married Elizabeth, daughter of Oliver Reymes, of Burnham Depedale (paternally descended from Richard Reymes, of Overstrand, in the county of Norfolk, in the time of Henry the Third, and maternally from the ancient families of Brampton and Walcot) by whom he had a numerous issue, but as the oldest register of the parish now extant does not commence till 1653, their names can only be gathered from his will, which bears date 20th Nov. 1569, and was proved 17th Jan. following; and as he does not distinctly specify their rank, it can only be imperfectly inferred from the order in which they are named. According to this criterion, the sons stand thus:—Christopher, Ambrose, Henry (then student in the university,) Richard, and Giles, and the daughters Clemens (widow of Stalworthy,) and Dorothy. He desires to be buried in the church of Burnham ham Ulp, and gives a legacy to that church, and forty shillings to the poor of Burnham Ulp and Burnham Sutton. It appears that his sons Christopher, Giles, and Richard, were married at that time: he gives lands to each of them, and also to those that were unmarried; and with regard to his son Henry, then at the university, he provides liberally for his expences as long as he should remain there, which was to be left to his choice. As the issue of Richard is the principal object of the present enquiry, it seems not necessary to pursue the collateral lines, but to proceed with him. It appears by his father's will, that he had three sons living at that time (1569,) named Edward (of whom hereafter) Henry and Richard, and that his then wife's name was Joan. He afterwards married Cecily, daughter of John Houghton, of Gunthorpe, in the county of Norfolk, and sister of sir Robert Houghton, (who was one of the justices of the King's Bench in 1602, and knighted at Royston, 1613,) by whom he had issue, William, Nicholas, Adam, Bridget, and Alice: William resided at Burnham Norton, and died unmarried in 1630. Bridget, his sister, also died unmarried, in 1656. Of Adam and Alice nothing is known. Nicholas survived his sister Bridget, and by Joan his wife, daughter of — Ducker, had issue one son, named John, and two daughters, viz.: Jane, wife of Thomas Kerridge, and Susan, wife of Edward Clay. John, the son, was born 24th Dec. 1619; was in his youth a great traveller, and visited many parts of Europe, Africa, and America. Upon returning to his native country, he settled at Burnham Ulp, and married Lydia, the daughter of William Doughty, of King's Lynn, and by her, who died 31st May, 1676, had two sons and two daughters, who all died infants in her lifetime. He died in 1684, leaving a widow named Anne, but no children. He recorded his pedigree at the herald's visitation of the county of Norfolk, in 1664, and in the same year received a grant of arms and crest, allusive to the manner in which he had passed the early part of his life.

He made his will a few weeks before his death, in which he desires to be buried in Burnham Norton church, church, under a gravestone, near his first wife, Lydia ; gives legacies to the poor of all the Burnhams, and states his having purchased divers lands in the Burnhams of his cousin, Thomas Thurlow, clerk, rector of Wortham ; that his wife Anne is living, but that he had no children by her ; appoints his brother-in-law, Thomas Kerridge, and his friend John Beardmore, clerk, rector of Burnham Thorpe, trustees of his estates, to permit his said cousin Thomas Thurlow, rector of Wortham, to receive the rents and profits during his life, with remainder to the issue of his body, he and they paying one third of the said profits to the testator's widow during her life—remainder to testator's god-son, John Thurlow, son of his cousin, Henry Thurlow, of Ringsted, and appoints his said cousin, Thomas, sole executor, who proved his will in the archdeaconry of Norfolk, on 30th March, 1685, and in the month of June following, upon his allegation, that the said will was the only evidence for the lands thereby given, the original was delivered to him, and he signed an acknowledgement of the receipt of it: It does not appear when he returned it, but it is now remaining in the proper office. Richard, the grandfather of the testator, died in 1599, having made his will on 20th Aug. in the preceding year, in which he named his sons Edward, Henry, and Richard, as well as his children by Cecily Houghton, his last wife (who have been noticed in the preceding paragraph,) and particularly calls Edward his eldest son. The time of this Edward's death has not been ascertained, but the will of his relict, styling herself Katherine Thurlow, of Burnham Ulp, widow, bears date 5th Sept. 1623, in which she gives a lease which had been granted by sir Charles Cornwallis, 1st Feb. 1613, to her late husband Edward Thurlow, gent. deceased, and herself to her daughter, Katherine Neve, (wife of William Neve,) and recommends her other daughters, Frances, Jane, and Mary Thurlow, to the protection and benevolence of her son William Thurlow, expressing a hope that God will move him to stand their friend ; from which it may be concluded that their father died intestate. William Thurlow, of Burnham Ulp, only son of the said Edward and

and Katherine, married first, Grace, daughter of Edmund Colles of Hindringham in Norfolk, by whom he had two sons, Richard and William, and five daughters; and secondly, to Mary, the daughter of Henry Violet of Lynn, and sister of William Violet of Pinkney Hall, esq. upon whose death in 1648, (the executors renouncing,) he, jointly with his wife, took out letters of administration of his effects on the 3d of March. By this lady he had two sons, Thomas and Violet, at the time of making his will, 17th Feb. 1650, and she was then pregnant; and by a codicil dated 31st Oct. 1652, it appears that she was then again pregnant.—He desires to be buried in the chancel of Burnham Ulp, and appoints his wife sole executrix; she proved the will 12th Sept. 1653.

Thomas Thurlow, eldest son by the second marriage, was entered at Bennet College, Cambridge, 25th June, 1666, at the age of 17, and admitted to a scholarship of the foundation of Sir Nicholas Bacon, in 1666-7. (He was cousin-german once removed to Sir Edmund Bacon, bart. great-grandson of the founder,) took the degree of B.A. in 1669, and of M.A. in 1673; rector of Wortham in 1680; and adopted heir by his cousin, John Thurlow, the traveller, (as above stated,) in 1684. He died 21st July, 1717, and was buried at Wortham.

Upon his tombstone in Wortham church are the arms and crest which were granted to his cousin, the Traveller, (see p. 488,) probably upon an erroneous notion, not uncommon, that the being adopted heir to the lands, entitled him also to the inheritance of the armorial ensigns; the inscription is only, Thomas Thurlow, clerk, rector of this parish, died 21st July, 1717, aged 69.

It appears by his will that, upon his marriage, he had settled divers lands and tenements in the Burnhams in jointure to, and in trust for his wife, Elizabeth: this settlement he confirms, and gives her all his personal estate in special confidence: to his eldest son, Thomas, he leaves all his manors, messuages, lands, tenements, advowsons, &c. (not settled for his wife's jointure,) out of which he is to pay to his younger brother and sisters, eight in number, as they respectively arrive at the

the age of 21, the sum of three hundred pounds each in the south porch of Wortham church. He left issue, two sons, Thomas and Edward, and seven daughters, Philippa, baptized, 19th Jan. 1687; Elizabeth, 19th July, 1689; Mary, 9th Sept. 1690; Frances, 19th Aug. 1694; Theophila, 21st Aug. 1698; Katherine, 7th April, 1700; and Finite, 19th July, 1702. His widow survived him many years, and dying on the 19th of March, 1744, was buried in the church of Burnham Norton, close to the grave of her husband's cousin, Mr. John Thurlow, (the traveller,) as were also her daughters, Frances and Theophila, who both died unmarried; (Frances in 1749, and Theophila in 1723,) and her granddaughter, Frances Hibgame, who died an infant in 1736. Of the other daughters, Elizabeth married to a relation named Edward Thurlow, esq. a captain in the army, died his widow 5th Feb. 1763, aged 73, and was buried in Swaffham church. Katherine married to John Hibgame, and had issue.

Thomas Thurlow, the eldest son, was baptized at Wortham 21st Aug. 1695: he was a student in Caius College, Cambridge, where he took the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1716, was afterwards rector of Ashfield in the county of Suffolk, where, on the 10th of Dec. 1730, he married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Smith of Ashfield aforesaid, gentleman, and only surviving sister and heir of her brother, Robert Smith, of the same place, gent. upon whose death, without issue, she became the representative and sole heir-general of Richard Hovell, who possessed divers lands in Rickingham, Ashfield, Stow-Langtoft, Badwell-Ash, and Walsham in the Willows, in the county of Suffolk, was esquire of the body to king Henry the 5th, and died Anno 3. Hen. 6. William Hovell, grandson and heir of the said Richard, seated himself at Ashfield in the reign of Henry the 7th, where the eldest male line of the family continued in regular succession down to the said Robert Smith, having in the meantime, in or about the reign of queen Elizabeth, added the surname of Smith to that of Hovell, and called and styled themselves Hovell alias Smith for several generations, until Robert, the father of the said Elizabeth Thurlow, previous to his marriage with Ann Torkington, daughter and co-heir of Robert Torkington of Brettenham in the county of Suffolk, forsook the name of Hovell; and in the marriage articles, bearing date 1st Dec. 1701, by the name of Robert Smith (only) of Ashfield, gent. settled an ancient estate of the family called the Lea, in Ashfield, upon the issue of that marriage, which estate had been bequeathed to him by his father in 1695, under the description of his son, Robert Hovell alias Smith; and from and after that marriage he and his children were called and known by the name of Smith only, although it appears by several pedigrees recorded in the heralds' office, and by other authentic evidence, that the true ancient paternal name of the family was originally Hovell. The said Thomas Thurlow (rector of Ashfield,) died in June 1762, and was buried near his wife, in the vault belonging to her family, in the chancel of Ashfield church. By this lady he had issue 3 sons, Edward, Thomas and John; Edward Thurlow, the eldest son and the first lord Thurlow, was born at Braken Ash in Norfolk in 1731, educated first at Canterbury, afterwards in Caius College, Cambridge; became student of law in the Inner Temple; and having been called to the bar, attained the rank of King's Counsel in Nov. 1761; was appointed solicitor-general in 1770, and attorney-general in the year following; he was also M.P. for Tamworth in the 13th and 14th parliaments of Great Britain. On the 3d of June 1778, being appointed lord high chancellor, he received the seals of that office from the hands of his sovereign, and on the same day was advanced to the peerage by the title of baron Thurlow of Ashfield in the county of Suffolk, with limitation of that dignity to the heirs male of his body. His lordship resigned the seals in April 1783, and the office was put in commission; but in Dec. following, when Mr. Pitt became prime minister, his lordship received them a second time, and continued to hold them till June 1792, when he again resigned them, and upon that occasion was rewarded with a second peerage, by the title of baron Thurlow, of Thurlow in the

the county of Suffolk: the letters patent bear date the 11th of that month, and confer the said dignity upon him and the heirs male of his body, and in default of such issue, to Edward Thurlow, esq. (the present peer,) eldest son of Thomas, late lord bishop of Durham, and the heirs male of his body, and in default of such issue, to Thomas Thurlow, esq. the younger son of the said lord bishop and the heirs male of his body; and in default of such issue, to Edward-South Thurlow, clerk, one of the prebendaries of the cathedral church of Norwich, and the heirs male of his body. From this period his lordship no longer took an active part in the administration of government, but did not cease to contribute his advice and assistance when called upon; and while his health permitted, regularly attended his duty in the House of Lords, especially in cases of claims and appeals. His lordship d. at Brighton on the 12th of Sept. 1806. His lordship's remains were removed from his house in Great George-street, Westminster, on the 25th of the same month, and interred in the Temple Church.—The pall-bearers were the lord chancellor, the duke of Newcastle, lord Eldon, the lord chief justice, the lord chief baron, and sir William Scott;—the funeral service was read by the dean of Windsor. A detailed account of the procession will be found in Vol. 76 of Gent. Mag. p. 883.) Dying without issue male the barony of Thurlow of Ashfield became extinct, and that of Thurlow of Thurlow, created in 1792, descended, according to the limitation in the patent of creation, to his nephew, Edward, present lord. His lordship, however, left 3 daughters, viz. 1. Caroline, wife of colonel Samuel Brown, deputy quarter-master-general in Ireland; 2. Catherine, unm; 3. Mary, wife of colonel David Cunynghame, eldest son of sir William Cunynghame, of Livingstone, bart. of which marriage there are 4 sons and 2 daughters.

2. Thomas, the 2d son of Thomas Thurlow, rector of Ashfield, by Elizabeth Smith, was D.D. rector of Stanhope in the county of Durham in 1771; master of the Temple, and dean of Rochester in 1775. In 1779 he was elected and confirmed bishop of Lincoln; in 1782, appointed dean of St. Paul's; and in 1787, translated to the see of Durham after the death of Dr. John Egerton, on the 18th June in that year. His lordship died 27th May, 1791, and was buried in the Temple Church, as was also his wife, Anne, daughter of William Beere of Lymington, in the county of Southampton, who deceased in August following. They had issue 9 children, viz. 2 sons and 7 daughters: the 1st and 3d daughters, Amelia and Louisa, died infants; the rest survived, Edward, the present lord, of whom before; Thomas Thurlow, of St. John's College, Cambridge, clerk, M.A. curate of Wolverton, co. Bucks, 2d son, was born in Auckland Castle, Durham, 19th Sept. 1787; m. at St. George's, Hanover-square, by the lord bishop of Norwich, 4th of June 1811, to Mary-Frances, 3d daughter of the honorable Thomas Lyon of Hetton-House, Durham, deceased, uncle of the present earl of Strathmore, and has had issue one son, Edward-John, who died in his infancy, and was buried in Ashfield Church.

Of the bishop's surviving daughters, Amelia-Ann, married at Houghton le Spring, co. Durham, to major-general Edward Howorth, col. in the royal artillery, which he commanded at the passage of the Douro, and taking of Oporto, as also in the battle of Talavera, and several other actions; she d. without issue, 8th Dec. 1809, and by the especial indulgence of the honorable society of the Inner Temple, her body was deposited in the same vault with those of her parents and uncle: Louisa, d. an infant; Elizabeth, unm.; Ann-Maria, m. at St. George's, Hanover-square, 12th April, 1804, to Charles Godfrey, now of Wetherden Hall, in Suffolk, esq. late major in the royal horse artillery, and has issue, 2 sons, and three daughters: Caroline and Henrietta, both living, unm.

3. John Thurlow, esq. the 3d son of Thomas Thurlow, (rector of Ashfield,) by Elizabeth Smith; was an alderman, and sometime mayor of the city of Norwich; he married Josepha, daughter of John Morse, of Norwich, gent. and dying 11th March, 1782, was buried at Cove, in Suffolk, in the vault belonging to his wife's family, having had issue by her (who d. 10th Dec. 1786,) one son, Edward-South Thurlow, and 4 daughters; the eldest daughter, daughter, named Josepha, d. unm. the other three died infants.

Edward-South Thurlow, only son, and on whom the dignity is entailed, in case of the failure of male issue from the present lord and his brother, is one of the prebendaries of the cathedral of Norwich, rector of Houghton le Spring, in the co. of Durham, and vicar of Stanfordham, in the co. Northumberland. He m. 1st, Elizabeth-Mary, daughter of James Thompson, of Norwich, gent. by Mary, his wife, daughter of Josiah Chitty, of Chadwell in Essex, gent. by whom he had issue, Edward, in holy orders, b. at Norwich, 20th Oct. 1788; Frederick-Charles, b. at Norwich, 11th Sept. 1798, now at the military college; Charles-Augustus, b. at Norwich, 9th July, 1802; Henry-Robert, b. at Norwich.

This lady dying 20th June, 1808, he m. 2dly, on 10th April, 1810, Susanna, youngest daughter of the rev. John Love, of Somerleyton, in Suffolk, and has issue, William and Susan.

There are ample materials existing to furnish a far more extensive account of this family, who share the blood of the Plantagenets; but the contracted scale of our work will not permit us to enter into a more minute detail.

Heir Presumptive—The rev. THOMAS THURLLOW, his lordship's brother.

GEORGE-FULKE LYTTTELTON, LORD LYTTTELTON, Baron of Frankley, co. Worcester, Baron Westcote, of Balamore, in Ireland; born Oct. 27, 1762; succeeded his father William-Henry, the late lord, Sept. 14, 1803.

The family of Lyttelton appears to have been of very ancient standing and rank at South Lyttelton and Frankley, in Worcestershire. In the reign of Henry III. in 1235, Thomas de Lyttelton m. Emma de Frankley, an heiress and lady of the manor; and his grandson, Thomas de Lyttelton, in the 9th of Edward II. was chosen knight knight of the shire for the county of Worcester; from whom descended John Lyttelton, who was involved in the measures of the earl of Essex, for which he was tried and condemned for high treason, Feb. 20, 1600-1. Sir Walter Raleigh, at that time in great favour and power at court, was remarkably warm in prosecuting the earl of Essex and his adherents. A large sum of money, privately paid to him by Mr. Lyttelton, and others, so far indeed operated upon him, that he saved their lives, but not their estates. The following excellent letter, written from the dungeon in Newgate to sir Walter, shews the greatness of Lyttelton's spirit, and deserved far better at the hands of Raleigh.—“Sir, it is not worthye the vertue and honour you professe, to persecute persons fallen into misfortunes: if heretofore you have borne me causelesse displeasure, now, of all others, is the time least seasonable to shew it. Remember, sir, what it is to be truly noble, and how it agreeth not with generous hartes to delight to trample upon dejected fortunes. It is now in your power to do me good or ill offices; if you do me good, you shall give cause to be thankfull. There is already between your son and me one tye in blood and nature; I could be contente you did now double the knot with offices of love and friendship. To begge your favour in the state I stand, were too much baseness; to refuse it, were arrogancy and indiscretion; but to require you to do me ne harm, is but justice, and that one gentleman of right oweth to another. What construction you will make of this, or what is nowe meete to be don, I must refer to your own judgment, and so I ende. J. LYTTELTON.”

He was removed from Newgate to the king's bench prison, shortly after his conviction, where he lived but a few months, and dying July 25, 1601, aged 39, was buried in the church of St. George, Southwark.

Sir Thomas Lyttelton, the 4th bart. m. May 8, 1708, Christian, daughter of Sir Richard Temple, bart. of Stowe, co. Buckingham, and had issue, 1. Sir George, the 1st lord Lyttelton—2. Thomas, d. unm. April 16, 1729—3. Charles, lord bishop of Carlisle, d. unm. Dec. 22, 1768—4. Richard, d. young—5. Sir Richard, K.B.; m. Dec.

Dec. 14, 1745, lady Rachel Russell, eldest daughter of Wriothsesley, 2d duke of Bedford, and widow of Scroop, 1st duke of Bridgewater, and d. without issue, Oct. 1, 1770—6. William Henry, the 1st lord Westcote—7. Cristian, m. Thomas Pitt, esq. of Boconoc, father of the 1st lord Camelford, and d. June 4, 1750—8. Anne, m. the rev. Francis Ayscough, D.D.; and d. March 30, 1776—9. Mary, d.—10. Penelope—11. Amelia, d.—12. Hester, m. John Fitzmaurice, esq. of Springfield Castle, in Limerick.

Sir George Lyttelton, the 1st and celebrated lord, succeeded his father in the baronetcy, and having been employed in many high official situations, was created lord Lyttelton, baron of Frankley, in 1756. His lordship was b. Jan. 17, 1709, and m. June 15, 1742, Lucy, daughter of Hugh Fortescue, esq. of Filleigh, co. Devon, (by the hon. Lucy Aylmer, 2d daughter of Matthew, 1st lord Aylmer), and by her (who d. Jan. 19, 1747) had issue, 1. Thomas, 2d lord—2. Lucy, m. May 10, 1767, Arthur Annesley, earl of Mount-Norris. His lordship m. 2dly, Aug. 10, 1749, Elizabeth, daughter of field-marshal sir Robert Rich, bart. (who d. without issue, Sept. 27, 1795), and deceasing, Aug. 22, 1773, was succeeded by his only son, Thomas, 2d lord, who d. without issue, in 1779, when the barony of Lyttelton became extinct; but the ancient baronetcy devolved on his uncle, William-Henry Lyttelton, lord Westcote, who, after serving in many diplomatic situations, was created baron Westcote of Balamore, July 21, 1776, and, Aug. 13, 1794, was created to the extinct family honours of lord Lyttelton, baron of Frankley, co. Worcester, b. Dec. 20, 1724; m. 1st, in June, 1761, Mary, daughter and co-heiress of James Macartney, of Longford, in Ireland, esq. and by her (who d. in 1765) he had Hester, b. March 17, 1762; m. Aug. 20, 1783, sir Richard-Colt Hoare, of Stourhead, co. Wilts, bart. and has issue, Richard-Henry, m. in Feb. 1808, Charlotte, only daughter of sir Edward Deering, bart.; George-Fulke, the present lord; Charles-Adam, R.N. b. Dec. 28, 1764, and being a lieutenant on board the Robust ship of war, was killed near the capes of Virginia, in an engagement, March 16, 1781. JOHN

JOHN PEACHEY, BARON SELSEY, of Selsey, in Sussex, and a Baronet, F.R.S. F.S.A. and F.L.S.; born March 16, 1749; succeeded his father, James, the late lord, Feb. 1, 1808; married, Jan. 18, 1784, Hester-Elizabeth, daughter of George Jennings, esq. of New-sells, co. Herts, (by lady Mary, aunt of the late mar- quess of Clanricarde,) by whom he has 3 sons and 2 daughters, viz. James, b. Sept. 3, 1785, d. Nov. 8, 1811; Henry-John, a lieutenant R.N. b. Sept. 4, 1787; John-William, in holy orders, M.A. rector of Reed, vicar of Barkway, co. Herts, and rector of Royford, co. Sussex, b. Dec. 10, 1788; Caroline-Mary, b. May 24, 1790; and Charlotte-Hester, b. Oct. 19, 1792, and d. March 3, 1793.

The family of Peachey is descended, according to sir Edward Byshe, from a younger branch of the ancient family of Peché, of Kingsthorpe, co. Leicester, Gilbert Peche, or Peché, great grandson of Hamon Peché, sheriff of Cambridgeshire in the reign of Henry III. was summoned to parliament among the barons from the 28th of Edward I. to the 10th of Edward II. as lord Peché, of Brune, in Cambridgeshire, in right of his mother Alice, sister and co-heir of William Peverell, baron of Brune. Sir John Peché, whose ancestors were settled in Warwickshire, was likewise summoned from the 14th of Edward II. to the 9th of Edward III. and was otherwise a person of considerable eminence, having been successively entrusted with the important offices of governor of Warwick castle, constable of Dover castle, and warden of the Cinque-ports. In earlier times we find two of the name, possessed in the same century of the same ecclesiastical dignity, Robert and Richard Peché, bishops of Lichfield and Coventry; the former consecrated in 1127, the latter in 1162. Another sir John Peché, a knight-banneret, flourished under Henry VIII. whom he served in the offices of constable of Dover castle, and deputy of Calais; he was seated, as his ancestors had been for at least two generations, at Lullingstone, in Kent, where he estab- lished charitable foundations, and lies buried in the church of that parish, under a superb monument, decorated decorated with a great number of armorial bearings, illustrative of the alliances of his family.

Towards the end of the 15th century, a branch of this ancient family settled at Kingsthorpe, in Leicestershire, and at Sherow Hall, in Derbyshire. John Peché, whom we find about that date possessed of both those estates, left a son, John, whose son, William, had by his wife, a daughter of William Winchester, 2 sons, Henry and John. From this branch of the Pechés, and most probably from one of those sons, descends the family of which we are to treat; for, in 1663, sir Edward Byshe, Clarenceux king of arms, not only confirmed their armorial ensign, without variation, to William Peachey, of Newgrove, in the parish of Petworth, co. Sussex, esq. (of whom we shall presently speak more at large,) but stated expressly in the patent, dated the 20th of Feb. in that year, that he had proved himself to be descended from the ancient family of Peché, of Kingsthorpe, in Leicestershire. Edmund Peachey, the 1st of lord Selsey's lineal progenitor, whom we find in Sussex, was seated at Eartham in that county: he had an only son, Edward, who d. in 1657, having been twice married; and left by Anne his 2d wife, a daughter of the family of Beeche, 3 sons, Edward, William, and John, and 2 daughters, Anne and Sarah: Edward, the eldest of the sons, had 2 sons and 2 daughters, and d. in 1678—John, 3d, was twice married, and d. May 25, 1693, leaving an only child, Elizabeth, m. sir Richard Farrington, knight.

William, the 2d son, to whom the patent of 1663, beforementioned, passed, declaring his descent from the Pechés of Leicestershire, m. Mary, daughter and co-heir of — Hall, of Petworth, esq. who brought him 8 sons, in the following order of succession: Henry — Edward — William — John — Bulstrode — George — Charles — and James; he d. in Oct. 1685. Of his sons, the 2d, 3d, 6th, 7th, and 8th, were unm. viz. Edward — William, an officer in the foot-guards, who was slain at the battle of Almanza, in Spain — George — Charles, who d. in Persia — and James, who having been a governor in the service of the East-India company, was was afterwards representative in parliament for Leominster, in Herefordshire, and dying on the 15th of Feb. 1771, was buried at Petworth—Bulstrode, 5th son, who assumed the name of Knight, in addition to that of Peachey, on his marriage, June 8, 1725, with Elizabeth, relict of William-Woodward Knight, of Westdean, co. Sussex, esq. also left no issue. He was thrice elected member of parliament for Midhurst, in that county; he d. Jan. 14, 1735, and was buried at Chawton, in Hampshire, leaving his estates to his brother John. It remains then to speak of Henry, the eldest, and John, the 4th son of William Peachey, by Mary Hall. Henry was representative co. Sussex, in the parliament summoned to meet in July 1708, and in several others, and upon the death of his brother, Bulstrode, was elected for Midhurst; he received the honour of knighthood from king William, and was created a baronet of Great Britain, March 21, 1736, with remainder, in case of failure of issue male, to his brother John; he m. Jane, daughter of William Jarret, esq. of London, by whom he had 2 sons, William, who was buried at Petworth, an infant of a few weeks old, Feb. 24, 1694; and Henry, who d. unm. at the age of twenty; and 3 daughters, Jane, wife of Gawen-Harris Nash, of Petworth, esq. and Elizabeth and Fleanor, who d. unm.

The male issue of sir Henry Peachey (who d. in the 67th year of his age, Aug. 14, 1737, and was buried at Petworth,) having thus become extinct in his lifetime, the title of baronet, pursuant to the limitation above recited, devolved on his next brother, sir John Peachey, who succeeded him also as representative for Midhurst. He had issue by Henrietta, daughter of George London, of Long Ditton, in Surrey, esq. (who d. July 29, 1754, and lies buried in the chancel of the parish-church of Westdean, in Sussex,) 2 sons, John and James, and 3 daughters, Henrietta and Rebecca, both of whom d. unm. and were buried at Kingston, co. Surrey; and Mary, who m. Michael Seare, esq. of the Grove, near Tring, in Hertfordshire.

Sir John Peachey, 2d bart. d. April 12, 1744, and was succeeded by his eldest son, sir John, 3d bart.;

who was elected to parliament for Midhurst, m. Elizabeth, only daughter of Meeres Fagge, of Glenley, co. Sussex, esq. and d. without issue, July 3, 1763, when the title devolved upon his only brother, James, 1st lord Selsey, and 4th bart. b. March 10, 1723, who was elected to parliament for Seaford, in Sussex; appointed, in 1751, groom of the bedchamber to his Majesty, when prince of Wales; in 1792, succeeded the earl of Cardigan, as master of the robes to the king, and created baron Selsey, of Selsey, co. Sussex, Aug. 19, 1794. His lordship m. Aug. 19, 1747, Georgiana-Caroline Scott, eldest daughter of Henry, 1st earl Deloraine, youngest son of James, duke of Monmouth, (by his 2d wife Mary, only daughter of captain Charles Howard, and aunt of John, present earl of Suffolk and Berkshire); and by her (who d. Oct. 13, 1809,) had issue, John, the present lord; and Georgiana, m. April 1, 1771, George, present earl of Warwick; and by her (who d. April 1, 1772,) had a son, George, lord Brooke, who d. young. His lordship d. Feb. 1, 1808, and was succeeded by his only son John, present and 2d lord.

Heir Apparent—HENRY-JOHN, his lordship's eldest son.

York, esq.—Mary, m. April 18, 1808, the rev. William Wharton—and Isabella.

The family of Dundas, in North Britain, is descended from Gospatrick, or Cospatric, earl of Northumberland, who, in 1066, went into Scotland with king Malcolm Canmore, rather than submit to the Conqueror. King Malcolm gave him the lands of Dunbar, and many other possessions in Scotland. Weldere, his eldest son, gave the lands of Dundas, in 1124, to Helias, son of his brother Hutred, whose lands are still possessed by the family, and the original charter is in their possession. Serle de Dundas succeeded in 1170, and was succeeded by his son Helias in 1220—Rudolphus, his son, was succeeded by Saer de Dundas, who, anno 1296, was compelled to swear allegiance to Edward, king of England, for his lands in Mid-Lothian, and for his lands of Fingask, in Perthshire. He was succeeded by his son, sir Hugh Dundas, who was often mentioned as companion of sir William Wallace, in defence of his country. He d. in the reign of king Robert de Bruce, and Saer Dundas, his son, succeeded him, and was killed at the battle of Dupplin: he was succeeded by his son, James de Dundas, who resigned the barony of Fingask to king David, and got a new charter to his son, John de Dundas, anno 1364, to be held of the king as honourably as his predecessors did. James, his son, got a charter from king Robert in 1371, of the said barony, which was confirmed by Murdoch, duke of Albany, governor of Scotland, in the absence of king James I. dated May 24, 1430, which is to his heirs male by Christian Stuart, daughter to Inermaithe and Lorn, by Christian, sister to the said duke of Albany. In 1431 he was succeeded by his eldest son, James, m. Euphan, daughter of sir Alexander Livingstone, ancestor of the earl of Linlithgow, who was succeeded by Alexander, his son; which Alexander, together with 4 of his brothers, was killed at the battle of Flowden, in 1513, leaving a son, Alexander, by Isabel, daughter of Laurence, lord Oliphant, who succeeded him in the said barony of Fingask, and m. Elizabeth, daughter of David Bruce, of Clackmannan; he was killed at the battle of Pinkie, in 1547. Archibald-Douglas, his eldest son, was returned heir to his father, Jan. 10, 1548; and m. Elizabeth, daughter of lord Colvill, of Cleish, by whom he had Archibald, his son and heir, returned to Perth, Feb. 8, 1606, in the barony of Fingask; he m. Jane, sister to the 1st earl of Southesk, by whom he had sir John Dundas, of Dundas, who had a son, John, who succeeded in 1670, m. Magdalene, daughter of Thomas Allardice, esq. of that ilk, by Jane, daughter of sir Alexander Burnet, and had an only son, Thomas, m. Berthia, daughter of John Bailie, of Castle-Carry, Co. of Stirling, by whom he had 2 sons, viz. Thomas of Fingask, his heir, and Laurence.

FRANCIS

FRANCIS BASSET, BARON DE DUNSTANVILLE, of Tehidy Park, co. Cornwall, with limitation to his heirs male; so created June 17, 1796: also Baron Basset, of Stratton, Nov. 17, 1797, with remainder to his daughter and her heirs male; and a Baronet; married, in May 1780, Frances-Susanna, daughter to John-Hippisley Coxe, of Stone-Easton, co. Somerset, esq. by whom he has one daughter, Frances, b. May 1, 1781.

This family came into England with William the Conqueror, and appears in the list of barons which was long preserved at Battle Abbey. The first of the family was Thurstan, and from that common stock sprang several families, much distinguished by our ancient kings; most of them now extinct in the male line. The baronies of Drayton, Hedington, Sapcote, Weldon, Louvaine, &c. were in different branches of this family. In Henry the First's reign, Basset, of Drayton, who seems to have been the elder branch, was chief-justice of England, the first officer in the kingdom at that period. The Bassets held ten knights-fees, in 1106, of the manor of Wallingford; amongst which number appears the name of William Basset, who likewise held knights-fees of the manor of Ipsden, in Oxfordshire, the ancestor of lord De Dunstanville's family. In the time of king John, they took an active part; two of the family signed Magna Charta, Basset, of Hedington, and another. Basset, of Hedington, and William above-mentioned, m. into the Dunstanville family—William, m. in 1150, Cecilia, daughter and heiress of Alan de Dunstanville; which Alan m. the daughter of Reginald Fitzhenry, earl of Cornwall, and by this m. acquired the property of Tehidy, in Cornwall.

There is a grant of lands from king John to William Basset, and Cecilia, his wife; and, from the year 1150, Tehidy has been the residence of the family. By several m. they acquired lands in Devonshire; and about the year 1556, the family branched off, and the eldest son of John Basset, of Tehidy, and of his wife, the widow of Arthur Plantagenet, viscount Lisle, seated himself at Heanton Court, in the county of Devon; which property descended through the Beaumonts, and in that residence the elder branch now continues—George, 2d son of John, became possessed of Tehidy by the gift of his nephew, sir Arthur Basset, m. Frances, heiress of viscount Lisle—James, the son of George, m. Jane, one of the daughters of sir Francis Godolphin, of Godolphin. In the time of Charles I. there were three brothers, sir Francis, sir Thomas, and sir Arthur. Sir Francis, the eldest, m. Anne, daughter of sir J. Trelawney, bart. and was sheriff of Cornwall during the greater part of the rebellion, in which he manifested the utmost zeal and activity in defence of his royal master. Sir Thomas, his brother, was a major-general in the king's service, and commanded a division of the royal army at the battle of Stratton, when, with very inferior numbers, the royalists defeated the rebels. Sir Arthur was also a major-general in the king's service, and governor of St. Michael's Mount, the property of his brother Francis, and which was one of the last places that yielded to the parliament. After the battle of Stratton, it is well known that the Cornish royalists, under the command of the gallant sir Bevil Granvil, by repeated victories, supported the royal cause; till at last, rather exhausted by conquest than beaten by the enemy, they were obliged to submit to the overwhelming torrent which destroyed both church and state. Sir Francis Basset was with the king at Lestwithiel when Essex's army surrendered; after which event, he says, in a letter to his wife, "The king told me, in the hearing of thousands, Mr. Sheriff, I now leave the county of Cornwall to your care and protection." Owing to his expences in support of the royal cause, and his being obliged to compound for his estate with the parliament, he was under the necessity of selling St. Michael's Mount, and much other property. His descendants, therefore, were much distressed for many years after the rebellion. By the marriages, however, of the great grandfather of lord De Dunstanville, with Miss Lucy Hele, and of his grandfather with Miss Mary Pendarves, both heiresses, a considerable acquisition of property came to the family, which was much improved by the skilful management and well-regulated economy of

of his father, Francis Basset. Francis Basset, lord De Dunstanville's grandfather, had two sons by his wife, Mary Pendarves, viz. John-Pendarves Basset, and Francis, his lordship's father: the former m. Anne, daughter of sir Edmund Prideaux, bart. and dying in 1739, left 1 son, who d. in 1756, when Francis, the father of the present peer, succeeded to the family estate, and soon after m. Margaret, daughter of sir John St. Aubyn, bart. of Clowance, co. Cornwall. He d. in 1769, leaving issue, 2 sons and 4 daughters, viz. Francis, the present lord—John, m. Miss Mary Wingfield, and has 1 son, John—Margaret, m. John Rogers, of Penrose, in Cornwall, esq. and has 6 sons and 9 daughters—Cecilia, Mary, and Catharine, are unm.

Heir Apparent—On his lordship's decease, the barony of De Dunstanville will become extinct, but the barony of Basset will descend to FRANCES, his sole daughter, and her issue male.

Creations—Baron De Dunstanville, June 17, 1796—Basset, of Stratton, Nov. 7, 1797, with remainder to the issue male of Frances, his lordship's only daughter.

Motto—Pro rege et populo. For the king and the people.

WILLIAM-ORDE POWLETT, BARON BOLTON, of Bolton Castle, co. York, Register, Examiner, and 1st clerk of the county palatine of Lancaster; born Oct. 31, 1782; succeeded his father, Thomas, the late lord, July 30, 1807; married, May 12, 1810, the honourable Maria Carleton, eldest daughter of Guy, the 1st lord Dorchester, K.B.

The family of Orde is of great antiquity, and has very long been possessed of considerable landed estates in Northumberland and Durham, which, in the latter county, were held in capite under the bishop, chief in the palatinate, especially at and in the neighbourhood of Orde, near Berwick-upon-Tweed, where probably the family was originally seated. Most of these estates, with additions in both counties, still remain in the family; and part of them at Orde, Norham, Grindon, &c. descended descended to John Orde, esq. the father of Thomas, the 1st lord Bolton, as heir-male of his cousin, William Orde, of Sandy-Bank House, esq. member of parliament for Berwick-upon-Tweed.

The 3 daughters of William Orde, upon his death, became possessed of other considerable estates, which were not entailed, viz. Norham Castle and its demesnes, Sandy-Bank, &c. &c. which have centered in the heirs of the 2d daughter, Isabella, wife of Robert Fenwick, of Lemmington, co. Northumberland, esq.

John Orde, esq. father of Thomas, 1st lord Bolton, d. in 1784, aged 80 years, and was buried at Morpeth, co. Northumberland; he was m. 1st, to Anne, daughter of Edward Ward, esq. of Nunnikirk, co. Northumberland; by whom he had 1 son, William Orde, esq. of Morpeth, and now also of Nunnikirk, who inherited the family estates, and likewise those of the Wards of Nunnikirk, by his marriage with his cousin Anne, daughter, and since heiress of William Ward, esq. of Nunnikirk.

John Orde m. 2dly, Anne, widow of the rev. William-Pye Clerk, and by her had 2 sons and 2 daughters: Thomas, 1st lord Bolton—John, now sir John Orde, baronet, K.B. admiral R.N.—Anne—Mary, m. Robert Lisle, esq. of Acton House, co. Northumberland, and d. in 1790, leaving 3 daughters. Sir John Orde m. 1st, Margaret, daughter and heiress of — Stephens, esq. of Beaufort, South Carolina, who d. in 1791, leaving no issue. He m. 2dly, in Dec. 1793, Jane, eldest daughter of John Frere, esq. of Roydon, co. Norfolk, and late member of parliament for the city of Norwich.

Thomas Orde, b. Aug. 30, 1748, was, Oct. 20, 1797, created baron Bolton, of Bolton Castle, and on the death of Harry Powlett, 6th and last duke of Bolton, in 1794, by his Majesty's permission, assumed the name and arms of Powlett; m. April 7, 1778, Jane-Mary Powlett, natural daughter of Charles, 5th duke of Bolton, (who on the death of her uncle, Henry, the 6th and last duke of Bolton without issue male, succeeded to the Bolton estates), and had issue Mary-Jane, b. May 22, 1781; d. in Feb. 1806—William, the present lord—Anne, d. in Nov. 1804—Thomas, b. Oct. 16, 1787; m. in 1811, Letitia, titia, 4th daughter of the late Henry O'Brien, of Blatherwick Park, co. Northants, esq.—and Charles, d. in Aug. 1806. His lordship deceasing, July 30, 1807, was succeeded by his son, William, the present and 2d lord.

Heir Presumptive—THOMAS, only brother of his lordship.

Creation—Oct. 20, 1797.

Motto—Aimez loyauté. Love loyalty.

Arms—See Plate 28.

JOHN WODEHOUSE, BARON WODEHOUSE, of Kimberley, co. Norfolk; a Baronet, and Recorder of Falmouth; born in April, 1741; married, in March, 1769, Sophia, only child of Charles Berkeley, of Bruton Abbey, co. Somerset, brother to lord Berkeley, of Stratton, (whose title became extinct in 1773), by whom he has issue, John, m. Nov. 18, 1796, Miss Norris, only daughter of the late John Norris, of Wilton Park, in Norfolk, esq. and has issue—Philip, a captain R.N. and a commissioner of the navy-office, b. in 1773—Armine, b. in 1796—William, b. Aug. 4, 1782, in holy orders, M.A. rector of Carleton-Forehouse, Itteringham, and Mannington, co. Norfolk; m. Feb. 11, 1807, the eldest daughter of Thomas Hussey, of Galtrim, in Ireland, esq. (by lady Catharine, eldest daughter of Horatio Walpole, earl of Orford)—Sophia, b. Dec. 26, 1769—Letitia, b. in 1774; m. Nov. 30, 1811, sir Thomas Maynard Hesilrigge, bart.—Frances, d. young—and Frances, b. June 21, 1779.

The family of Wodehouse is of great antiquity, one of them having received knighthood in the time of Henry I. from whom descended John Wodehouse, who attended Henry V. in 1415, to the battle of Agincourt, when, for his valour, he was distinguished by the king with a pension, and other honours, and as a perpetual mark, had assigned him the crest now borne by the family, as well as the arms and supporters. From him descended (by intermarriages with some of the first families) sir Armine Wodehouse, bart. who d. May 2, 1777, having m. Letitia, eldest daughter and co-heiress of sir Edmund Bacon, bart. and by her (who d. in March, 1759) he had issue, 4 sons, viz. Edmund, who d. in 1755—John, the present lord, who represented the county of Norfolk in 2 parliaments, and was created baron Wodehouse, of Kimberley, in Norfolk, Oct. 26, 1797—Philip, b. in May, 1745, in holy orders, A.M. prebendary of Norwich, and rector of Ingham, co. Norfolk, d. Feb. 14, 1811, having m. July 29, 1775, Apollonia, daughter and co-heir of John Nourse, of Woodeaton, co. Pembroke, esq. and sister to John, lord Cawdor.

Heir Apparent—JOHN, his lordship's son.

Creation—Oct. 26, 1797.

Motto—Agincourt.

Arms—See Plate 28.

JOHN RUSHOUT, BARON NORTHWICK, of Northwick Park, co. Worcester, and a Baronet; succeeded his father John, the late lord, Oct. 20, 1800.

The family of the Roualts, as their names are generally spelt, possessed large estates in Picardy and Normandy, and were related to the dukes of Normandy: before the conquest they bore the same arms as the three first kings of that race. Henry the Second, in right of his wife, enjoyed large possessions in France; among the rest, the duchies of Aquitaine and Poitou; and added a third lion, as the arms of one of those provinces, to the arms of England, on which account the family of Roualt assumed the present motto, viz. Par ternis sup-par, The two are equal in antiquity to the three. This family is often mentioned by the French historians to have taken an active part in the service of their country, particularly in the military line. They appear to have been related to the houses of Bourbon, Montmorency, and many other of the first families, not only in France, but other parts of the continent. A full account count of the ancestor of the present family is given in Moreri's Dictionary, article Gammache; he appears greatly to have distinguished himself; commanded the army, and was appointed constable of France; an office which was considered as next to the king, but of late years has been disused, from the circumstance of its giving more power than was prudent to be lodged in the hands of a subject. Nicholas de Gammache is mentioned by Sully, as being one of the five protestant noblemen who escaped the massacre of St. Bartholomew, in consideration of being related to Catherine de Medici, as mentioned by other historians.

It is presumed, after Henry X. ascended the throne, this family, for political reasons, changed their religion: they enjoyed their possessions in France till the late revolution broke out. It appears in St. Simon's Memoirs, that a marquess de Gammache was governor to the dukes of Burgundy and Berry in the reign of Louis XIV. The compte de Roualt, of this family, commanded a body of five thousand horse under the duke of Brunswick. When this expedition failed, the melancholy events which soon followed, obliged him to leave his country, and seek an asylum in England, which has so generally provided a protection for the unfortunate. The younger branch of this family, from whom the present Gammache is descended, lived in Flanders for a few years; but in the reign of James I. John Rushout, (who seems to have changed his name in conformity to the pronunciation of the Flemish) came into England. He m. Anne Goodhale, of the county of Essex, by whom he had several children; his son James succeeded to the estate; he was created a baronet by Charles II.; at the revolution he raised a regiment in support of king William, and was elected knight of the shire for the county of Worcester. He m. Miss Pitt, or Pytts, of Harrow, and left 2 sons and 3 daughters, viz. James and John—the daughters were Alice, who m. into the Sandys' family, of Ombersley—the 2d daughter m. Edmund Pytts, esq.—and Elizabeth, the 3d, was 2d wife to George, 4th earl of Northampton. Of the sons, James, the eldest, left one son, who d. a minor—his brother John then succeeded; he m. Anne

Compton, daughter of George, 4th earl of Northampton, (ancestor of the present marquess of Northampton) and d. March 2, 1775, aged 90 years, leaving one son, John, the 1st lord, created a peer, Oct. 26, 1797; b. July 12, 1749; m. June 8, 1766, Rebecca, daughter of Humphrey Bowles, of Wanstead, co. Essex, esq. and had issue, viz. John, the present lord—George, in holy orders; m. Jan. 10, 1803, Caroline Stewart, daughter to John, 8th earl Galloway, K.T. and has a daughter, b. Oct. 26, 1803—Anne—Henrietta, m. Feb. 13, 1808, sir Charles Cockerell, of Sezincote, co. Gloucester, bart. and has issue—and Elizabeth, b. Dec. 6, 1774; m. in June 1797, to Sydney Bowles, esq. and had 2 daughters. His lordship d. Oct. 20, 1800, and was succeeded by his son John, the present and 2d lord.

Heir Presumptive—The Hon. and Rev. GEORGE RUSHOUT, his lordship's only brother.

Creations—Baronet, 1661; Baron, Oct. 26, 1797.

Motto—Par ternis suppar. The two are equal in antiquity to the three.

Arms—See Plate 28.

THOMAS POWYS, BARON LILFORD, co. Northampton; born April 8, 1775; succeeded his father, Thomas, the late lord, Jan. 26, 1800; married, Dec. 5, 1797, Anna-Maria, eldest daughter and heiress of Robert Vernon Atherton, of Atherton Hall, co. Lancaster, esq.

His lordship's ancestor sir Thomas Powys, knt. of Lilford, co. Northampton, b. in 1649, a judge of the queen's bench in 1713, was the 2d son of Thomas Powys, of Henley, co. Salop, serjeant at law, by Anne, daughter of sir Adam Lyttleton, of Stoke Milburgh, bart.; sir Thomas was appointed solicitor-general in 1686; attorney-general in 1687; prime serjeant at law, 1702; and a judge of the queen's bench 1713; m. 1st, Sarah, daughter of Ambrose Holbech, of Mollington, co. THOMAS LISTER, BARON RIBBLESDALE, of Gisburne Park, in the West Riding of the county of York, LL.D. and Colonel of the Craven legion; born March 22, 1752; married, in 1789, Rebecca, daughter of Joseph Fielding, esq. of the kingdom of Ireland, by Elizabeth, daughter of Christopher Jackson, esq. of Nottinghamshire, and by her has Thomas, b. Jan. 23, 1790—Catharine, b. Dec. 23, 1793, m. Sept. 4, 1810, James-Skurr Day, of Burnett, co. Somerset, esq.—and Rebecca-Adelaide, b. Aug. 31, 1800.

The possessions of this noble family upon the borders of the river which gives origin to the title, are by descent of extraordinary antiquity, the present possessor being the 17th in a direct male line from 6 Edw. II. A.D. 1312, and by an heiress of the house of Bolton, to whom John, son of sir Thomas Lister, of Derby, knt. was m. at that period, through the illustrious families, it is believed, of Clare, Gant, and Roumare, from the old Saxon earls of Mercia; William de Roumare, one of the great Norman barons, having, after the conquest, m. Lucy, sister and heiress of Edwin, the last earl, and thereby possessing, as it is quoted by sir William Dugdale, “Cravennam, et Couplandiam, et Allerdale, et Cockeram, jure hereditario.” Mon. t. i. p. 798.

Of the house of Lister, whose chief residence has been in the same parish of Gisburne, in Craven, for five hundred years, the limits of our work only enable us to go back to Thomas, grandfather of the present peer, who was b. Oct. 8, 1688; and on the death of his father, Thomas, in 1706, during his minority, succeeded to the family estates. In 1710, he was elected member of parliament for Clithero, for which place he sat afterwards in the several successive parliaments of 1713, 1715, 1722, 1722, 1727, 1734, and 1741, till his death, on May 22, 1745. In 1716, he m. Catharine, daughter and co-heiress of sir Ralph Asheton, of Whalley, bart. by which lady, who d. in 1728, he had 2 sons and 3 daughters, Catharine, Mary, and Anne; which daughters all dying un-m. their fortunes went to their youngest brother, Nathaniel, b. June 8, 1725, who purchasing Armitage Park, co. Stafford, he settled there, and m. Martha, daughter and co-heiress of John Fletcher, of Lichfield, esq. and by her (who d. Dec. 1811) had 2 sons and 4 daughters: John, son and heir, lately an officer in the 1st regiment of dragoon-guards—Thomas—Mary, m. Oldershaw Clark, esq.—Catharine, m. Nugent Dunbar, esq. related to the late marchioness of Buckingham—Martha—and Charlotte, m. in Jan. 1808, Augustus Bulstrode, esq. of the 3d regiment of foot-guards. Upon the death of his elder brother, in 1761, this Nathaniel was elected member for Clithero, and continued to represent it in that and the succeeding parliament of 1768 till 1773, and d. Dec. 28, 1793.

The above Thomas was succeeded in his estates by his son and heir, Thomas, b. Jan. 19, 1723; and on his father's death, in 1775, elected also his successor in the representation of the borough of Clithero, for which place he was again chosen at the general elections in 1747, 1754, and 1761. He m. Beatrix, daughter of Jessop Hulton, of Hulton Park, co. Lancaster, esq. and by her (who d. on Dec. 5, 1774) had Thomas, the present lord Ribblesdale, who was advanced to the peerage Oct. 26, 1797, and 2 daughters; the youngest of whom Katharine, b. in Aug. 1754, d. in Sept. 1762—and Beatrix, b. Nov. 25, 1749, m. the late John Parker, of Browshire, esq. and has issue, 6 sons, Thomas, Edward, John, Charles, Henry, and William. The above Thomas, father of the present nobleman, d. Nov. 28, 1761.

Heir Apparent—THOMAS, his lordship's son.

Creation—October 26, 1797.

Motto—Retinens vestigia famæ. Retracing the achievements of an honourable ancestry.

Arms—See Plate 28.

FRANCIS.

FRANCIS-HUMBERSTONE MACKENZIE, LORD SEAFORTH, Baron Mackenzie, of Kintail, co. Ross, so created Oct. 26, 1796; F.R.S. and F.L.S. a Lieutenant-general in the army, and Lord-lieutenant of Ross-shire: b. June 9, 1754; married, Mary, daughter of the Rev. Baptist Proby, uncle to John-Joshua, earl of Carysfort, and has issue, William-Frederick—George-Levison Boucheret—Francis-John, d. Nov. 7, 1813—Mary-FredERICA-Elizabeth, m. in 1804, sir Samuel Hood, bart. His Majesty was pleased to grant an annuity of 2000*l.* per annum to her ladyship, and the two next succeeding male heirs of sir Ralph Abercromby, K.B. on whom the barony shall descend, during the term of their natural lives.

Sir Ralph Abercromby was commander-in-chief of the British army in Egypt, and received a mortal wound in an action near Alexandria, March 21, 1801. The following just tribute to his memory is extracted from the London Gazette, from lieutenant-general Hutchinson, (now lord Hutchinson), dated, Head-Quarters, Camp, 4 miles from Alexandria, April 3, 1801.

“We have sustained an irreparable loss in the person of our never sufficiently to be lamented commander-in-chief, sir Ralph Abercromby, who was mortally wounded in the action, and died on the 28th of March. I believe he was wounded early, but he concealed his situation from those about him, and continued in the field giving giving his orders with that coolness and perspicuity which had ever marked his character, till long after the action was over, when he fainted through weakness and loss of blood. Were it permitted for a soldier to regret any one who has fallen in the service of his country, I might be excused for lamenting him, more than any other person; but it is some consolation to those who tenderly loved him, that, as his life was honourable, so was his death glorious. His memory will be recorded in the annals of his country—will be sacred to every British soldier, and embalmed in the recollection of a grateful posterity.”

The father of the late gallant sir Ralph Abercromby was George Abercromby, of Tullibody, esq. who m. Mary, daughter of Ralph Dundas, of Manour, esq. and had issue, 1. Sir Ralph Abercromby, who m. Mary-Anne, daughter of John Menzies, of Fernton, in the county of Perth, esq. created baroness Abercromby, as above—2. Burnet—3. Sir Robert, K.B. a general in the army, colonel of the 75th regiment of foot, and governor of Edinburgh Castle—and, 4. Alexander, d. in 1795.

Heir Apparent—GEORGE ABERCROMBY, eldest son of the baroness.

Creation—May 28, 1801.

Dec. 22, 1801; 17. Edward-Andrew, b. Jan. 2, 1802.

John Middleton, earl of Middleton, lord Clermont, and Fettercairn, in Scotland, was elevated to those honors in 1660, by Charles II. for his eminent military services as lieutenant-general of horse in the royal armies. The earl was succeeded by his son, Charles, lord Clermont and Fettercairn, 2d earl of Middleton, who was appointed ambassador to the court of Vienna, and one of the principal secretaries of state to Charles II. but forfeited his honors in 1695, by following the fortunes of James II. to France, where he died in the chief management of affairs at the court of St. Germain.

Alexander Middleton, D.D. professor in the King's College, Aberdeen, and principal thereof, was the younger brother of the 1st earl of Middleton, and great grandfather of the first lord Barham. He died in 1684, leaving issue, 1. George Middleton, DD. also principal of the college of Aberdeen, m. Janet, daughter of James Gordon, of Seaton, co. Lothian, and d. in 1726, leaving issue, Robert Middleton, collector of the customs at Borrowstonness, m. Helen Dundas, granddaughter of sir James Dundas, of Arniston, and had issue, 1st. George, m. Miss Wilson, and d. in 1797, leaving issue, Charles, R.N. d. unm.; Robert-Gambier, captain R.N. m. Elizabeth, daughter of John-Martin Leake, esq. of Thorpe Hall, co. Essex; George, d. an infant; Helen, m. Roderick M'Leod, D.D. rector of Wealy, co. Essex; Janet, m. in 1793, John Thompson, naval officer at Leith; and Wilhelmina, d. unm.;—2. Charles.

Sir Charles Middleton, the 1st lord Barham, 2d son of Robert Middleton and Helen Dundas, b. at Leith, in October 1726, and entered at an early age into the royal navy; and while commander of a 20 gun ship in the West Indies, by his spirited assiduity took and destroyed a considerable number of French privateers, and afforded such effectual protection to trade and commerce, that the house of assembly of Barbadoes voted him their thanks and a valuable sword; in 1758 he was made a post-captain; in 1778, comptroller of the navy; created a baronet Oct. 23, 1781, with remainder to his son-in-law, Gerard-Noel Noel, the present bart.; in 1784, member for Rochester; in 1787, promoted to the rank of rear-admiral; vice-admiral in 1795; admiral of the red squadron of his Majesty's fleet, in 1805; and in the same year, first lord of the admiralty, sworn of the privy counsel, and created a peer of the realm by the title of baron Barham, by patent, dated April 27, with remainder to his only child, Diana, the present baroness, wife of Sir Gerard-Noel Noel, bart. His lordship m. Margaret, 2d daughter of James Gambier, counsellor at law, sister to the late vice-admiral Gambier, aunt to lord Gambier; sir James Gambier, knt. consul-general to the court of Lisbon, Susan, lady Wake, and Sophia, late countess of Romney; and by her (who d. 1792,) had issue, an only daughter and heiress, Diana, m. as above. His lordship d. June 17, 1813, and was succeeded, according to the limitation of the patent, by the hon. Diana Noel, now baroness of Barham in her own right.

Heir Apparent—The Hon. CHARLES-NOEL NOEL, Knight of the shire for Rutland.

Creation—April 27, 1805.

Arms—See Plate 32.

THOMAS ERSKINE, LORD ERSKINE, BARON ERSKINE, of Restormel Castle, in the duchy of Cornwall, Feb. 8, 1806, married, March 29, 1770, Frances, daughter of Daniel Moore, esq. M.P. for Great Marlow, [co. Bucks, and by her (who d. Dec. 26, 1805,) had issue, 1. Frances, m. Jan. 20, 1802, the rev. Dr. Holland, rector of Poynings, co. issue, a daughter, b. Jan. 30, 1814—6. Henry-David—7. Thomas—and 8. Esme-Stewart.

His lordship is the 3d and youngest son of Henry-David Erskine, 10th earl of Buchan, in the Peerage of Scotland, who d. in 1767, leaving issue, 1. lady Anne-Agnes Erskine, who d. unm. in Oct. 1804—2. David-Stewart Erskine, the present earl of Buchan, baron Cardross, of Monteth and Auchterhouse, in the county of Perth, and of Dryburgh Abbey, in the county of Berwick—3. The hon. Henry Erskine, M.P. for the royal boroughs of Jedburgh, Haddington, Dunbar, North Berwick, and Lauder, and lord-advocate of Scotland, in 1807—4. The hon. Thomas Erskine, now baron Erskine, &c. &c.—5. lady Isabella Erskine, now the widowed countess of the right hon. and rev. John Cunningham, 18th and last earl of Glencairn, which title became extinct in 1796.

For a short sketch of the noble and royal ancestry of his lordship, see EARL of BUCHAN, in the Peerage of Scotland. We must refer also to the pages of Scottish and English history, as a record of the high situations of public trust, which his lordship's forefathers have filled, in the confidence of their respective sovereigns, as their privy-counsellors and ambassadors; as their guardians and instructors during minority; and as lord high-treasurers and regents of the kingdom of Scotland.

The present is not a restoration of the ancient barony, which, with the earldom of Mar, was forfeited in 1716, and of which, if restored, another branch of the same family, the Erskines of Mar, would be the rightful heirs, as lineal descendants of the last baron Erskine, of Scotland. This new barony was conferred upon his lordship in consequence of the high office he was called upon to fill in the councils of his sovereign, and in the government of the country, in Feb. 1806. His lordship retains, however, the name of his family; a name which he has himself ennobled, by great talents sedulously employed in the courts of judicature, and, above all, by unshaken fidelity, during all the political storms of the present era, to the sacred cause of constitutional liberty.

Lord

Lord Erskine was called to the bar in 1778, and in 1783, was called within the bar of the Court of King's Bench, with a patent of precedence, and in the same year was appointed attorney-general to the Prince of Wales, on his Royal Highness's obtaining his establishment on coming of age. His lordship also, in the same year, was elected a representative in parliament for Portsmouth, and was unanimously re-chosen for the same borough on every succeeding election, until he was raised to the dignity of the peerage. In 1802, his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who some years before had been advised to remove lord Erskine from the office of his attorney-general, for refusing to give up a professional retainer at the bar, on the trial of Thomas Paine; not only restored him to the office, but revived that of Chancellor to his Royal Highness, which had been dormant from the decease of Frederick Prince of Wales, and appointed Mr. Erskine by patent, and at the same time keeper of the seals of the duchy of Cornwall; who continued chancellor to the Prince of Wales to the 8th of Feb. 1800, when he was appointed lord high-chancellor of Great Britain, and soon afterwards presided in the great hall of Westminster, as the speaker of the House of Lords on the trial of Henry Dundas, viscount Melville. In 1804, when the ruler of the French people threatened England with invasion, his lordship, feeling (to use his own words in his late reply to the vote of thanks of the Law Association) "a just reverence and affection for the institutions of our ancestors, and a proper zeal to defend them against the invaders of our country," combined the military with his juridical and legislative character, and was, with one voice, and on its first formation, invited to command that highly respectable corps of volunteers.

The only other existing male collateral branches of his lordship's family, descended from Nicholas Gambier, who settled in England in 1690, are, sir James Gambier, knt. consul-general at the Brazils, son of his lordship's uncle, the late vice-admiral James Gambier; and the rev. James-Edward Gambier, rector of Langley, in the county of Kent, the latter of whom is the only male descendant of Henry, the youngest son of Nicholas Gambier, afore-mentioned.

His lordship went early to sea, was made a post-captain in 1778, and served till near the end of the American war. Soon after the commencement of the war in 1793, his lordship was appointed to the command of the Defence, of 74 guns, and was in the battle of the 1st of June 1794, under lord Howe; and his Majesty was graciously pleased to grant him, and some other officers of the fleet, gold medals, as a mark of his approbation of their conduct on that memorable occasion. His lordship was immediately afterwards appointed one of the colonels of marines, and to the command of the Prince George of 98 guns. In March, 1795, he was appointed

appointed one of the lords commissioners of the admiralty, under the naval administration of earl Spencer, in which situation he remained until Feb. 1801. In June 1795, he attained the rank of rear-admiral; in Feb. 1799, of vice-admiral; and in Nov. 1805, of admiral. Upon his quitting the admiralty-board, in Feb. 1801, he hoisted his flag on board the Neptune, as 3d in command of the Channel fleet. In this situation his lordship remained till April 1802, when he was appointed commander-in-chief of his Majesty's ships and vessels, and governor of Newfoundland. From that post he was called again to the board of admiralty, in May 1804, and continued there under the two naval administrations of viscount Melville and lord Barham, until the change of administration on Mr. Pitt's death, in Feb. 1806. In the month of April 1807, his lordship was a 3d time called to the board of admiralty, then formed under the administration of lord Mulgrave. On the 16th of July 1807, his lordship was appointed to the command of a fleet of 22 sail of the line, with a proportional number of frigates and small vessels, on a secret expedition to the Baltic, and sailed from Yarmouth, on the 26th of the same month, having under his convoy a numerous fleet of transports, with troops on board. The rapidity with which this great armament was fitted out, and sent to sea, is very remarkable. It has no example; and was a subject of astonishment to the nation at large, and to all Europe. The result of this expedition was the taking of Copenhagen, by the fleet under his lordship's command, and the army under the command of viscount Cathcart, and obtaining possession of the whole of the Danish fleet, and of the naval stores in the arsenal. On the 2d of Nov. his lordship returned to London, and resumed his seat at the admiralty-board. As a mark of approbation of his conduct in the expedition to the Baltic, his Majesty was graciously pleased to raise him to the dignity of the peerage.
